JOSEPH BRYAN LIBRARY

dedication

We the editors, with great respect and with even greater affection, dedicate the 1969 Whispers to who retires at the close of this session after serving the school in many capacities for 46 years. Since he joined the faculty, Mr. Latham has been an untiringly patient and sympathetic friend to students, and his singularly unruffled temperament has manifested itself at all times and in all places—who has ever seen him at a loss for the right word, or meeting a difficult situation other than with complete poise? His "real disasters," his cordial "sir," and his unfaltering warmness have brightened our lives, and later E.H.S. generations will be the poorer for not knowing him.

In Memoriam
Henry Norman
Chief Cook 1951—1968

Everyone knew him as "Big Henry." Big he was, in size and in his capacity to handle the skillful preparation of three meals a day for over three hundred students, faculty, and staff. Big he was also in his heart and in his genial, outgoing personality. Although few students came in direct contact with him except the waiters, we all felt that we knew him, and were grateful for his dependable artistry with the food we ate. He will be sorely missed, and not for his faithful service alone.

RICK BARDOLPH

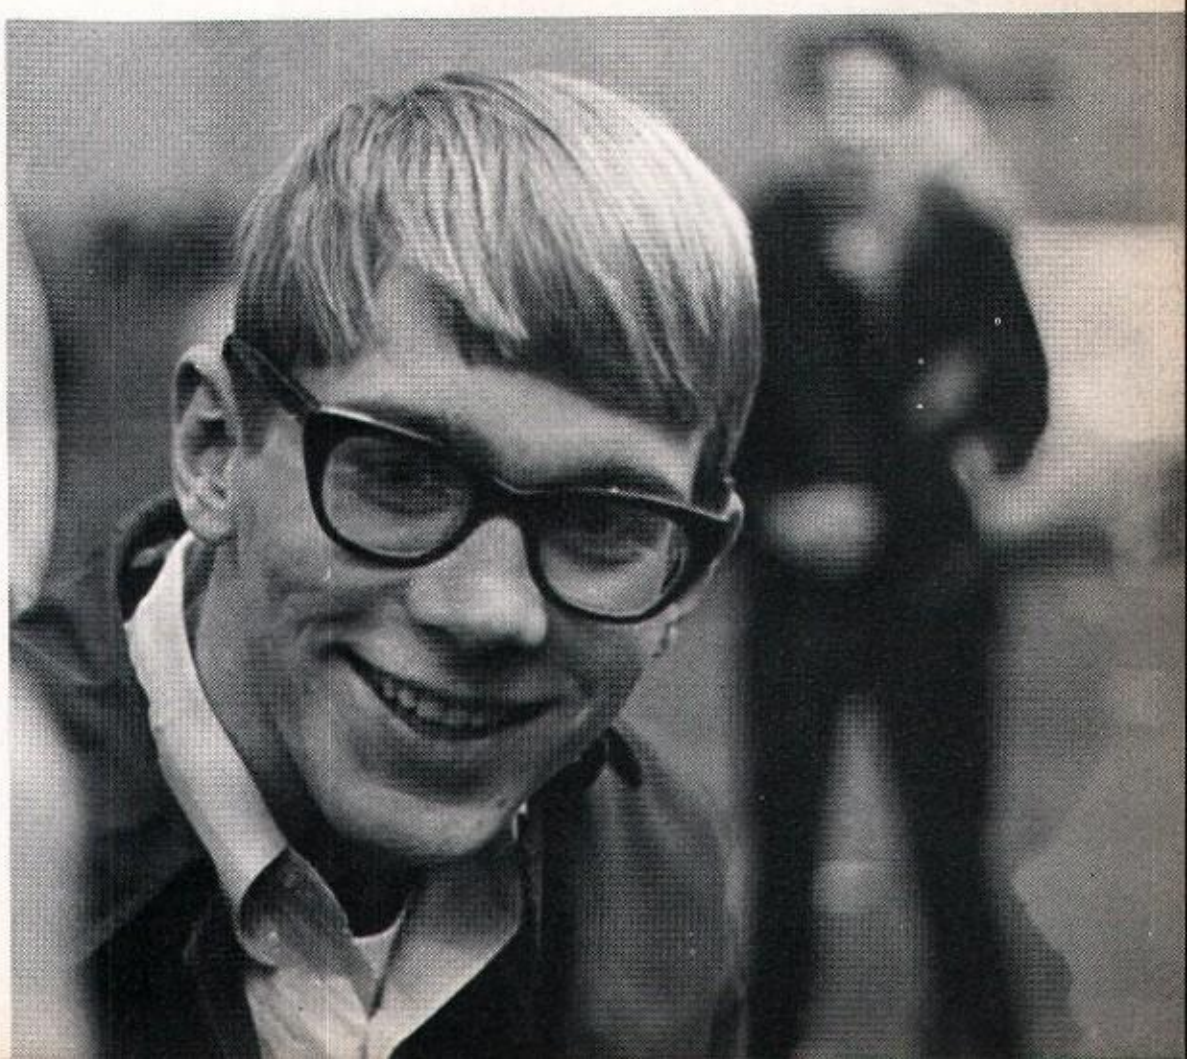
People usually can't stand to be in the same room with Rick for more than half an hour—dying of laughter can be very painful . . Yet "Baby Crane" is an active intellectual as well as E.H.S.'s court jester. While his voice (which can take on a thousand different guises) breaks out in pidgin Armenian, his eyes roam through mounds of textbooks. Rick takes his unique profile, his diverse talents, and his wit with him as he leaves, sliding away under the pavement, fingers first.

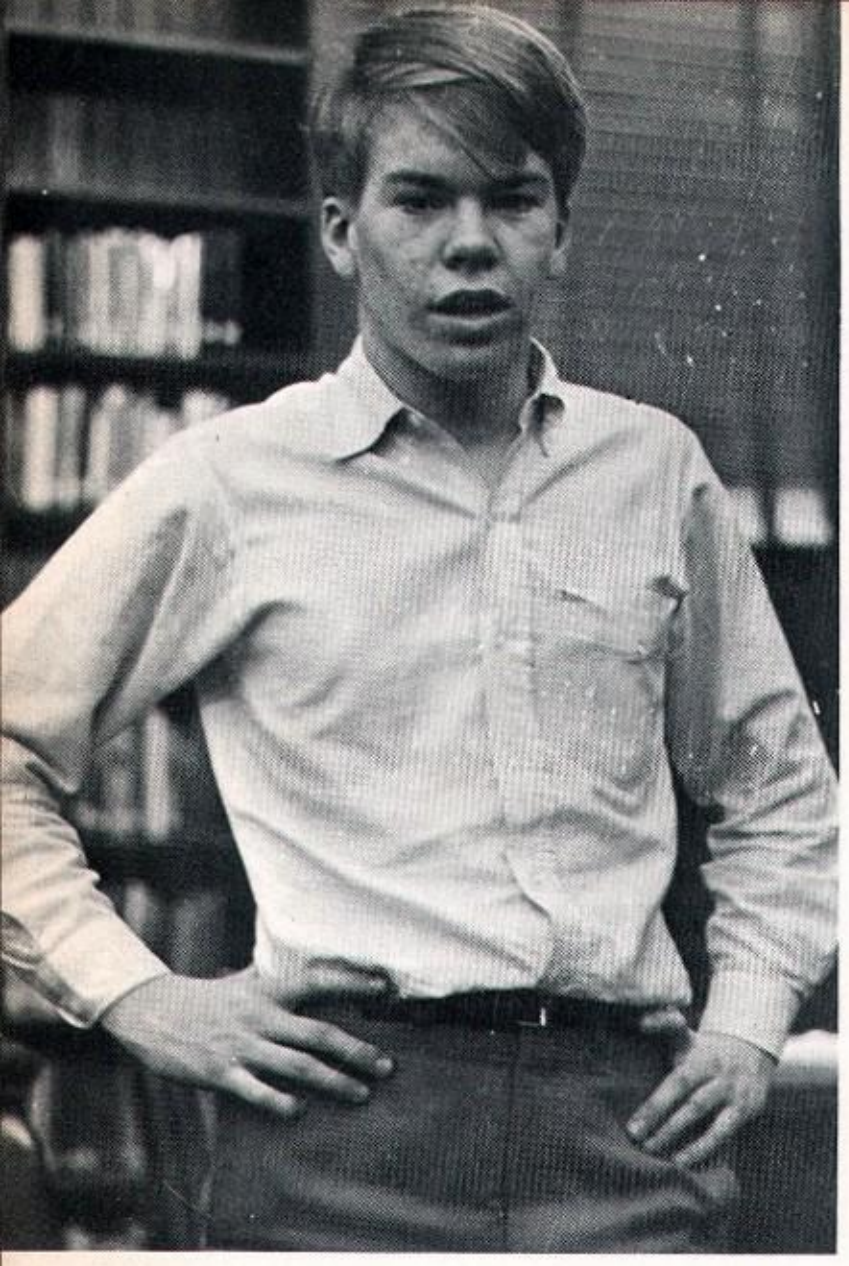
SCOTT BERGLAND

Possessing a loud hysterical laugh, shaggy blond hair, and a remarkably "good attitude," Scotty seems bent on the general obliteration of the human race. Cell's uncanny ability to break things and his quick flashes of temper are always followed by the innocent inquiry, "Gee, coach, what have I done now?" Despite his impulsive destructiveness and all of his typical "toad moves," Bergie has an unquenchable enthusiasm which adds a refreshing moment of madness to a dull day.

JOE BOYD

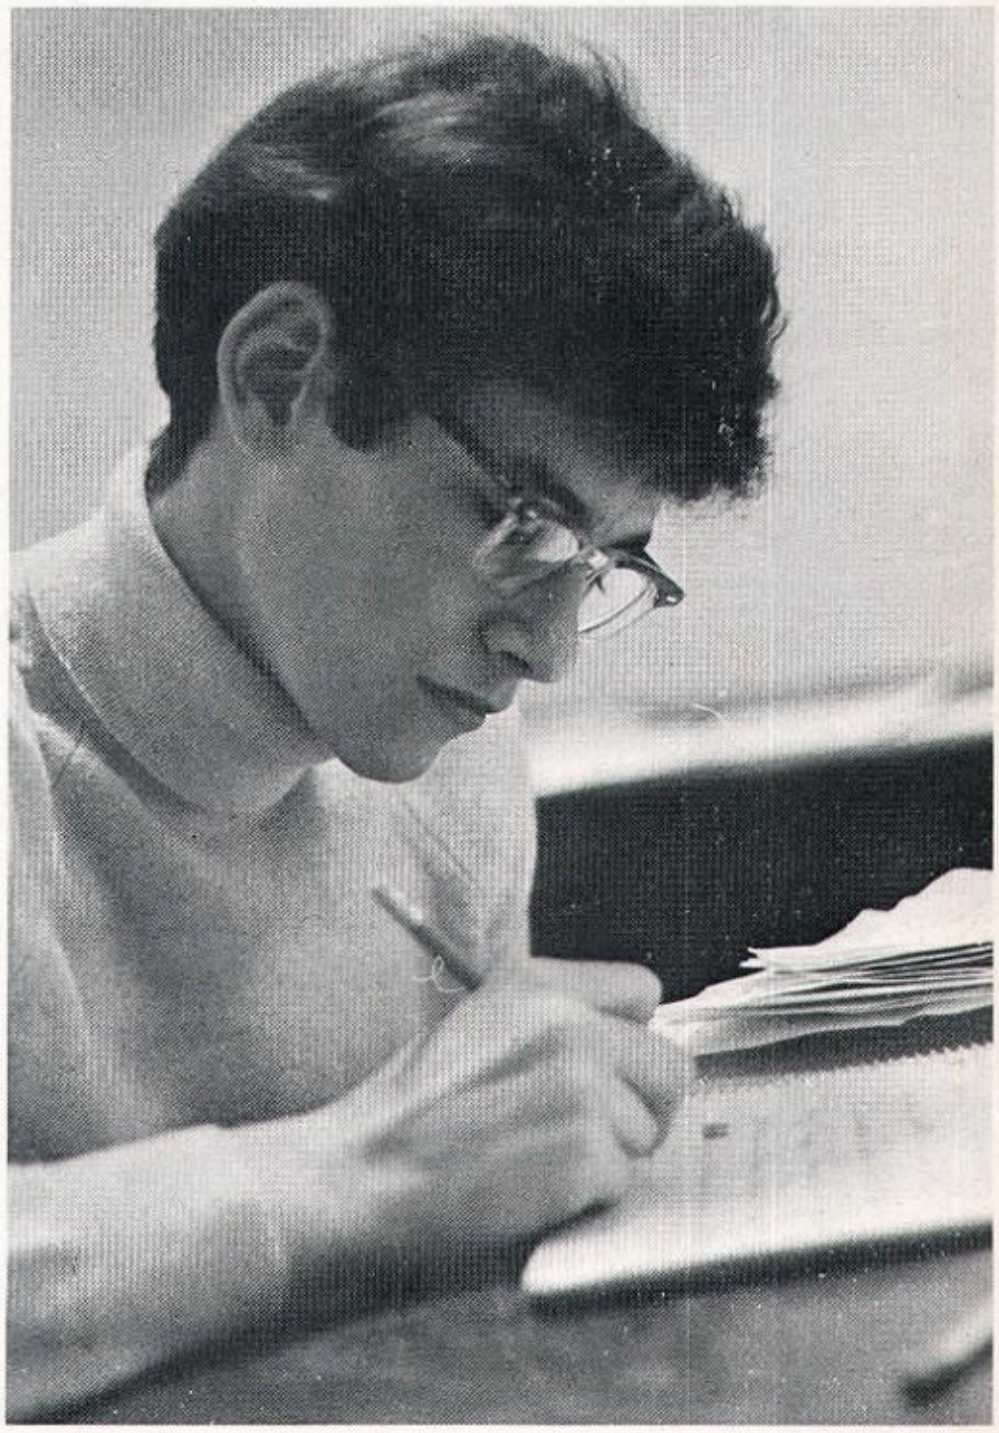
On a typical Sunday, Floyd's favorite activities are catapulting over a crossbar, rocketing golf balls across Quaker Lane, sledding down the front drive (snow or no snow), and swinging in his Third Mac cell. Joe Body's escapades on the day of rest give only a small indication of his weekday exploits. Kamikaze Joe is the epitome of reckless abandon; and life would be bland without his hair-raising tales. Stumpy, with a personality as lustrous as his favorite golf shirt, is bonded to his classmates by nothing but the most genuine affection.





ARCH BRADSHER

If one can manage to wade through "Y'ahtch's" stupefying barrage of all-but-unintelligible Roxboro lingo, he will find at its core a likeable young man possessed by an overpowering obsession with "cahs." Earnest and diligent, Arch is always working hard for every point, taking time out only for "moving and grooving" to his favorite soul piece. Arch will never win a commendation from Beau Brummell for his nattily casual attire, but he will certainly be heard from in years to come—maybe not understood, but heard from.



DAVID BUCHANAN

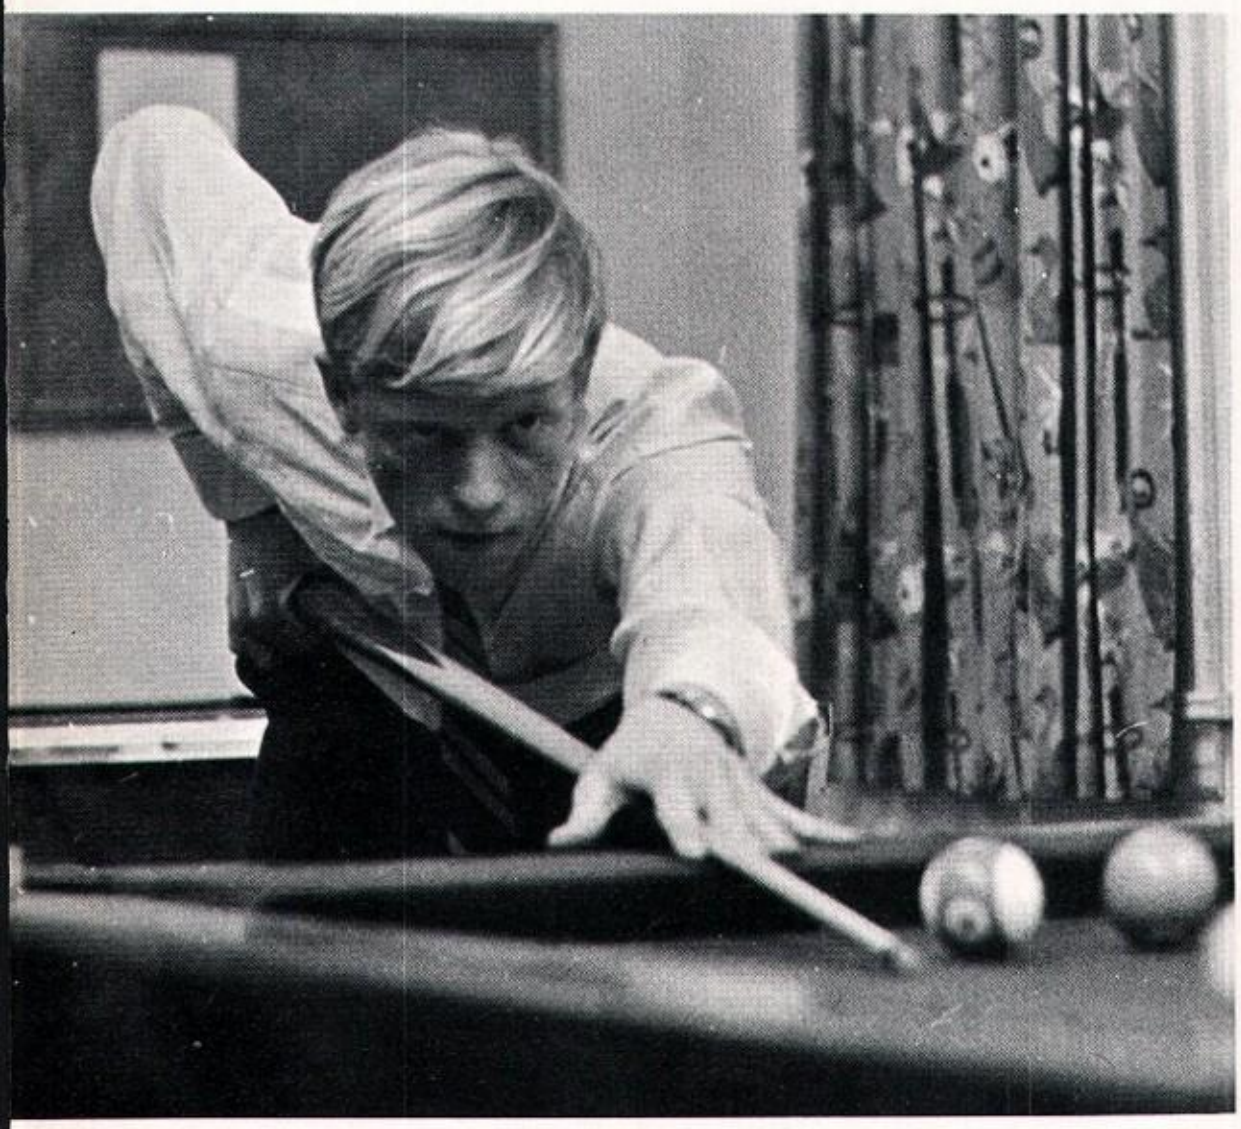
The quiet man whom everyone listens to has raised some impressive lumps on the status quo without raising his voice or his blood-pressure. A precocious revolutionary, Dave can advocate the butchering of sacred cows in the reasonable tone of "pass the butter." While they respect his intellectual powers and his sincere concern for the worlds he would make over, the faculty will doubtless express some relief, ruefully rubbing its forehead, as David departs, sling in hand.

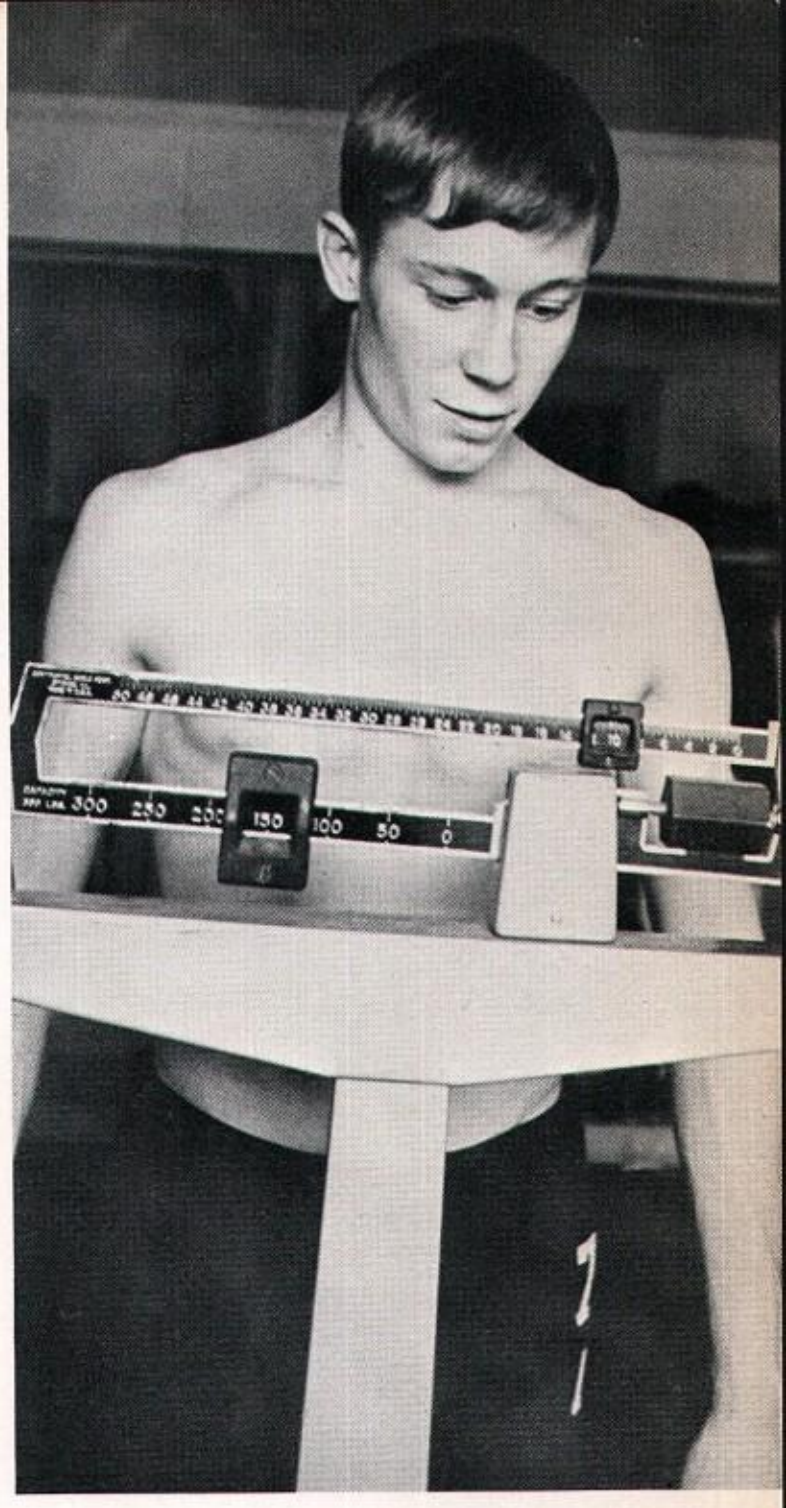
BAYLY BUCK

"Omigawd!" screams the Daily Duck in his fake Bronx accent, as the eight-ball drops in the wrong pocket. Some minor tragedy is always befalling our Friendly Goose, but he usually can recover, once he reaches the lacrosse field. In his rare serious moments Bayly can be quite philosophical, questioning anything from Administration to Creation; however, the most typical haunts of the Mad Duck are in the midst of riots, snowball fights, or dis in study hall—anything in the line of good-natured violence.

REED CARR

"Come on, you guys!" exhorts Reed, rallying his colleagues to protest the injustice of some unsypathetic master. With his pallid complexion, his skeletal physique, and his cynical-rock stare, Reed comes on as a tough guy, but under the hostile exterior he is really just an amiable chimp. No one can whine more pathetically than "Monkey Man" about the obstacles that strew his path, but close observation reveals that this is merely a tune he hums while going about his business. His list of accomplishments shows that he needs no one's sympathy.



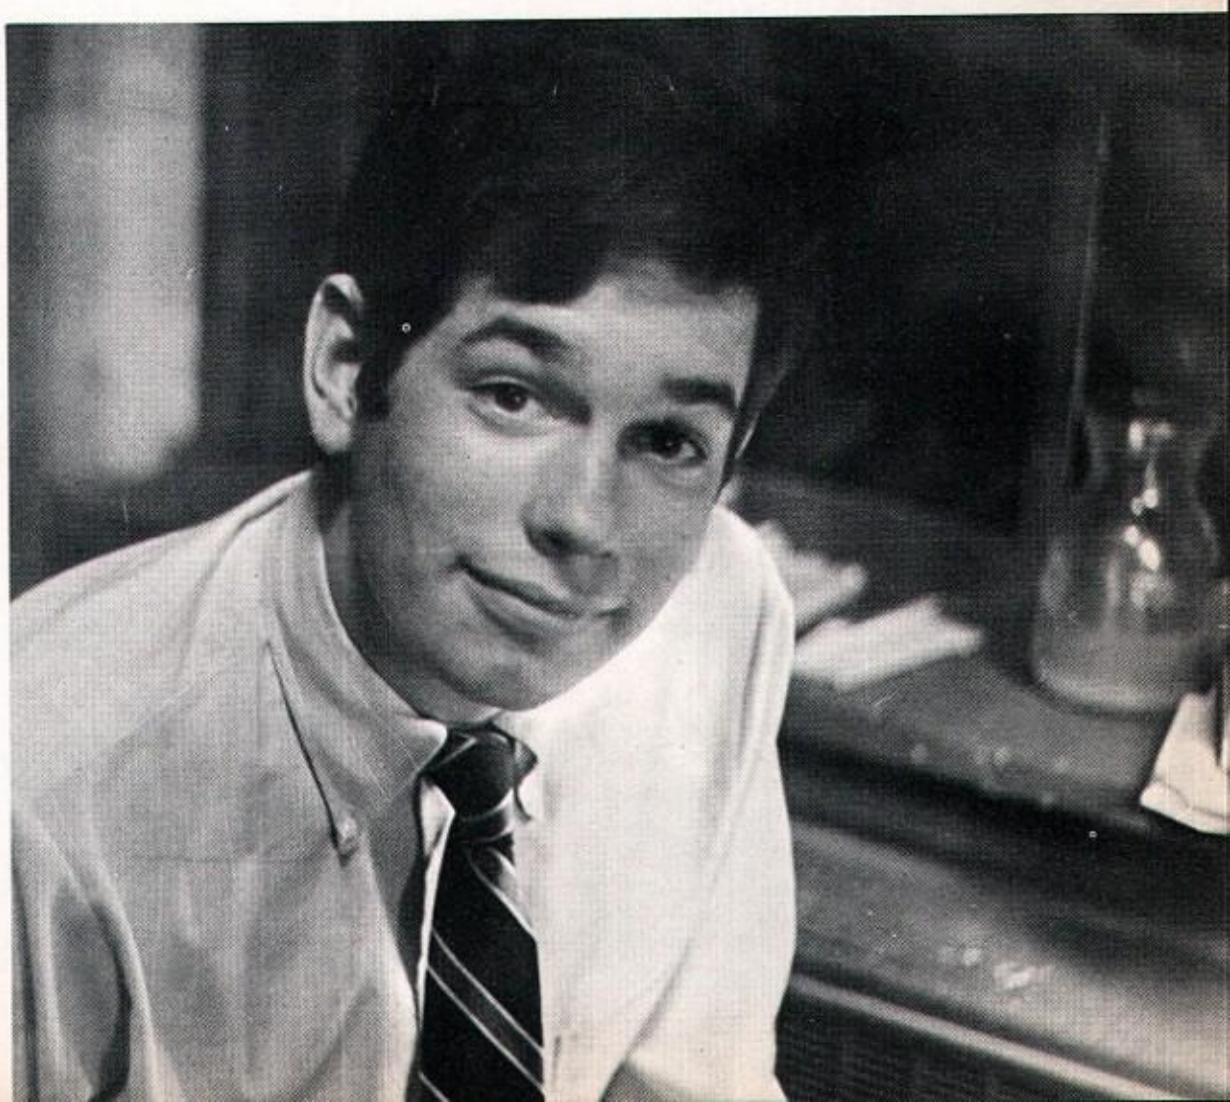


JOHN CATHCART

With a contemplative expression on his face, "Old Ackley" quietly buffs his cue stick and plays it straight—the E. H. S. way. His shining platinum locks and booming bass voice have often gained him attention which his retiring and pensive nature never sought, but he has learned to live with it. He has successfully altered the inside of his head to resemble one of his favorite computers, and as for the outside, only his hair-dresser knows for sure.

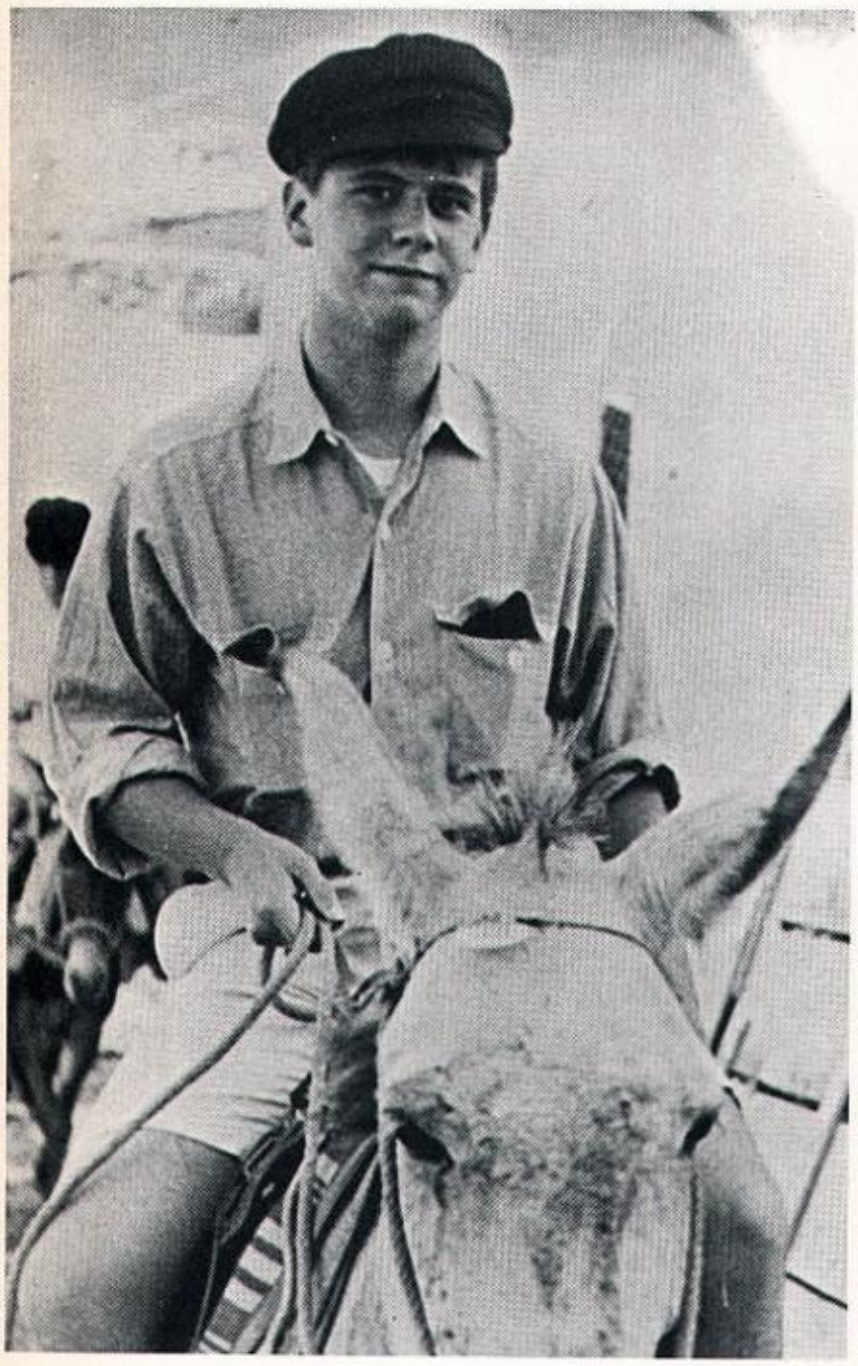
BO CHEATHAM

Sporting his UNC tie, his "think snow" tie-tac, and his Bulgarian ratskin fruit boots, Bo bursts into the room. There's nothing quiet about this young man. Whether cracking others' heads at football practice or his own against the wall, "The Boar" is equally unperturbed. Bo's boisterous, good-natured laughter and his steady companionship, coupled with his strong interest in the problems of others, have won him many long-lasting friends.



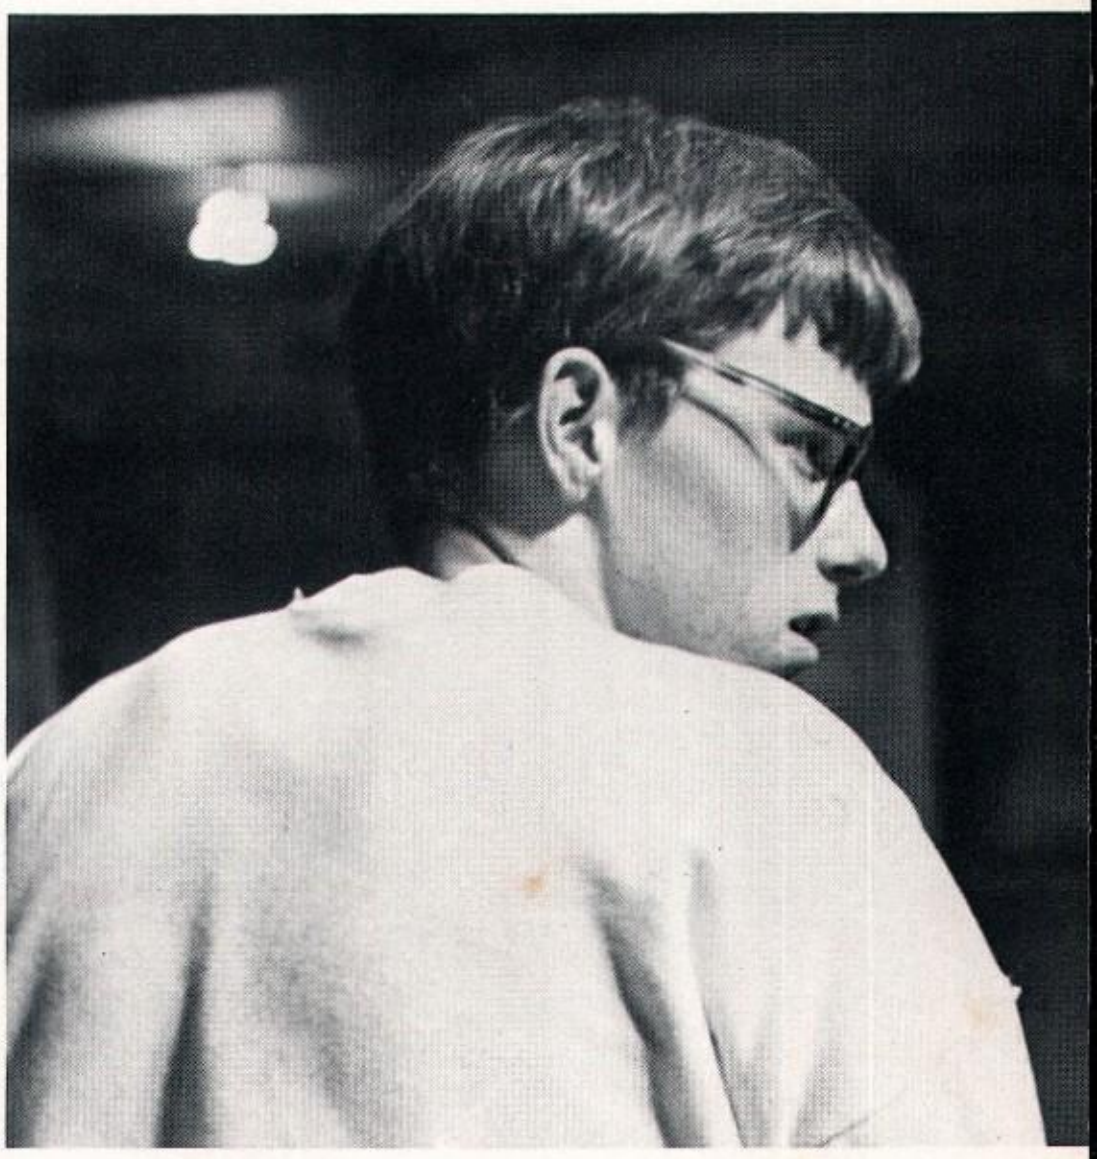
CHIP CHILDS

A Chip who is rarely down, the Kid views his many successes and rare failures with equal nonchalance. Naturally endowed with physical and mental assets, he has worked hard to improve both, in order to become a maximinded mini-brute. However he has always been aware enough of the perils of "all work and no play" to keep the two in balance. E.H.S. forbids wine and makes contact with women very difficult, but fortunately Chip likes to sing a lot—and he can dream.



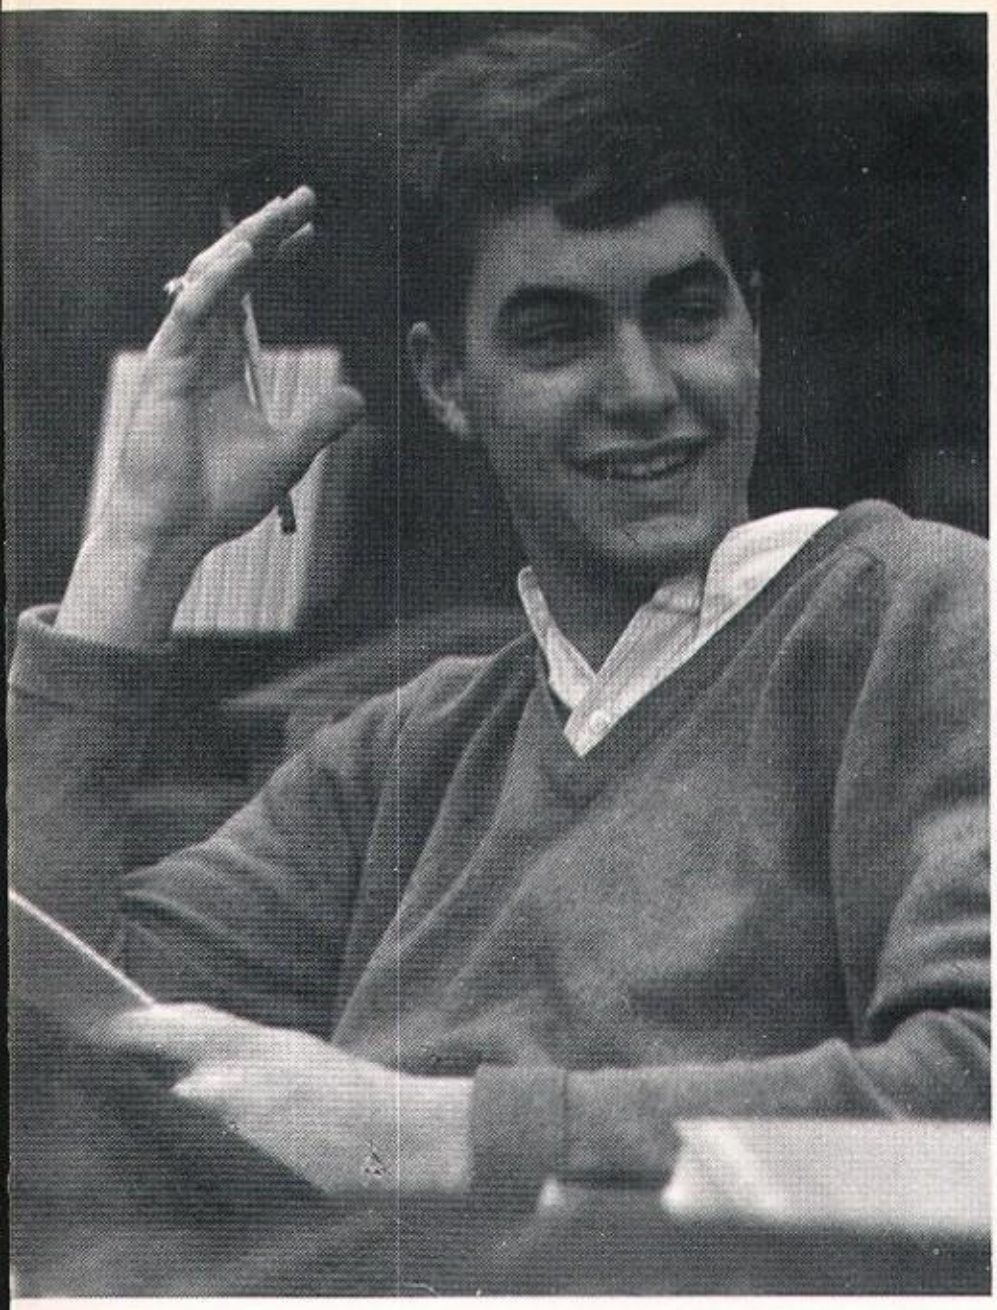
CHUCK CLAY

The originator of the most widely imitated style of humor in our community, Chuck has had a profound influence on various fads which have swept the school. Often plagued by matters which are "too much trouble," "Charlie" has nevertheless established himself as a capable and conscientious student, as well as a remarkable humorist. Charming, witty, and intelligent, "Good Guy Charlie" has also been among the foremost of socialites. A rare blend of qualities creates the aristocratic and attractive personality which has led to Chuck's success with classes and lasses.



MOFFETT COCHRAN

While he slowly mutters "No . . . I don't think so," a slight leer fleetingly spreads across the face of our pseudo-Wallace supporter, then disappears as quickly as his daily attire changes. Infamous for his symbolic drawings which frequently slip by the censors, Woody is equally renowned for his patented "fake-out" soccer moves. While keeping his "British stock-broker" appearance and reserve, Moffett will always challenge some conflicting attitude with a well-placed "I beg to differ."



SIM COZART

The Wiley Simeon, smiling dreamily, suddenly stirs himself from his compacency with a startled expression to ask, "Who, me?" A deeply dedicated member of the Joseph Bryan family, Sympathetic Sim is the person who always does what is needed before it is asked for, and then fades quietly from the scene, leaving only the evidence of his patient industry. As Sim treads softly away from the High School he leaves a mountain of work well done and a passel of friends.

GREG CRUZE

Guided by Epicurean philosophy, Greg provides many with a good time, but mostly himself. Dismissing serious thinkers and killjoys with his cynical sneer, "Yeah, you're probably right," this connoisseur of pleasure reaches his best form during his brief moments of respite from E.H.S. He has developed to an exceptional degree his talent for shooting the bull and snowing the chick, traits well calculated to make easier the endless party of life.

JESS ERWIN

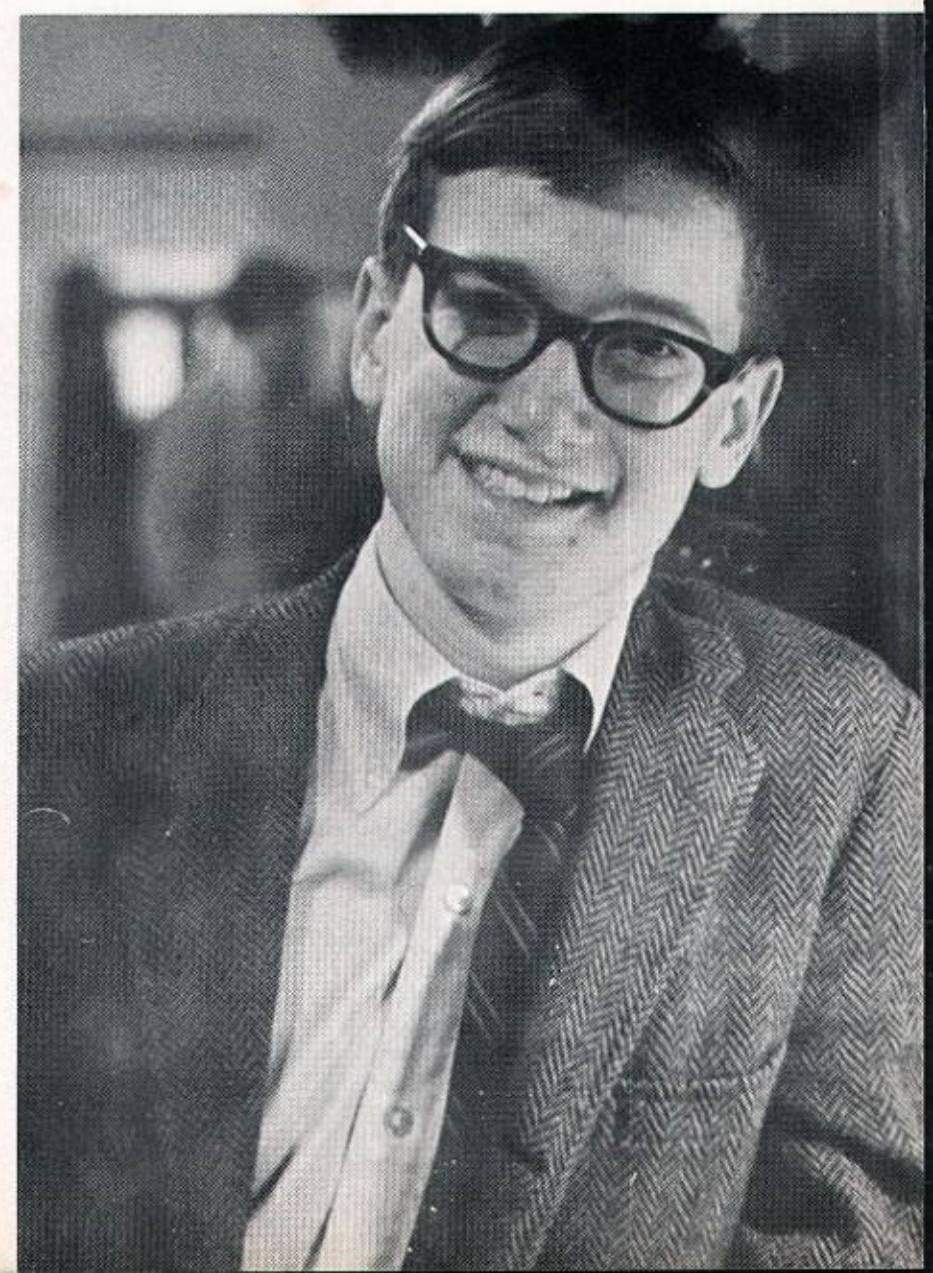
"Rudi," the effervescent man with a sure-fire line for every occasion, the aggressive advocate of soul-power, the king of the color-coordinated off-the-French-cuff sartorial splendor, has a flair for living that far surpasses the confines of a high school world. For the bumptious Mr. Erwin this is only an incidental part of a very big deal that seems to be always on the verge of completion. Jess is truly our "glass of fashion and mold of form."

BILL FRENCH

Torn between being a scholarly athlete and athletic scholar, Billy has decided just to be himself, hard-working or easy-going as the occasion calls for, with graduation and a flock of letters in the end. The tales of "Uncle Remus" may never make it into print, but these ever-changing accounts of his vacation experiences have become oral classics. In June the most talented throwing arm and hand in school, with football, baseball, or telephone, will receive a handshake and a diploma, and "The Kingfish" will be free to operate.

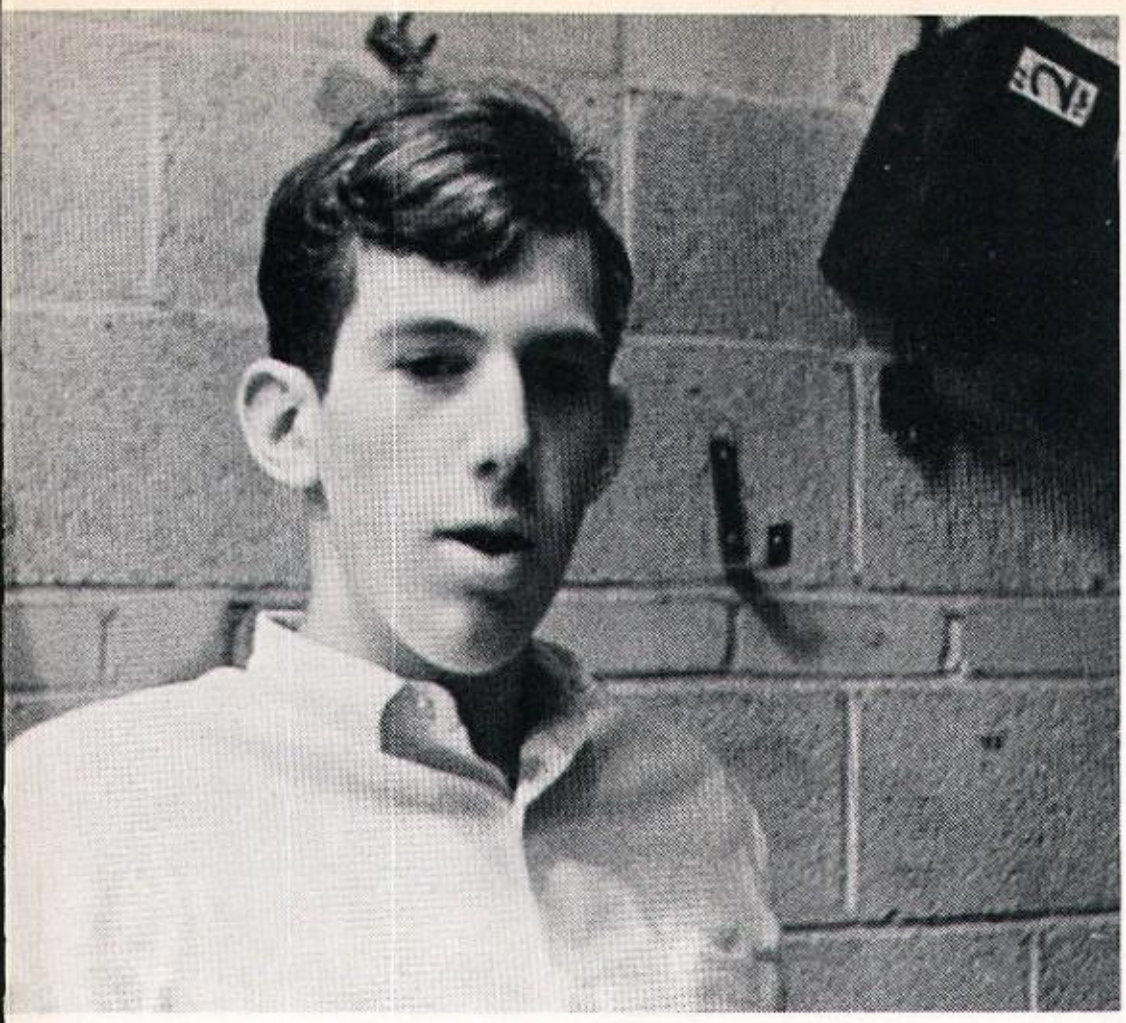
JOHN GENET

Among the tallest, sloppiest, and funniest of the residents of the High School, "Big John" has been a popular and inescapably noticeable figure. Always eager for "fat grunts" and "good grins," Jack has often allowed himself to be diverted from his less appealing academics. Although "Gillette" is occasionally flustered when confronted by such complexities as passing math or taking weekends, few problems are so big that he can not laugh them off.



CHARLIE GLENN

"And then this guy in a sports car chased me and my Volkswagen . . . " So goes one of Charlie's favorite stories which he finds time to relate between trips to the library. Although "Chunk" prefers to get an early start on the day's activities, his mind shows a keenness and quickness usually possessed only by those who sleep through breakfast. Despite his "worn-out professor" look, the school's leading advocate of "conch power" never seems to wear out his capacity for hard work.

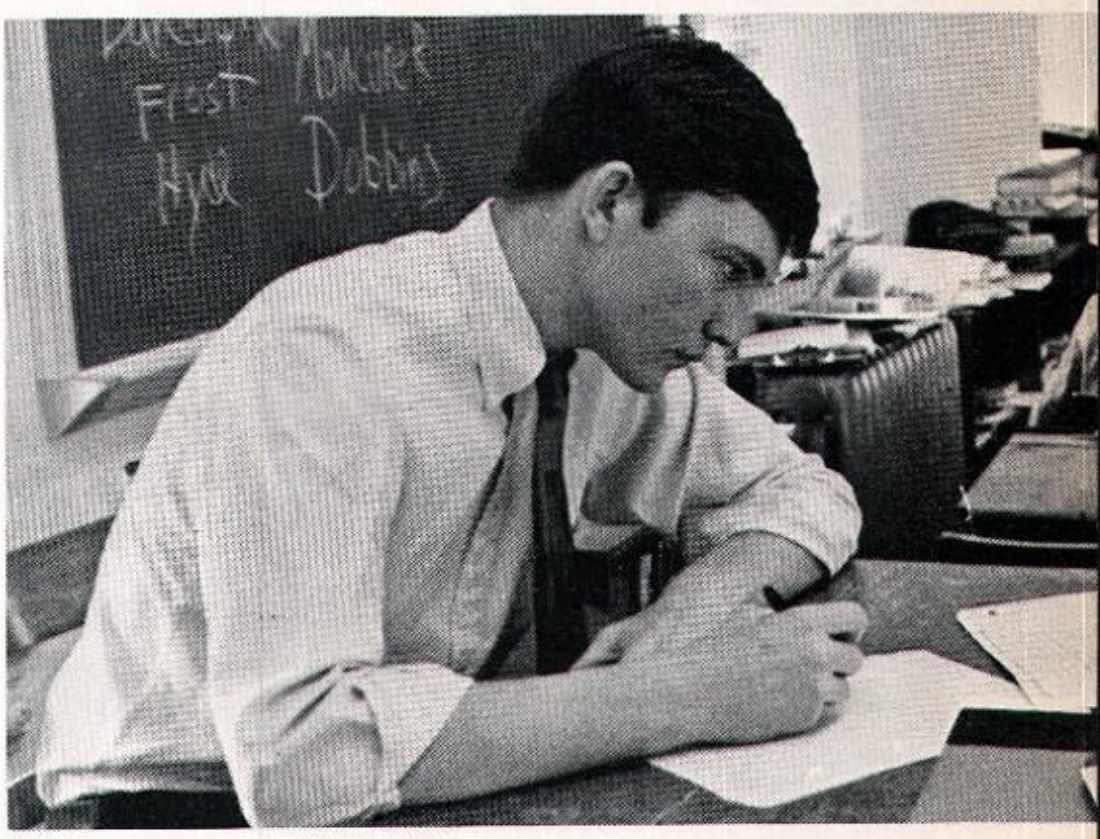


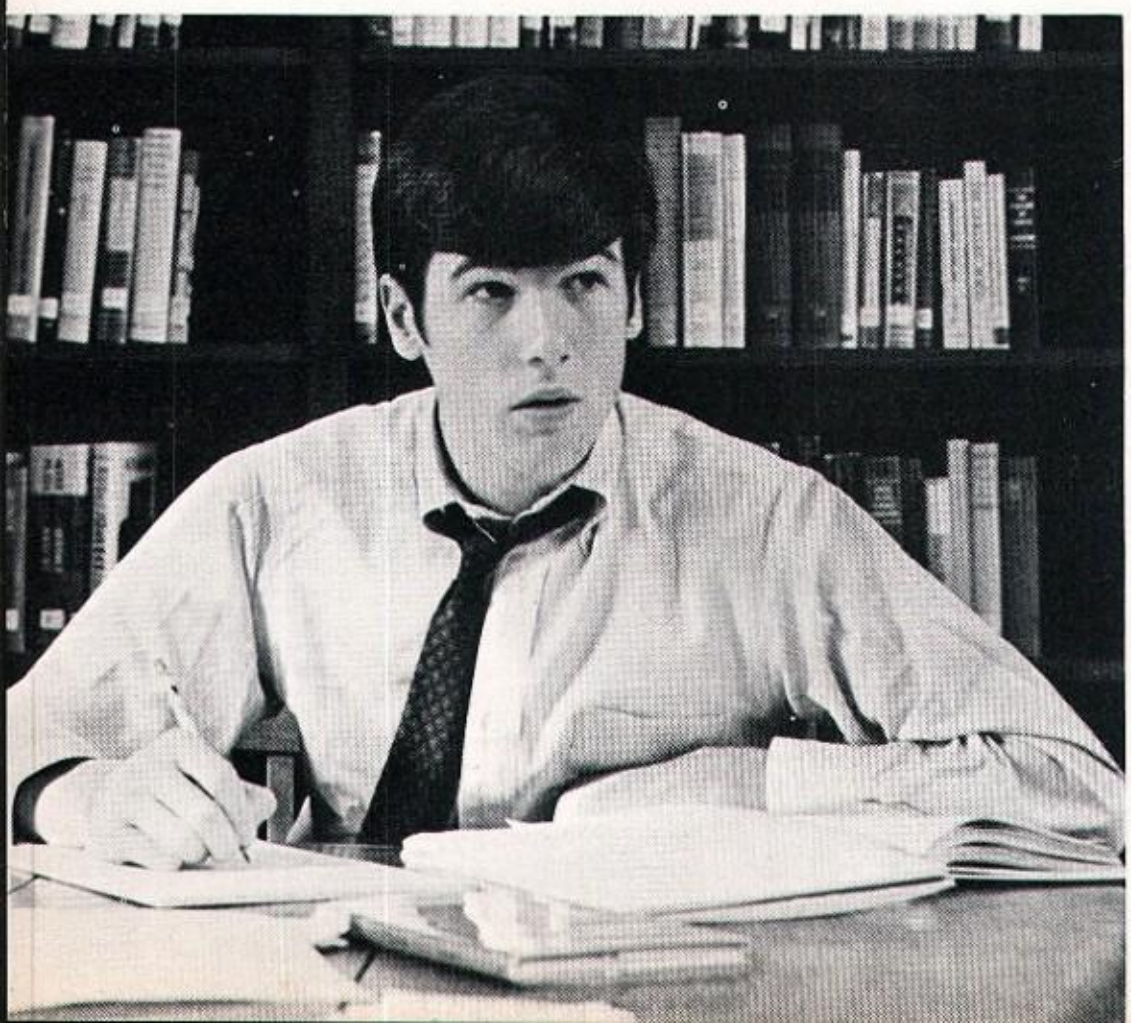
RALPH GORRELL

Shuffling toward Pendleton Hall with the deliberation of a stoned pelican, "Norton" gives the appearance of having lost his way; but behind his disheveled exterior and bewildered countenance, he is thinking with Univac clarity and power about ways to rewire Mr. Bobbitt's office or build a super stage set. High scores in track meets and College Boards indicate Norton's carefully hidden yet considerable talents. Amid his numerous keys, Ralph must have the one to success.

BEN GRAY

Although nicknamed for a bear and possessing an uncanny resemblance to a praying mantis, "Gentle Ben" is like neither in temperament. Bennie could not be more easy-going; his boisterous "Hey boyzz!" often precedes another rambling saga of his childhood or of his vacation exploits. Athletically, "The Rock" has never really been able to overcome the gawkiness of his still-growing frame, but his never-say-die strivings are legendary. It will be just as hard to forget Ben as it is to believe his wild yarns.





GORDON GROVES

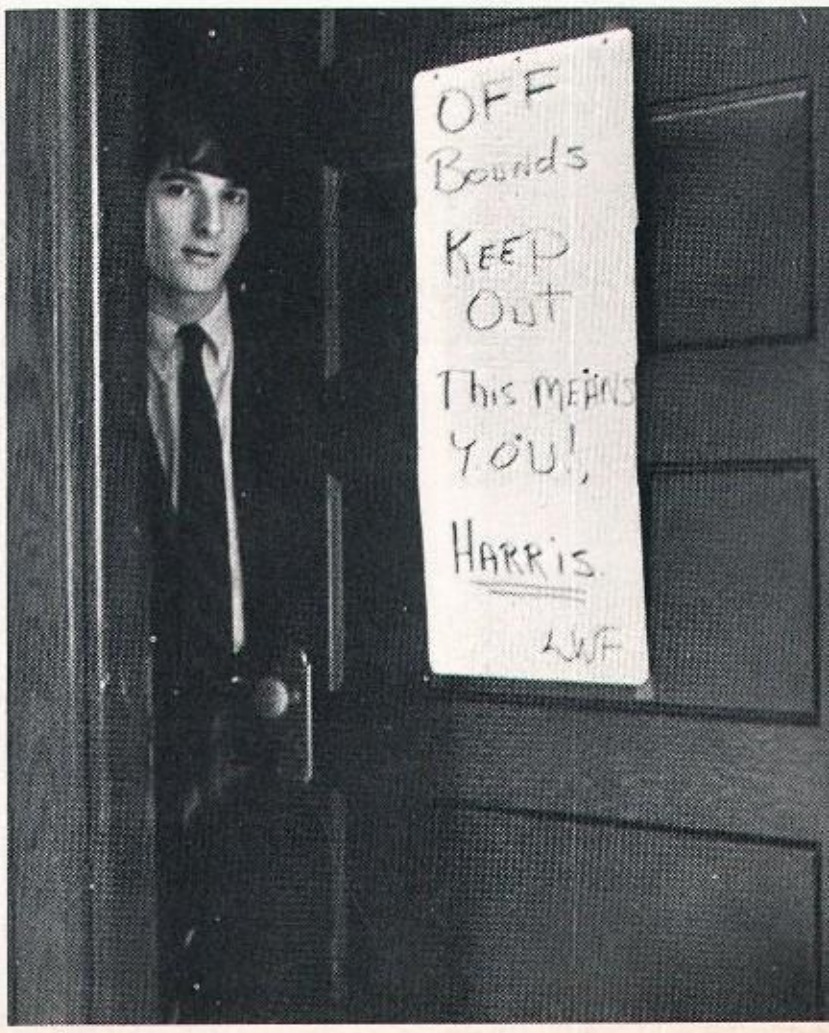
Gordon Groves is a picture of quiet, cool confidence, neatly complemented by a razor-sharp wit which has slashed more than one fumbling classmate. "Sunshine's" peers have come to realize that his seeming over-confidence is really just warranted self-awareness. Dividing his time between practicing a few left jabs and following IBM's future in Fortune, Gordon does what he likes, regardless of how primitive or how sophisticated it seems. With his feet so solidly planted, and so beneficent a disposition, Gordon is a good bet both to succeed in big business and to give away a fortune after he makes it.

TIM HALEY

With his extraordinary athletic zeal and an insatiable love for Episcopal, the "Head" strives for apparently unattainable goals and achieves them. Emerging from the common ranks to become "King Tim I," he has fulfilled his position of unequalled responsibility and authority with dogged perseverance. He has further managed to maintain seriousness of purpose without losing the ribald humor which is hidden behind his wrinkled brow; and even deeper within "Danny" is a funloving sense of pure recklessness, waiting only for the burden of duty to be lifted to rise to the surface.

BUCK HALL

Ever since the Crow made his way to these rooky woods, he has been putting on our best one-man show. The prince of players has been so convincing in so many parts that it is hard to know where the Pendleton Hall leaves off and the real Hall begins. Not only an actor, he has both entertained and educated us with his writing, inspired us with his athletic dedication, and impressed us with his capacity for responsible leadership. Buck has moved us both to laughter and to cheers, and if it would lengthen his stay we might almost wish him another broken leg when he begins his final exit.



SAM HARRIS

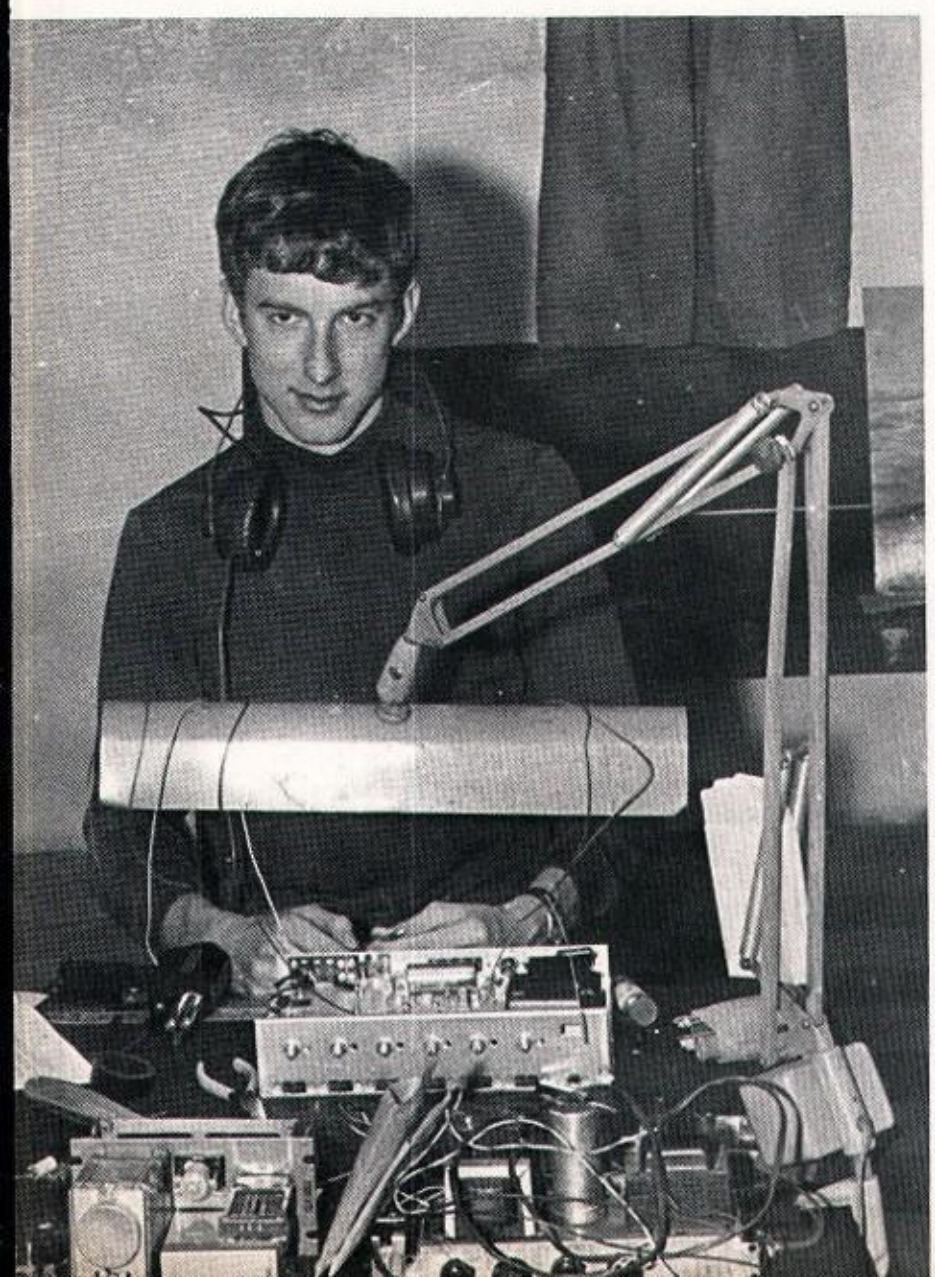
With a single-minded devotion worthy of a nobler cause, Sammy P. has devoted his E.H.S. career to a continuing defiance of the Surgeon-General's report—not to mention school rules. Brilliant enough (700 Boards) to cope easily with academic pressures, he turns effortlessly from four-act French plays to comic books, pausing only to confound lesser classmates with his ready wit. Most frequently observed in an attitude of repose, Sam reserves his energies for his own ends.

TOM HERRINGTON

Attired in his fashionable, permanent wrinkle green dungarees, Tommy shuffles snail like in to breakfast, showing animation only when he stops to adjust his glasses. He eases silently through the rest of his day in the same lethargic manner, attracting notice only by an occasional and surprising staccato burst of laughter. However, once he steps on the track the reason for his conservation of energy becomes apparent, and the real Tom stands up and steps out—a dedicated and hard working leader whom his opponents are forced to follow, and whom his teammates are proud to follow.

ROCK HOUSTOUN

Rock is not known for the exemplification of sophistication; rather he has developed a culture of his own, characterized by cowboy boots and giant bullwhips. "Pat's" colorful appearance and blatant lack of common sense have effectively obscured his sharp mind from public view, but when his intellect does come bursting forth, it is always in the most whimsical of manners and at the most inappropriate of times. Unchanged by Southern propriety, the "long tall Texan," as a bouncer or a hustler, will continue his own life of ruggedness.

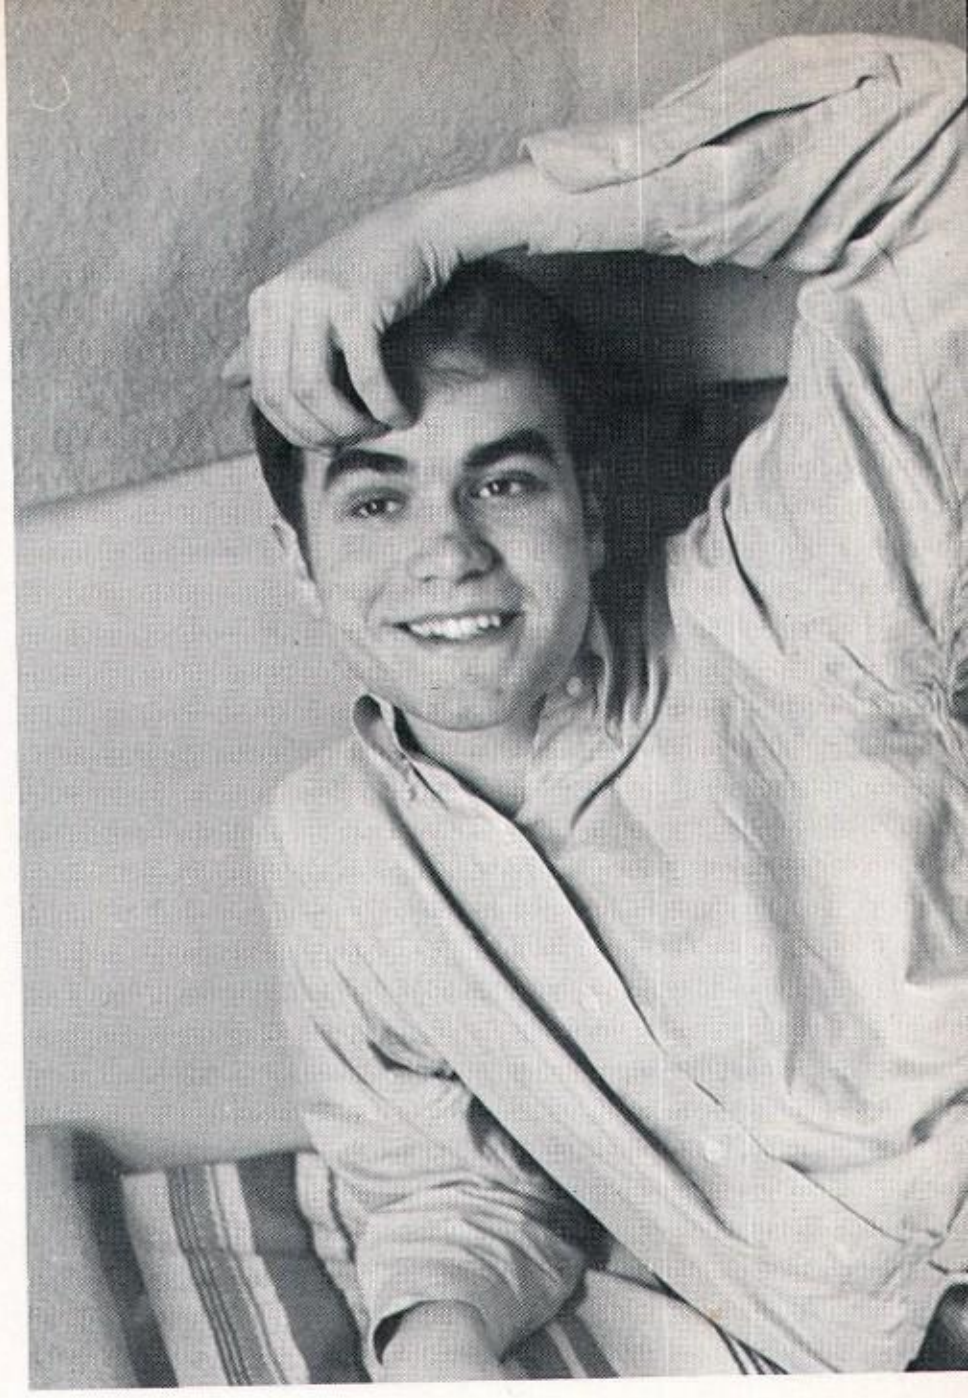


HOWARD HUDGINS

Sincere interests in the theater, electronics, and people combine with a warm and outgoing personality to make "Hudge" one of those persons whose gentle influence make life a little more bearable. Howard's tall, gangling awkwardness has given rise to the appellation "How Weird," but his penetrating wit is sure-footed enough to make up for any physical mis-steps. Perhaps Howard's outstanding trait is his self-control; that amiable smile cannot be removed.

HENRY HUNDLEY

Our swamp child of Rappahannock on the Tappahannock veers away from the mainstream of E.H.S. life. A bed rock conservative, "Hunk" manages to keep his personal opinions to himself, as a gentleman should. Life is no bother to Henry, whether he is quietly enduring the rigors of Math or sleeping away a cold winter afternoon. One of our more proper personages, he is a silent rebuke to his less than impeccable classmates.

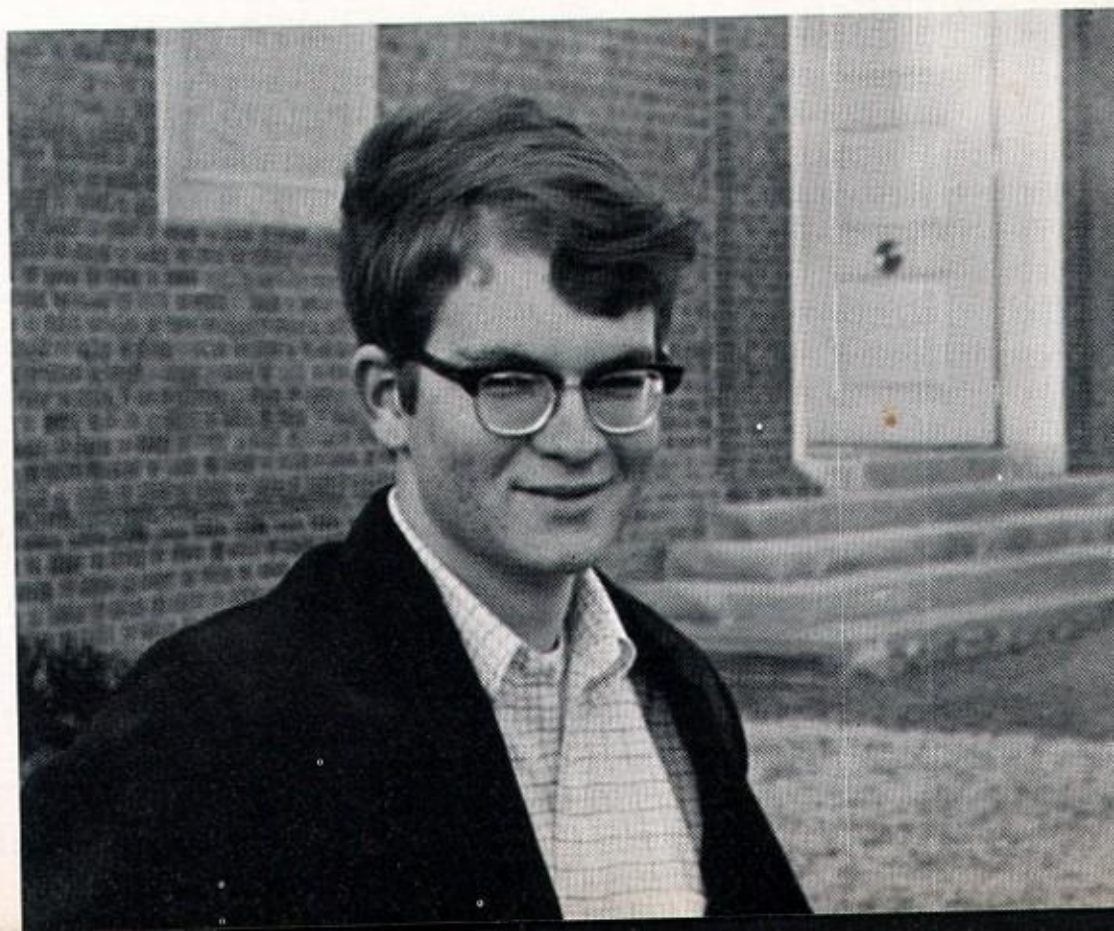


STEPHEN HYDE

"Stephen Bordley Hyde proudly announces the final breakdown of his mental faculties; extreme unction will be administered . . . " There's no way to cover it up; Steve is downright weird—and we love it. Admittedly, there are those who simply don't understand his eccentricity. Fortunately, these kill-joys are only his teachers and, consequently, have no control over him. Hyde goes his blithely errant way, using his brilliant mind in a wildman's war against blandness.

VAL JACKSON

If our Latin senor is not muttering some barbed retort to one of Mr. Murray's witticisms, he is traipsing after an elusive soccer ball. Not one to offer his opinions freely, La Val is now and again subject to violent outbursts when some unsuspecting soul incurs his wrath and brings on his "more blessed to give than to receive" demerit philosophy. Extremely interested in mining, "The Jackal" has acquired an outlook which, when dug into, will certainly surprise if not shock an unwary world.

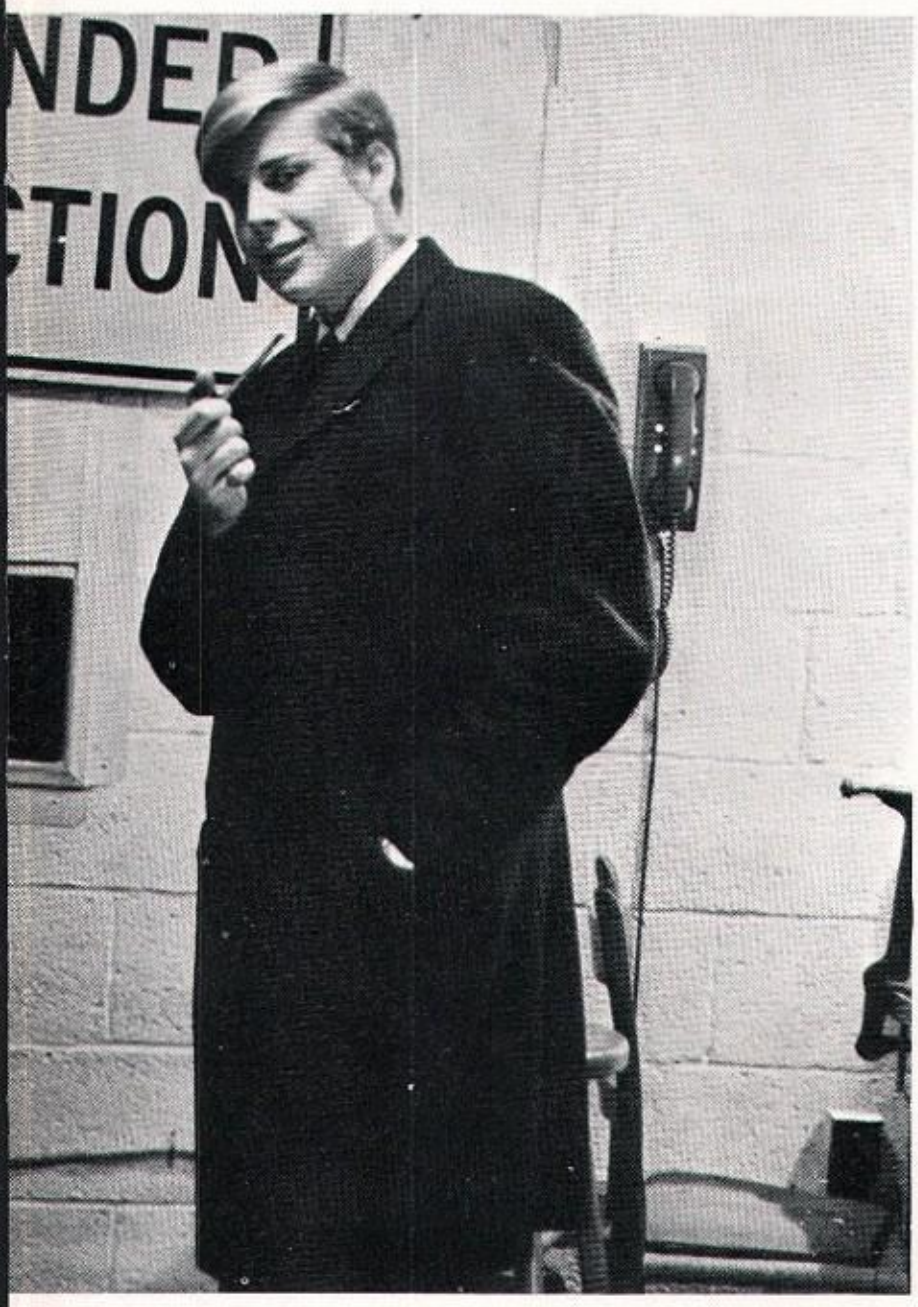


MACK JOHNSTON

Mack has rarely disdained to start on the bottom in any endeavor, but he has nevertheless often ended up on top through his continuous hard work and determination. Never critical without cause, but equally unwilling to condone what he feels is wrong, Mack has been a much needed force for constructive change. Always happy himself, Mack's greatest desire has been that everybody else should be as happy, and he has gone a long way towards fulfilling this desire through his unselfishness and cheerfulness.

FORREST JONES

As he saunters through study hall enveloped in his well-known greatcoat, Forrest is positive proof that West Virginia isn't all bad. Considering his continuous casualness, one wonders how he finds time to maintain his ever-climbing average. Although Estill often dreams of far-away places, he is never too far out to give forth with a critical evaluation of anything from Arnold Palmer's golf swing to how to snow women at religious conferences. Forrest is as uncommon as Jones is common.

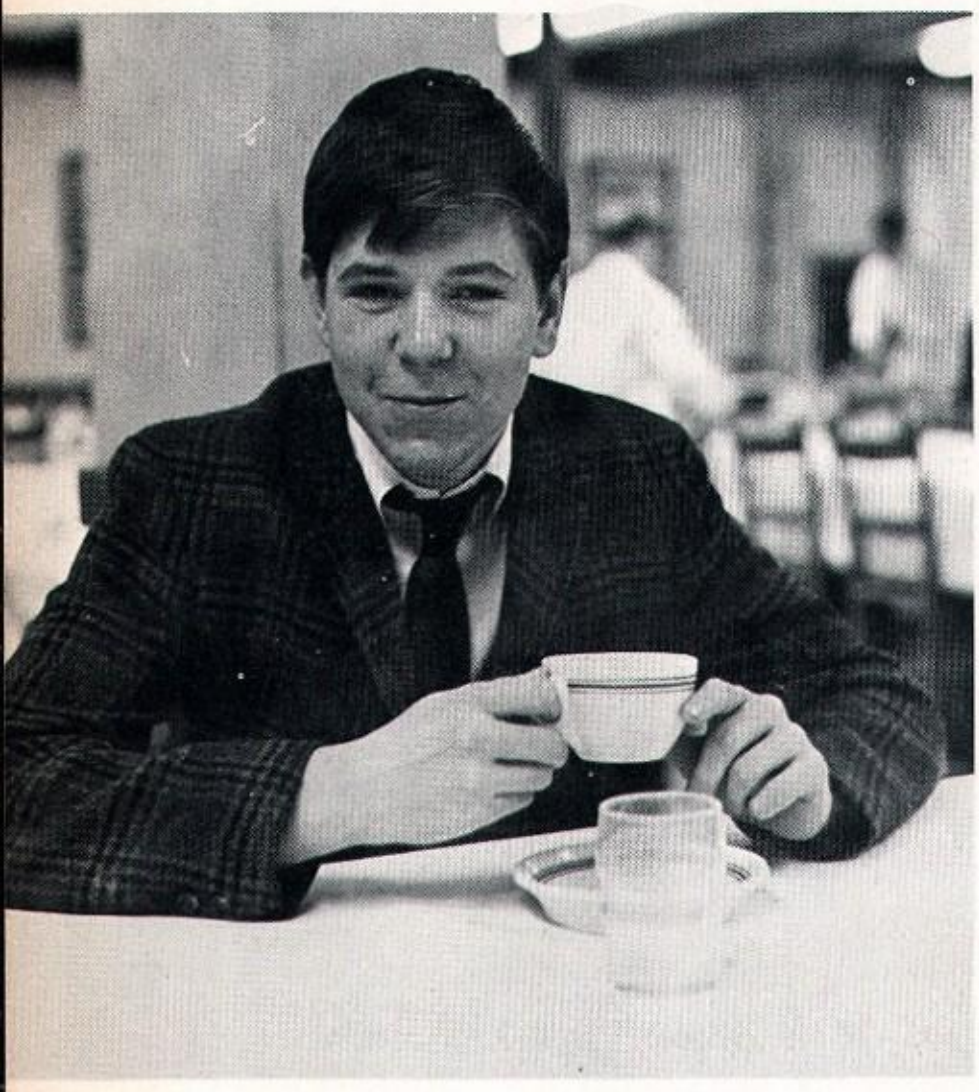


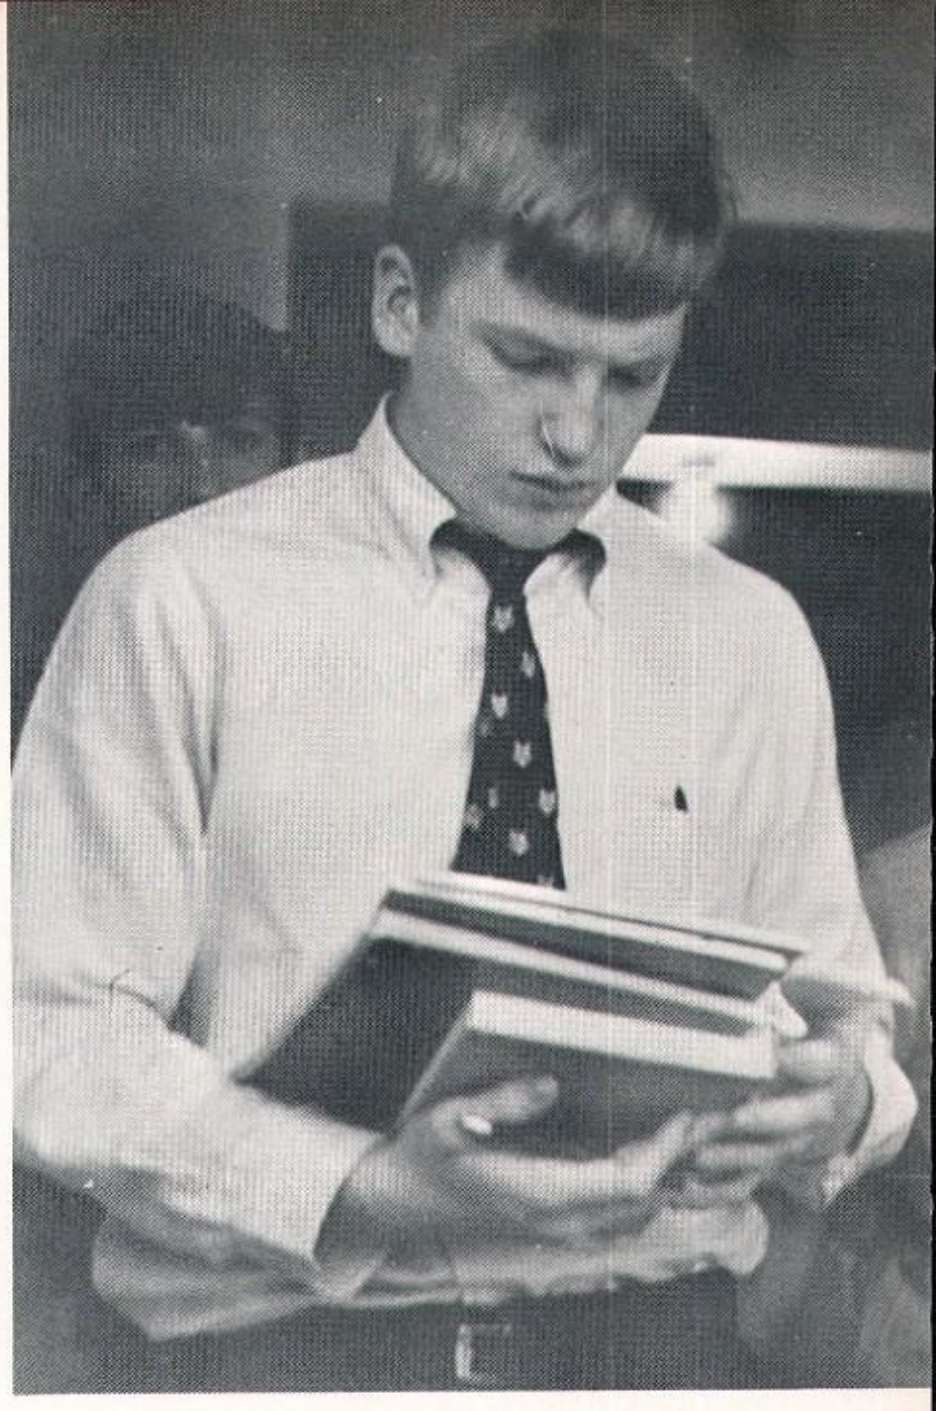
CARTER LAND

Carter is one of the most talented boys in the school, and is glad to tell anybody just that. Too energetic to remain merely the top student in his class, "Snake" has branched out into extracurricular activities, as well as launching an enthusiastic crusade of reform against the E.H.S. Administration in particular, and the Establishment of the country in general. Carter's quick and fertile mind has always been ready skillfully to take on all attacks from the Right, and he will doubtless prove as vociferous and challenging on future battlefields.

BILL LANE

If ever a book couldn't be told by its cover, it is the one entitled A Quiet Country Lane. Lurking behind the vacuous countenance and ambling manner of this pseudo-hayseed is one sharp operator, with all the aptitudes you can name. He has been a High List regular and a publications mainstay; however, what he really likes is to debate the issues, and woe to the left-winger who is foolish enough to challenge him. Bill is a dusty pick-up truck, with a Cadillac engine under the hood.





LEWIS LAWRENCE

"Luscious," the pride of Fuquay-Varina, the founder of the Red-Headed League, and a second-string monitor, is best known for his hobby—collecting demerits. Loo has transformed this pastime into an art, but he also finds time to rebel against today's outmoded liberalism with his own odd brand of conservatism, or to ferret out red-headed females. Louie's impassioned, "That's just disgusting!" has become a classic in E.H.S.'s Familiar Quotations. Wherever Burning Bush goes, he is destined to be a bright spot and had better be listened to.

ALLEN LEE

Take courage! Wherever and whenever the rooster pin is displayed, somewhere behind it ambles J. Allen, lurking in wait for radicals and proponents of rival brews. His provincial manner conflicts with his often cosmopolitan opinions and traps the unwary into questioning his views, whereupon they are barraged with an unblievably varied and complex set of thoughts. Al's penchant for local scandal and his desire to impart helpful hints make him as interesting as a hometown newspaper; while his polemical nature comes through in his "Impeach Earl Warren!" battle cry.

BILL LEWIS

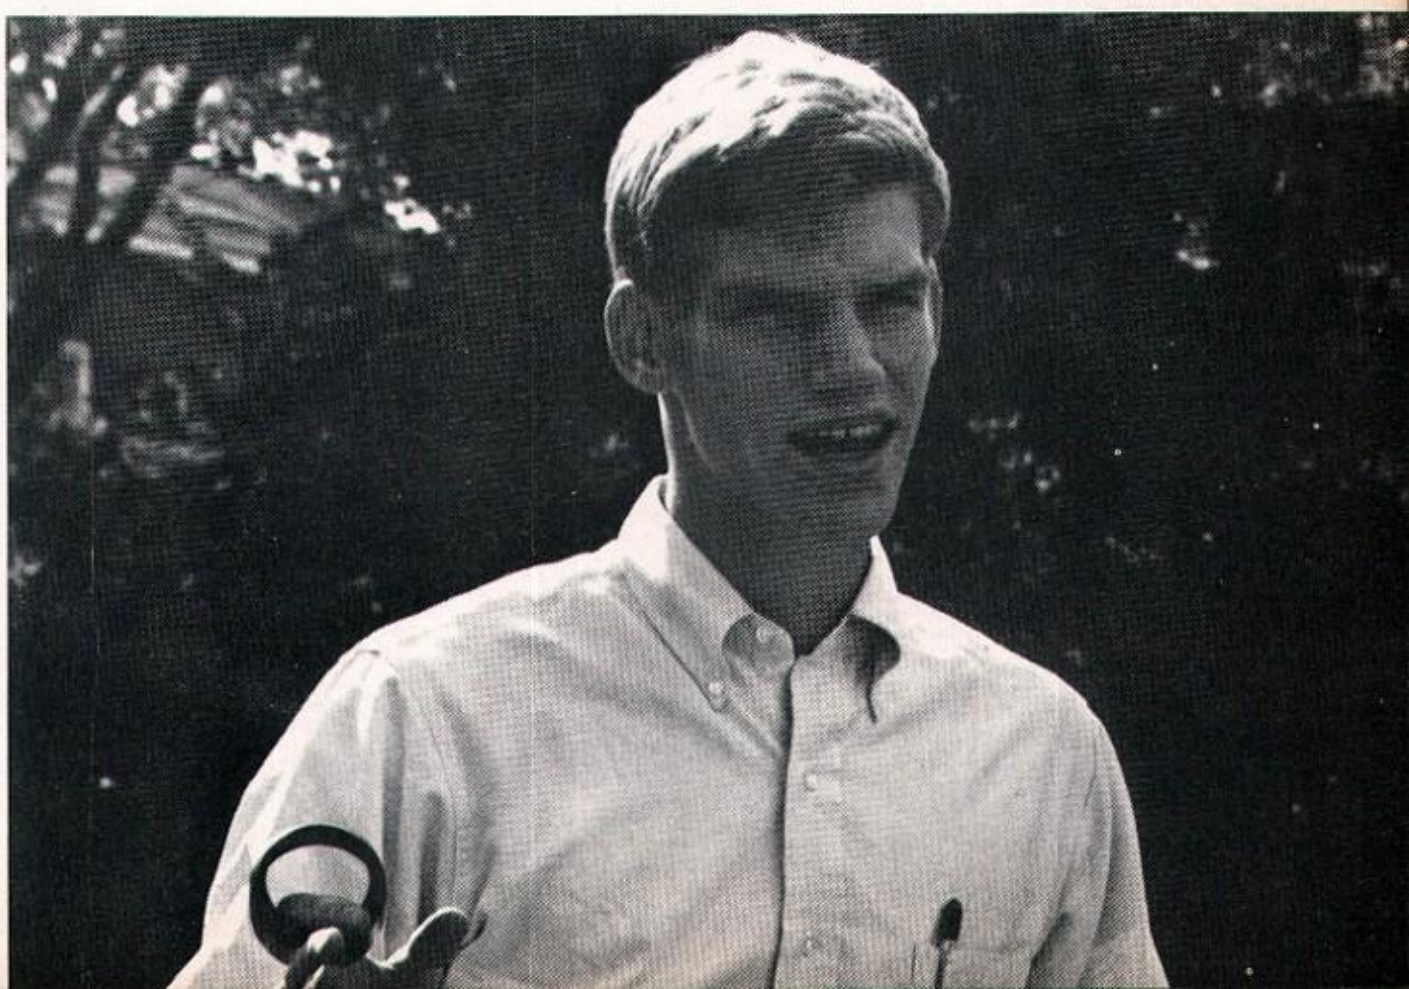
A dominating figure in everything in which he becomes involved, Bill has been the very epitome of success. Unlimited talent and a fierce competitive spirit have propelled "Willy" to the top of our athletic ladder, but perhaps more significantly, Bill's sense of responsibility and depth of character have earned him the respect of everyone. Finally, Bill's uncanny sense of humor is among many ingredients that compose the remarkable personality with which he has drawn about him so many friends.

JACK MATTHEWS

"What do you mean my room is messy?" mutters Jack as he stands knee-deep in the school's largest collection of military and athletic gear. With an air of perpetual nonchalance that approaches boredom, Matt moves purposefully toward his goals, be they finishing high school or breaking our pre-historic quarter-mile record. Our Army brat from Turkey has left his footprints everywhere; unforgettable escapades such as running to the Washington Monument and back, or playing touch football in December rain, are only outward aspects of his personality. "You are what you eat," Jack was our can of Nutrament.

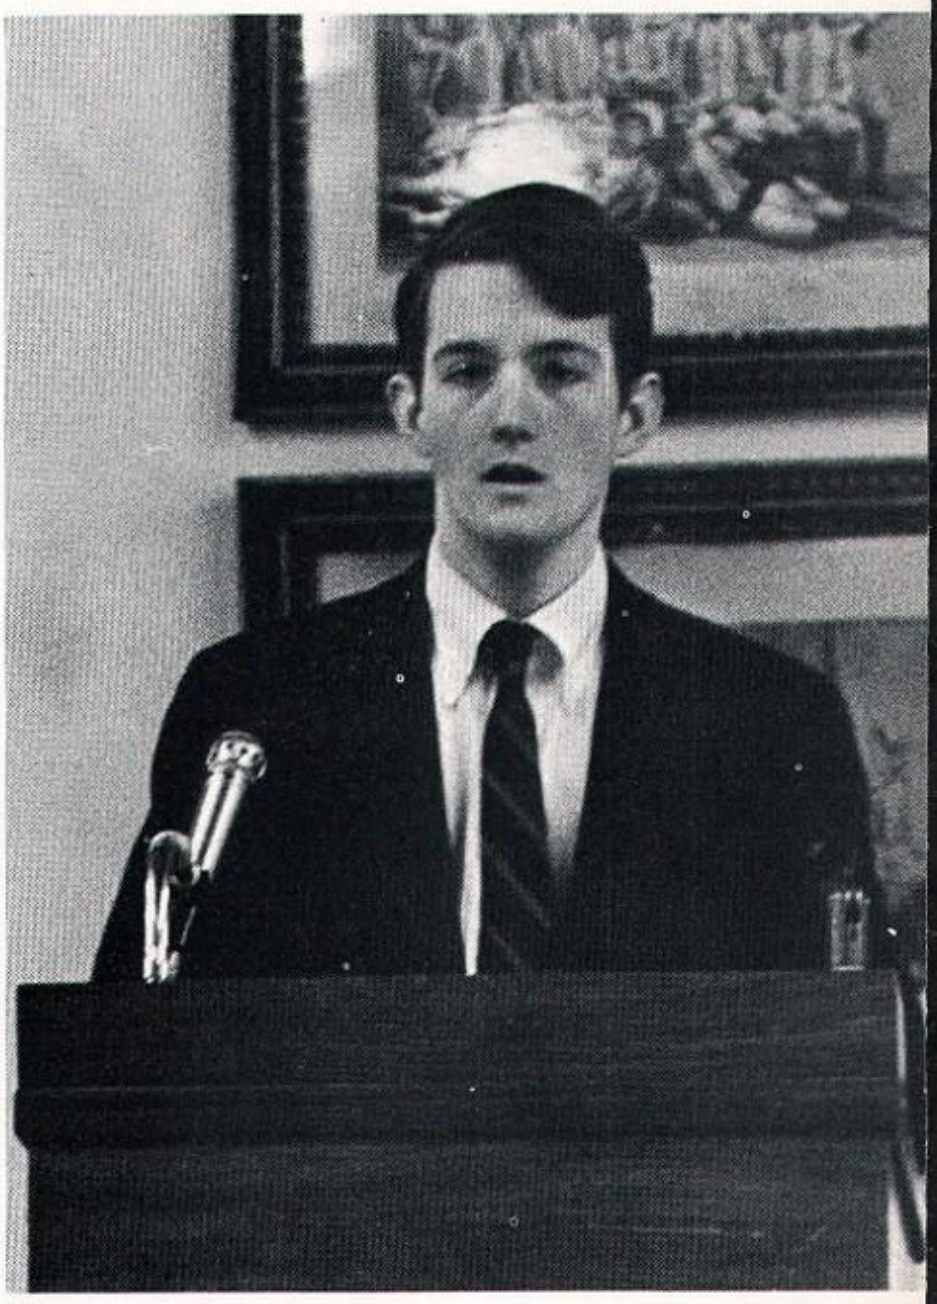
ED McDONALD

Practicing his gospel of love and peace with a characteristic quiet enthusiasm, Ed somehow leaves the impression that there are many places where he would rather be, but that as long as he is here he will make the best of things. Although slow and easy-going, Ned is nevertheless determined to change society in his own amiable way. Possessed of a rare calm in a rushing world, our campus flower child serves as a constant valuable reminder to his fast paced friends. "You're too tight, man."



JOHN MINOR

"Hey Roe!" usually precedes the appearance of E.H.S.'s own Charlie Brown. Confused about everything, especially "21 u-trou' a week" and English IV, John still manages to find his way around the dark room. Receiving demerits and awards for midnight misadventures doesn't phase his easy (very easy)—going nature; neither does the fact that a college he didn't even apply to turned him down. No matter what happens, life for Ol' John is "bootiful, just bootiful!"



RICHARD MONCURE

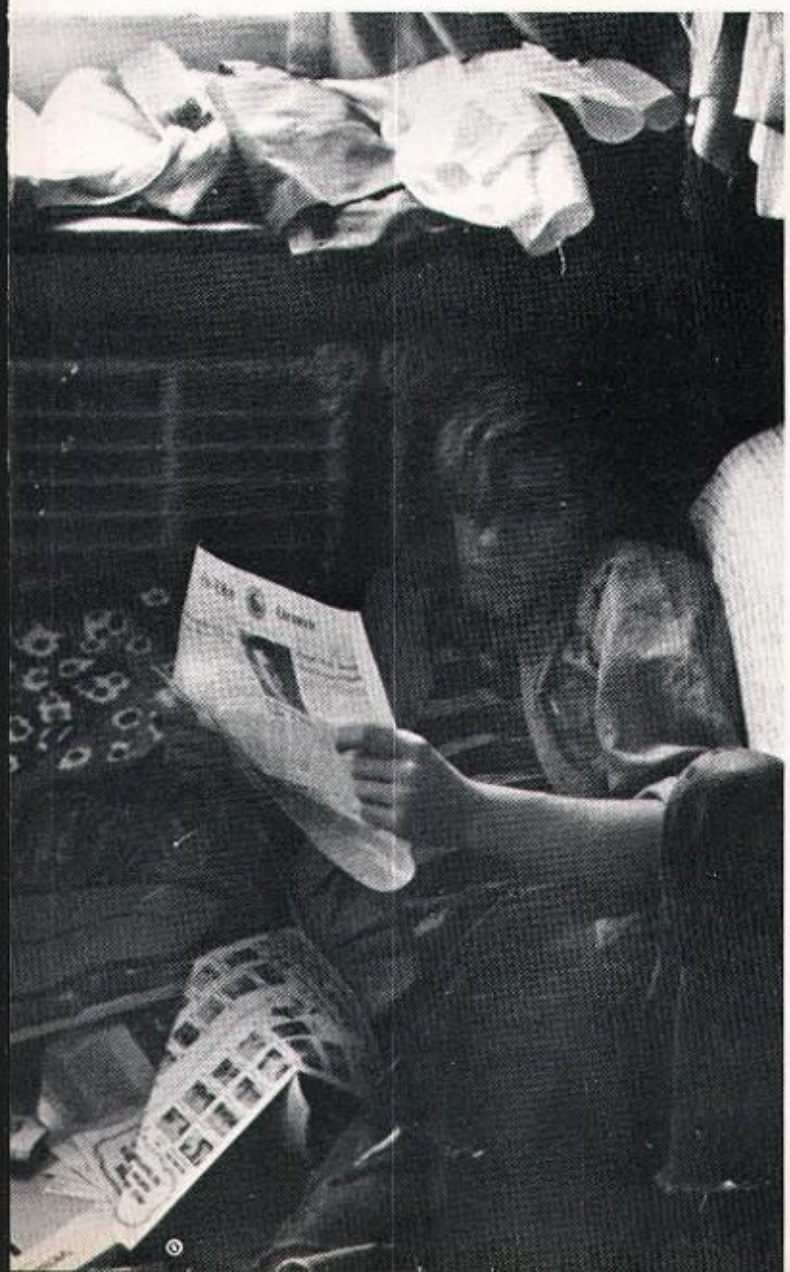
One of the consciously superior, supremely confident glances which Monk throws as he zooms down the hall often proves utterly crushing. Although this smug face is donned only when it promises to meet some immediate gain, no one student could be more justified in perpetually wearing a mantle of smugness. With a sharp and perceptive, even though often eccentric mind, a grandiose but effective forensic style, and a flair for the dramatic, Moncat is always ready to enter into a fervent discussion about any thorn in his side, and is as ready to solve a problem as to express his discontent about it.

VERNE MORLAND

The "Golden Boy" has appeared many times on our stage in the role of a devastating Don Juan, but as his success off-stage shows he is merely playing his sophisticated self. In his outspoken opposition to unreasoning conformity, however, he is putting on no act; anything he cannot test for himself, he won't buy. More than for his Greek profile, his January tan, or his academic brilliance, Verne will be remembered for his refusal to wrap himself in a maroon security blanket.

JIMMY MORTON

Outspoken, and even verbose on occasion, Jimmy is never afraid to protest in strong terms against any wrongs he may find. He has further established himself as a successful scholar, athlete, and socialite, and his somewhat blunt sense of humor makes him a necessity for any successful bull session. Also, not being one to let a false sense of duty inhibit his actions, "Morgan" can be expected to be a central figure in all student capers. "The Stork" attacks all problems with the same aggressive abandon and ability he displays on the basketball court.

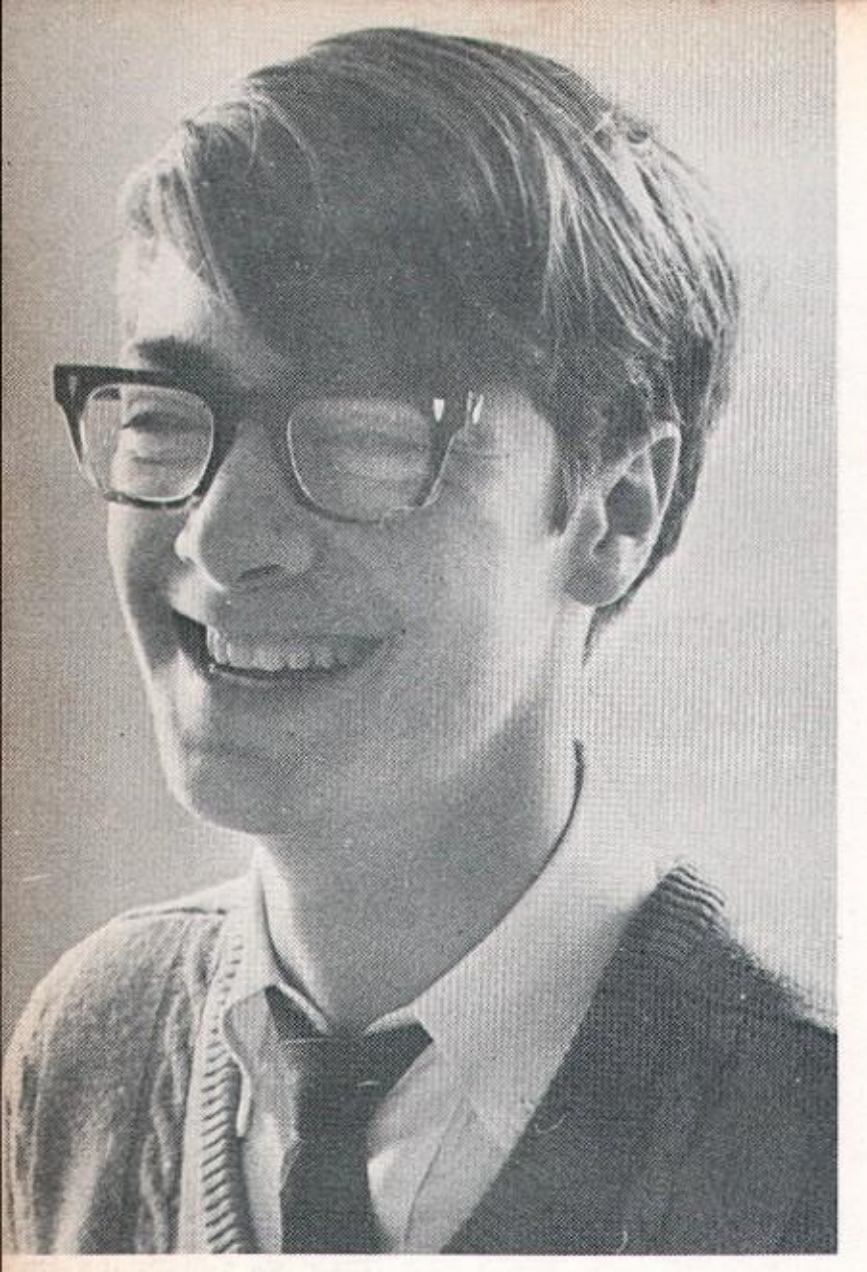


HARVEY MOSELEY

On first encounter, Harvey seems hung-up. It takes a little time to decide what his hang-up is: research astronomy? the evils of tradition? the girl back home? Eventually it becomes clear that Harve's world is a very complex personal one and that no single person or thing occupies a position of paramount importance within that tousled head. His wide grin and shuffling walk give him an aura of good-natured absent-mindedness. In ten years Ole' Harve may be tending the counter of the Ebony general store or occupying a professor's chair; no one is going to keep this guy from doing what makes him happy.

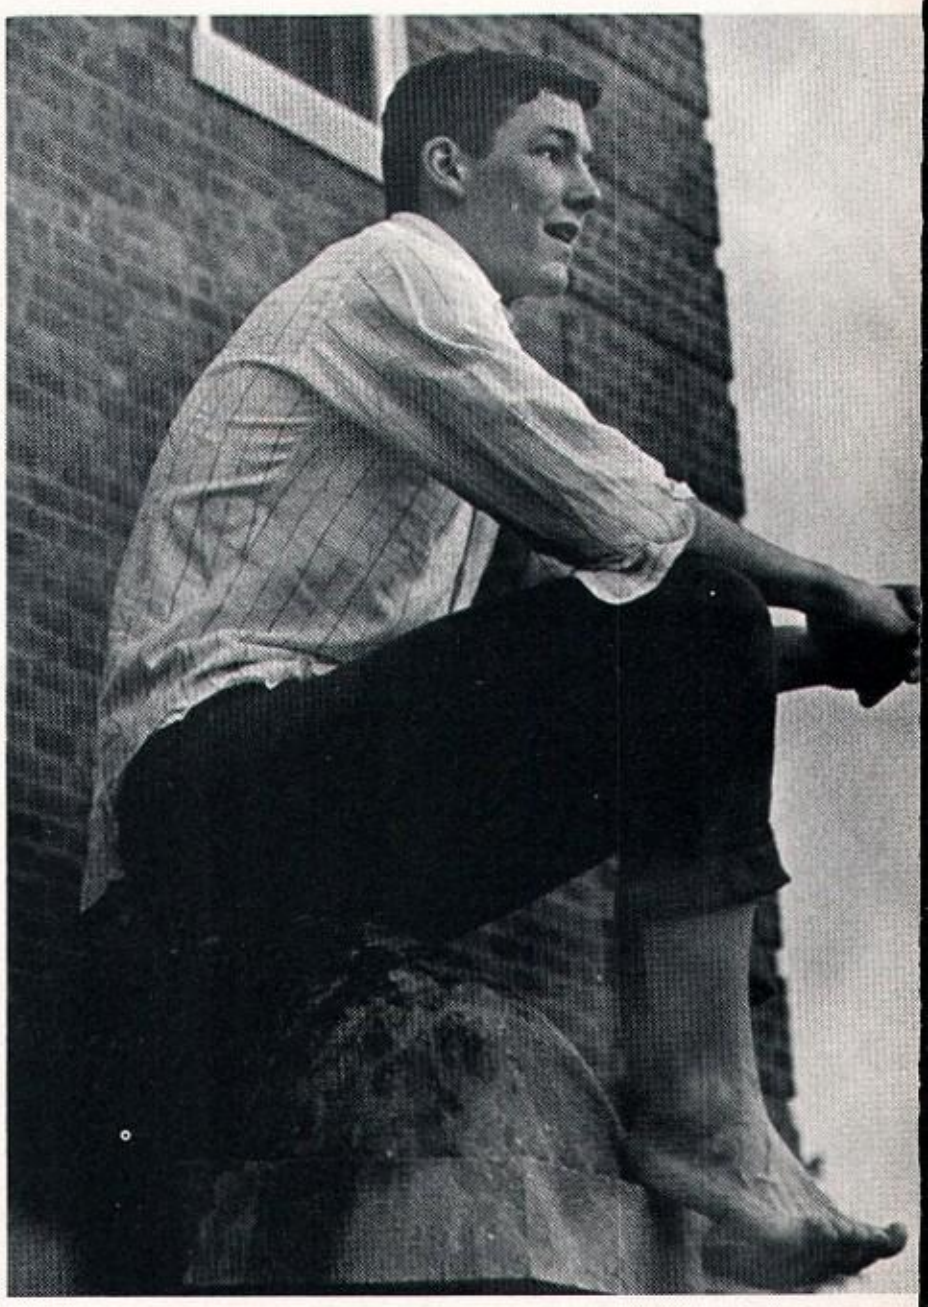
PAT NAUL

Pat, in his "surf's up" hairdo, is a Jack-of-all-trades and master of many. From trivia to track, surfing to S.D.S., down-home honeys to the Daemon, Paul does them all. Although his academics sometimes resemble a Ho-dad surfing on a two-by-four, the great Ka-huna has ridden the wave of life at E.H.S. with not a hair out of place. Come June, Patman will peacefully take his diploma in his left hand (to be sure) and trip on out. "Surf's up, you clackers!"



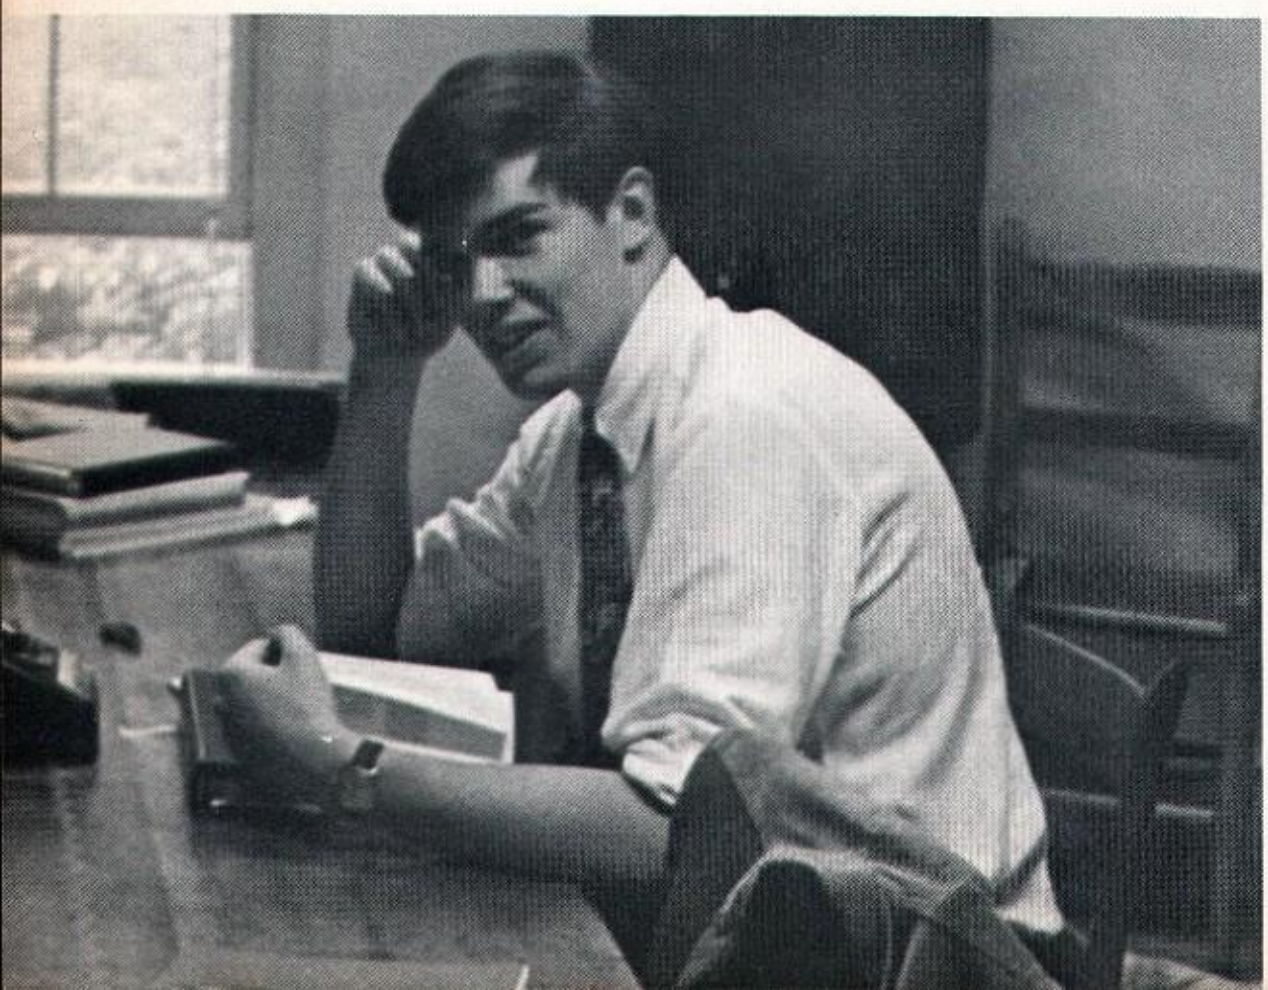
KINLOCH NELSON

Frail and nervous though he may appear, Kinlaw's physique has proven durable enough to sustain the full rigors of soccer winters, and the even more demanding stresses of the endless projects in which his electronic curiosity involves him. Always in motion—nail-biting, pencil-chewing, foot-tapping as he drives himself over the books—he finds relaxation only in a change of activity, playing his guitar instead of rewiring it, or cutting hair in his psychedelic barber shop. Kinloch is an ingenious job of wiring, but seems to be lacking an "OFF" switch.



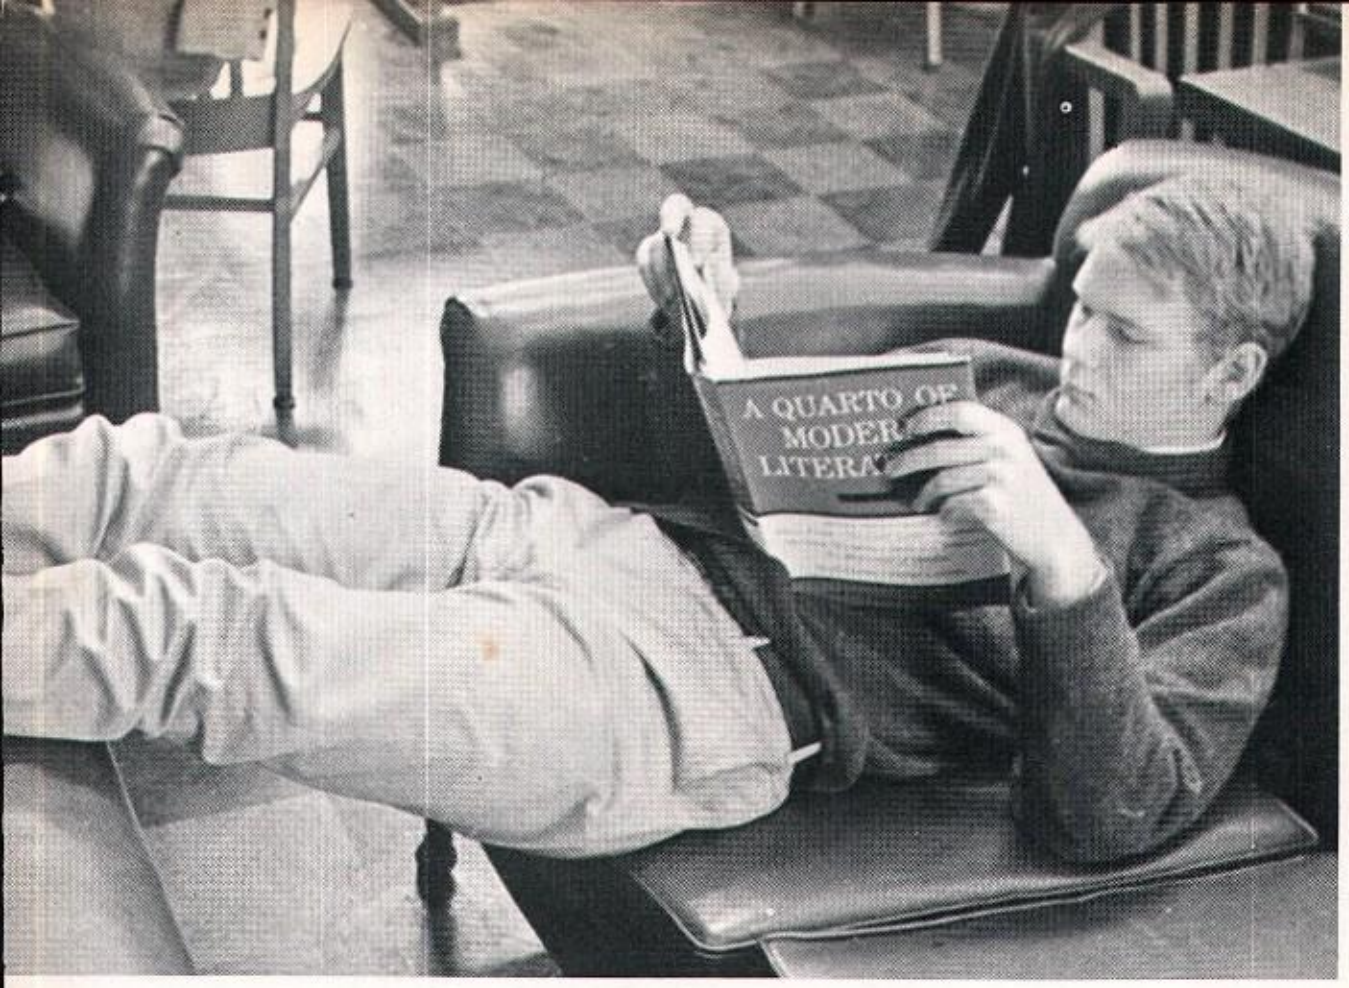
KEVIN NEWMAN

Speaking only rarely, "Ole Kev" normally wouldn't be noticed in a crowd of three; his acquaintance must be sought. But when it is found, the finder quickly comes to appreciate Kevin's quiet but cogent style of humor and the power of his dedication to his goals. He has the rare ability to apply the same driving determination to playing Varsity football, to grinding out his daily homework assignment, and to getting his full quota of sleep. Whatever barriers he cannot leap over, Kev will surely be able to batter methodically down.



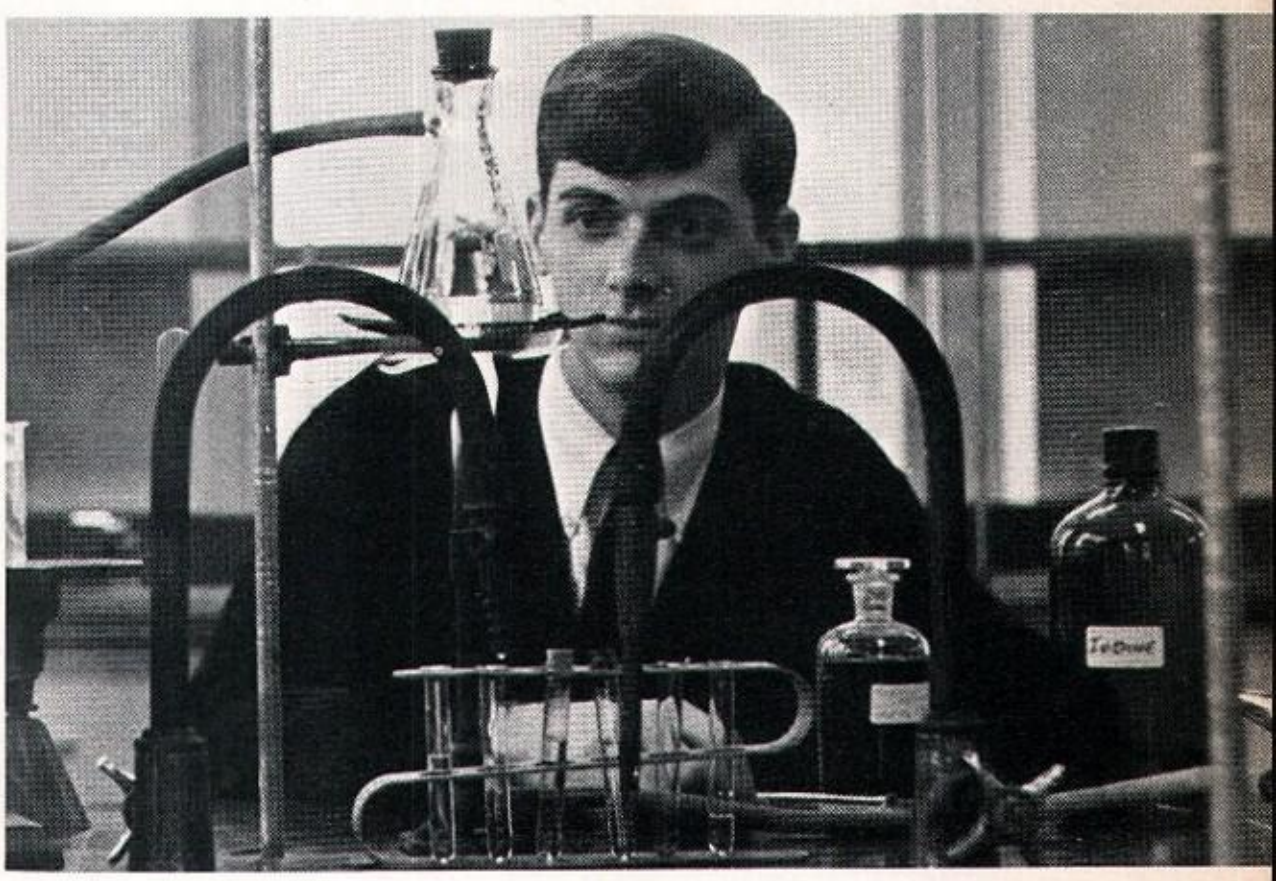
DECY ORRICK

There is no way in which the word "gentleman" can be put to more precise use than to describe Decy, he of the impeccable Washington-and-Baltimore-bred manners. Time spent with D.O. is time well spent, thanks to the constant presence of mind and intelligence which add insight and reason to any activity in which he takes part. It is a tribute to his character and purpose that he is able to leave E.H.S. with the same poise and taste with which he entered.



FRED POISSON

Although not considered a highbrow, "Fraad" is admittedly a few hairs more mature than most of his contemporaries. Skilled in the art of conversation, Fred enjoys talking across the couch to his fellow library-haunters or over the phone to one of his harem. Not surprisingly, "Fish" has kept his level of achievement well above the water-line while fathoming the depths of ever more rewarding personal contacts.



RICHARD RHODES

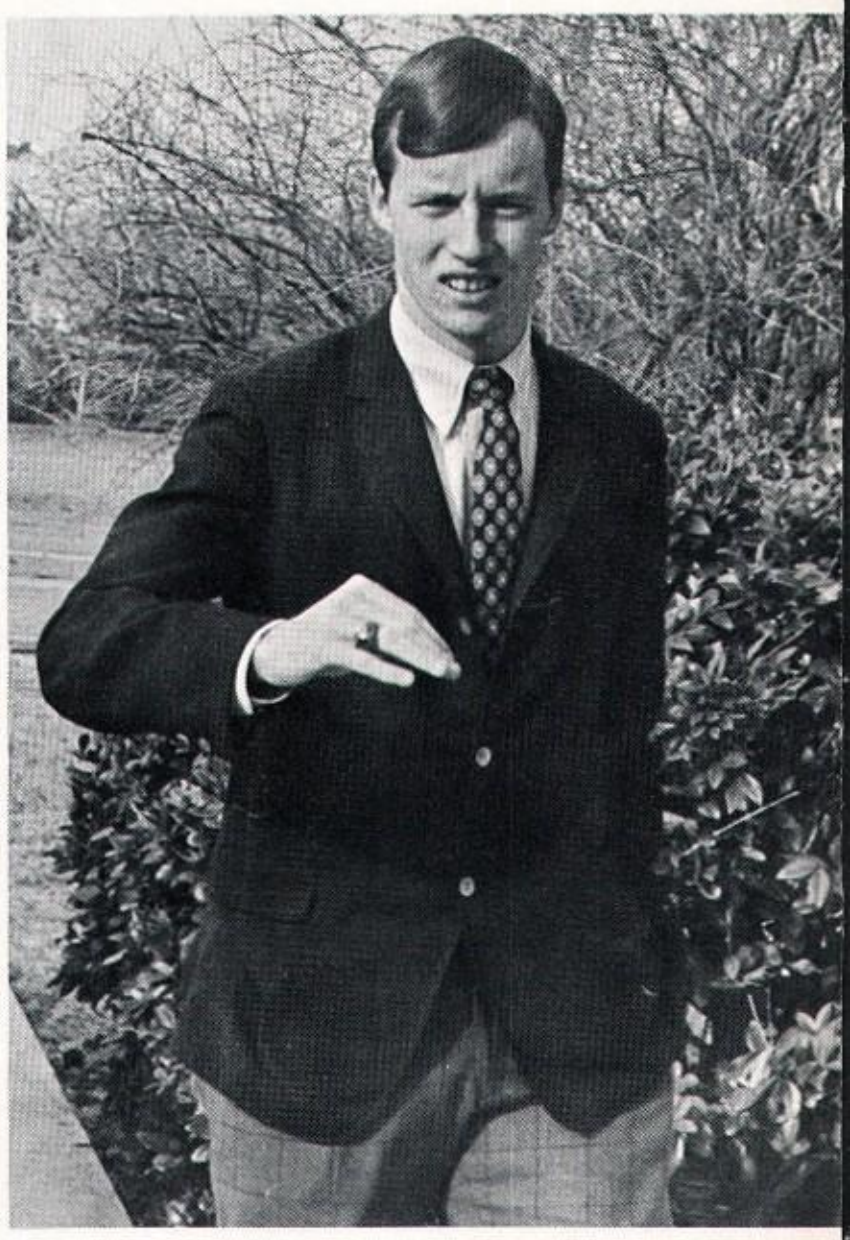
Rich came to E.H.S. with a hard act to follow. He has not only performed superbly but found that he could build the scenery, too. Somehow Dick has by-passed the dilemma of adolescence and vacillates between his childhood and manhood with the resilience of a tennis ball—witness his comic books and love poetry. His only problem is his stubborn reluctance to draw from his bank of talents—and that's Rich.

GREG ROBERTSON

It is generally a safe rule to take nothing Greg says at face value; his gift for subtle irony and sarcasm, well-known to the initiated, may trip up the unsuspecting. With his wide range of interests, "Oscar" can usually find some more fascinating activity than studying, even if it is only relaxing with a bag of Oreos and a Supremes album. More normally, though, it is pursuing some literary or dramatic pastime of worth. As Robbie explains it: "Well, I love to study."

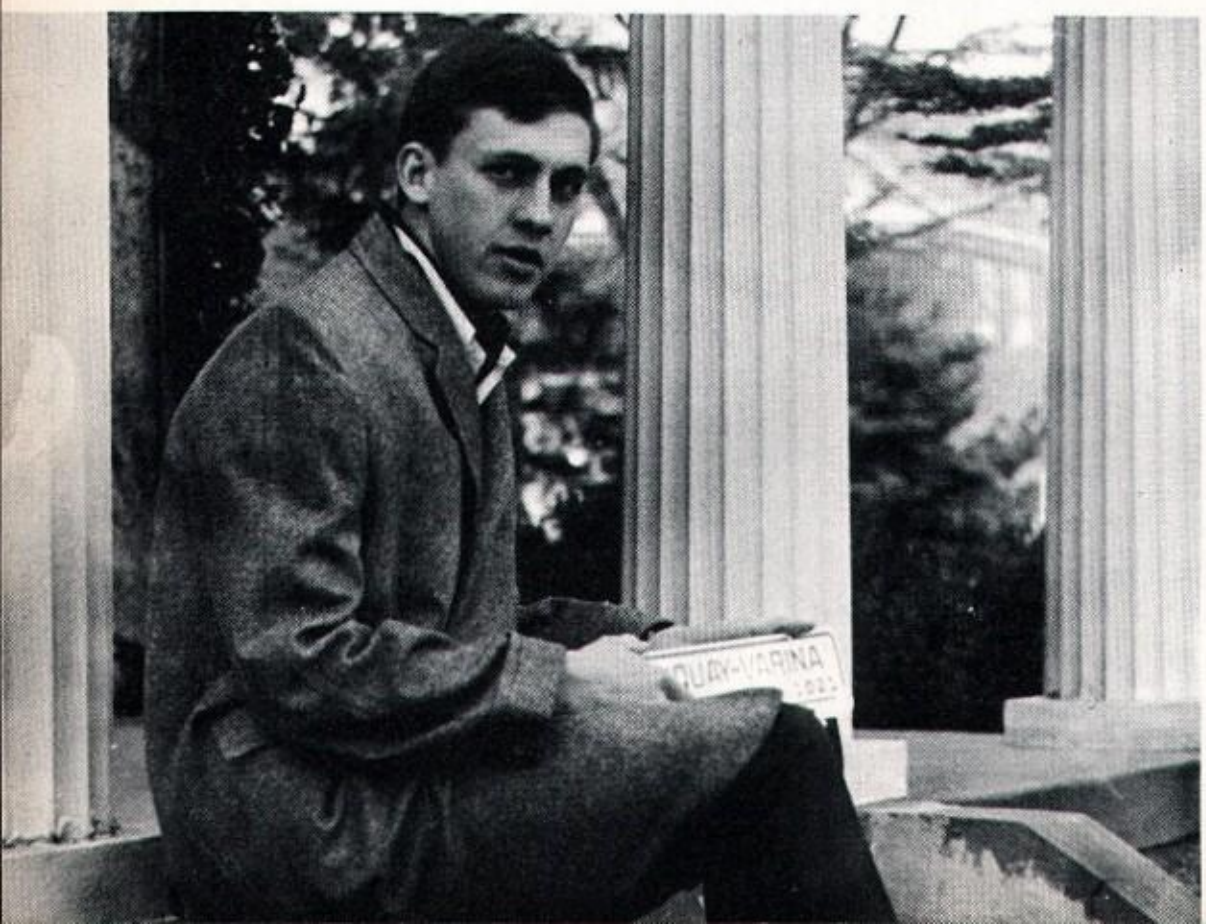
SANDY SCHENCK

This quiet outdoorsman might hoid a grudge if you crushed his favorite bowler, but it seems doubtful. In fact it is hard to imagine the tranquil "Skenk" acting in any but the warmest manner no matter what the conditions. When not conducting his own physical fitness program, Sandy is willing to regale listeners with tales of his adventures among the bears and rattlers of the North Carolina wilds. His only reservation about E.H.S. is our deplorable neglect of archery.



JOE SIMPSON

Our "O.J." is not going to Buffalo, but a survey of his destinations will tell much about him—New Orleans, Chapel Hill, Nat Cat, the High List, the end-zone, the finish-tape. Joe is the well-organized, purposeful type, who gets where he is going with maximum efficiency and minimum fanfare; yet his calm self-confidence, far from offending his more confused contemporaries, draws them around him as friends and admirers. Wherever he goes, he is sure of a following.

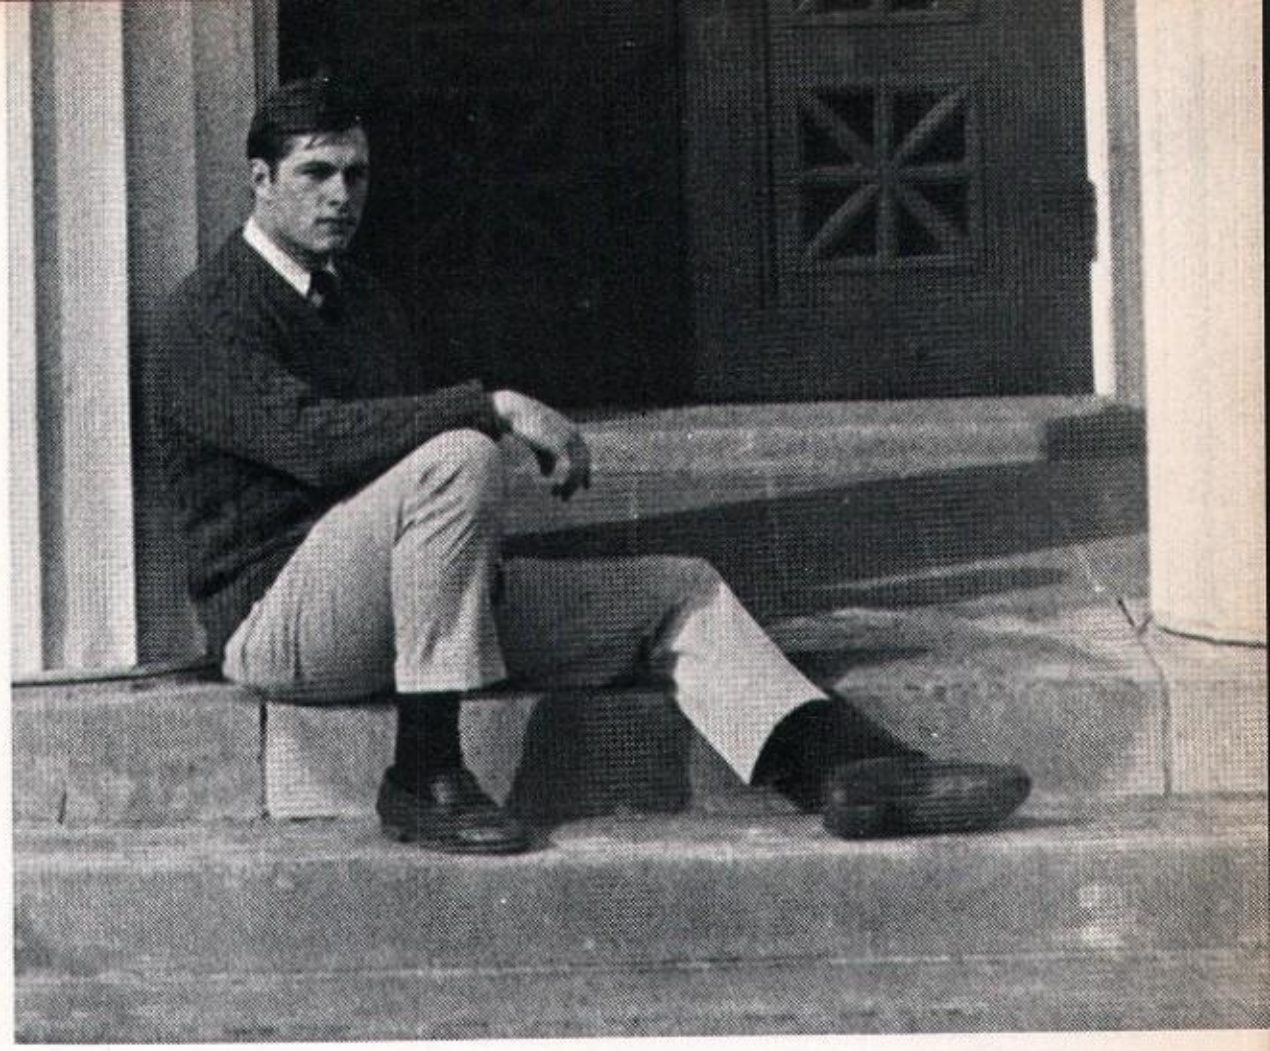


BOB SLAUGHTER

Presenting a rare fresh outlook on life to his peers, Bob has illustrated the merits of a serious personality. Conscientious in his study habits, "Slobby" has little time to waste on the more trivial aspects of social life. Those who underrate this friendly giant fail to see the real person behind the easy smile and simple manner. If Bob's achievements match his ambitions, the sky's his limit.

BEETLE SMITH

The maturity of Beetle's conservative, dignified wardrobe and manner contrast strikingly with the juvenile ruddiness of his complexion, yet both are true indicators of his inner personality. "Captain Video" harnesses the enthusiasm of youth to the responsibility of age, and while he can be popularly playful in relaxation, he carries out his many obligations in a way that has earned him general respect. The rising businessman on the way to Homburg Heaven is also Beetsie, the young lover, on his way to Holton Arms.

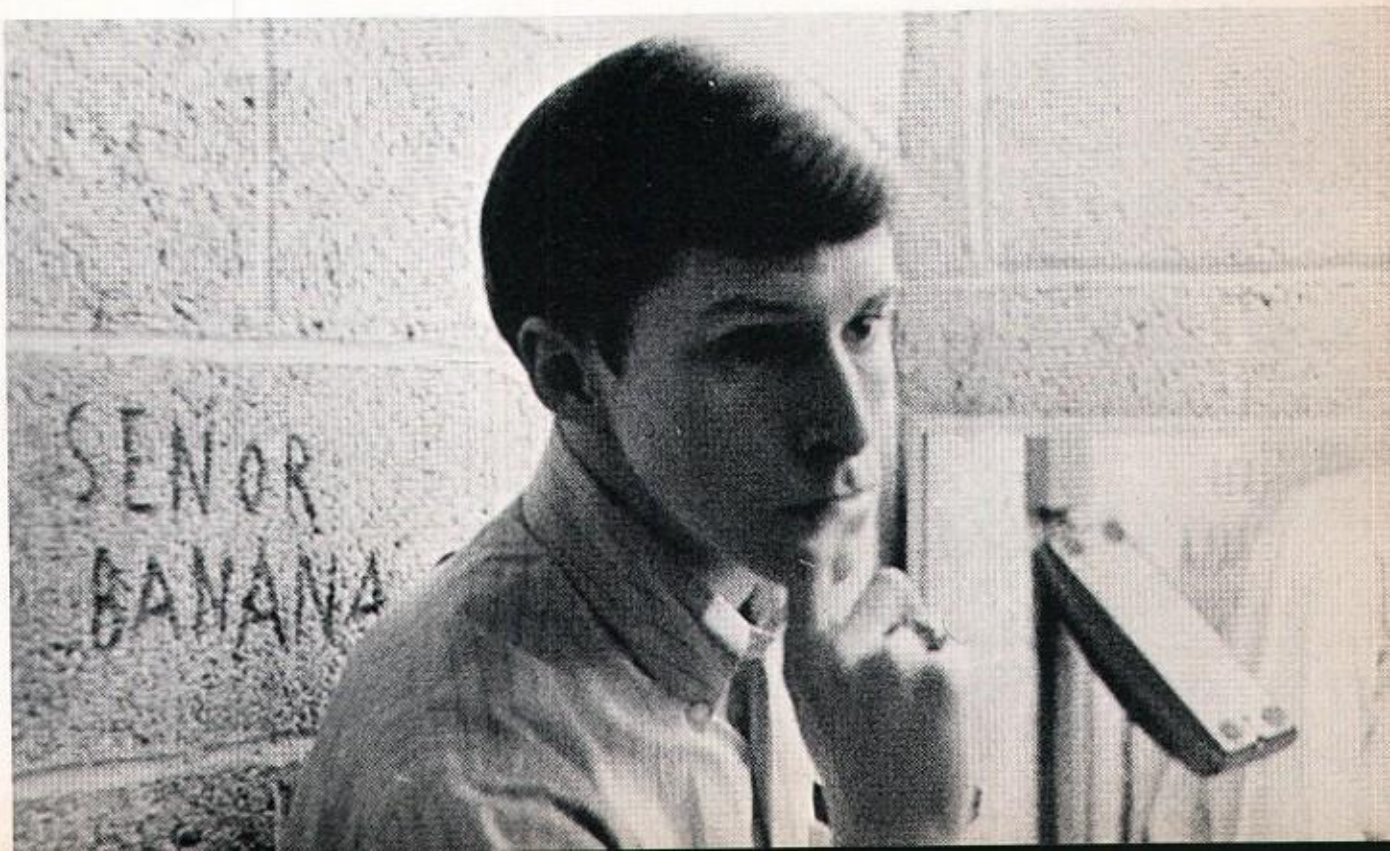


JIM SPAULDING

Not one to suffer fools gladly, Jim is quick to put the dull-witted in their rightful places with the incisive wit that has enlivened many a bull-session. In his "senior" moments, he is likely to take a critical view of some of our triter traditions, and is an outspoken foe of "canned" school spirit. His ferocity in the soccer goal is sufficient answer to those who mistake his nonconformity for apathy. A conformist sings to himself in the privacy of the shower—Jimbo sings to himself in the empty vastness of Pendleton.

GLEN STANCIK

"All the world's a stage," and Glen is the man behind the scenes, running the whole show. He demonstrates an infinite creativity in the designing of sets, and an equal talent for turning his amateur helpers into a professional stage crew to build and operate his creations. Manipulating numbers and words as well as people, "Stanley Roe" is as brilliantly original in Math and English as he is in stagecraft. His only failure was in his attempt to get the Post delivered on a regular basis, but he quick-wittedly unloaded that doomed enterprise. Glen will never be left holding any bag but the one he wants.



DON STEPHENS

Slowly emerging from the J.B. Library, Don is for a time lost in his own world of tragic heroes and romantic events. A true scholar, he combines a genuine love of learning with academic aptitude. Submerged in his studies for most of his short stay, Don has attracted little attention, but those who know him are impressed by his shy amiability; and even those who do not know him well are struck by his one outstanding quality—his powerful intellectual drive.

JIM STEPTOE

Though much of Duff's time is taken up in the dubious arts of persecuting German teachers, concealing television sets, and master-minding the A.A. shop campaign to sell sweatbands, he still finds a few spare moments to keep up his honors grades. Sounding his battle-cry "Na Ja!" Dropfoot tucks his stack of books under his arm and sprints for the library, tossing many of his patented witticisms to passers by. But once at his destination, Jim applies himself with diligence to developing his best-hidden, but ultimately most valuable, talent.

CAM STRAS

Applying his laissez-faire attitude to the petty problems of life, Cam slips easily through the daily round. Never put-off by a homework build-up, he always finds time to shoot the bull before worrying about his High-List grades. Puttering in the lab to keep up his top-of-the-Physics class rating or snapping off an answer on "It's Academic," Cram does what he likes and works hard at it.

SANDY STUART

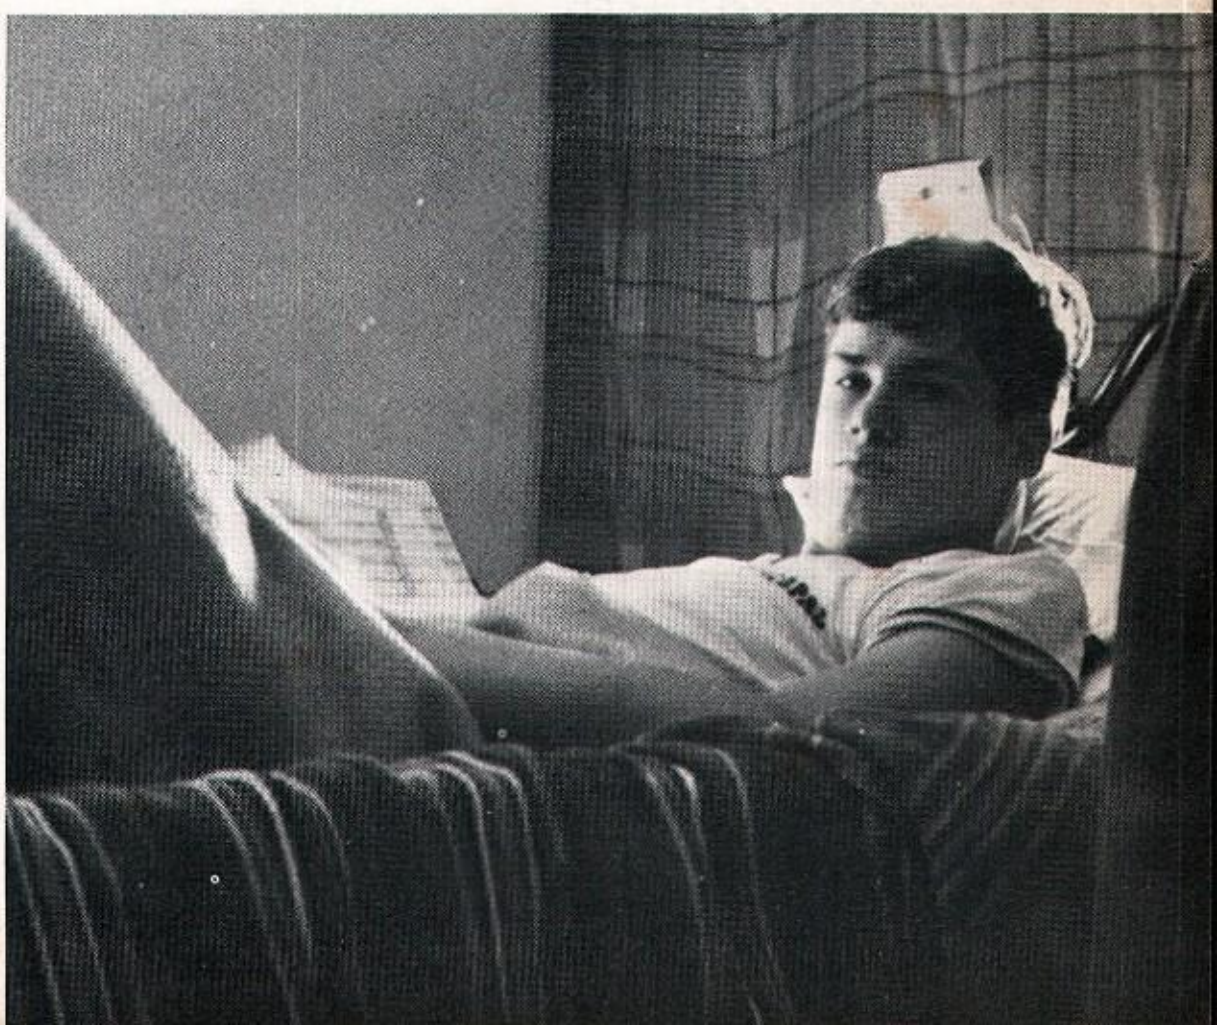
Sandy's modest proportions and ingenuously winsome expression conceal a temerarious disposition. He revels in physical combat, regardless of his opponent's size or choice of weapons, and is equally ready for duels of wit, where his dry humor and dead-pan delivery do dreadful execution. "Skinny Legs" is liked and respected by his peers, as witness his many captaincies, and the perfumed contents of his mailbox offer daily proof of the even greater admiration of his peeresses. Multum in parvo was never better expressed.

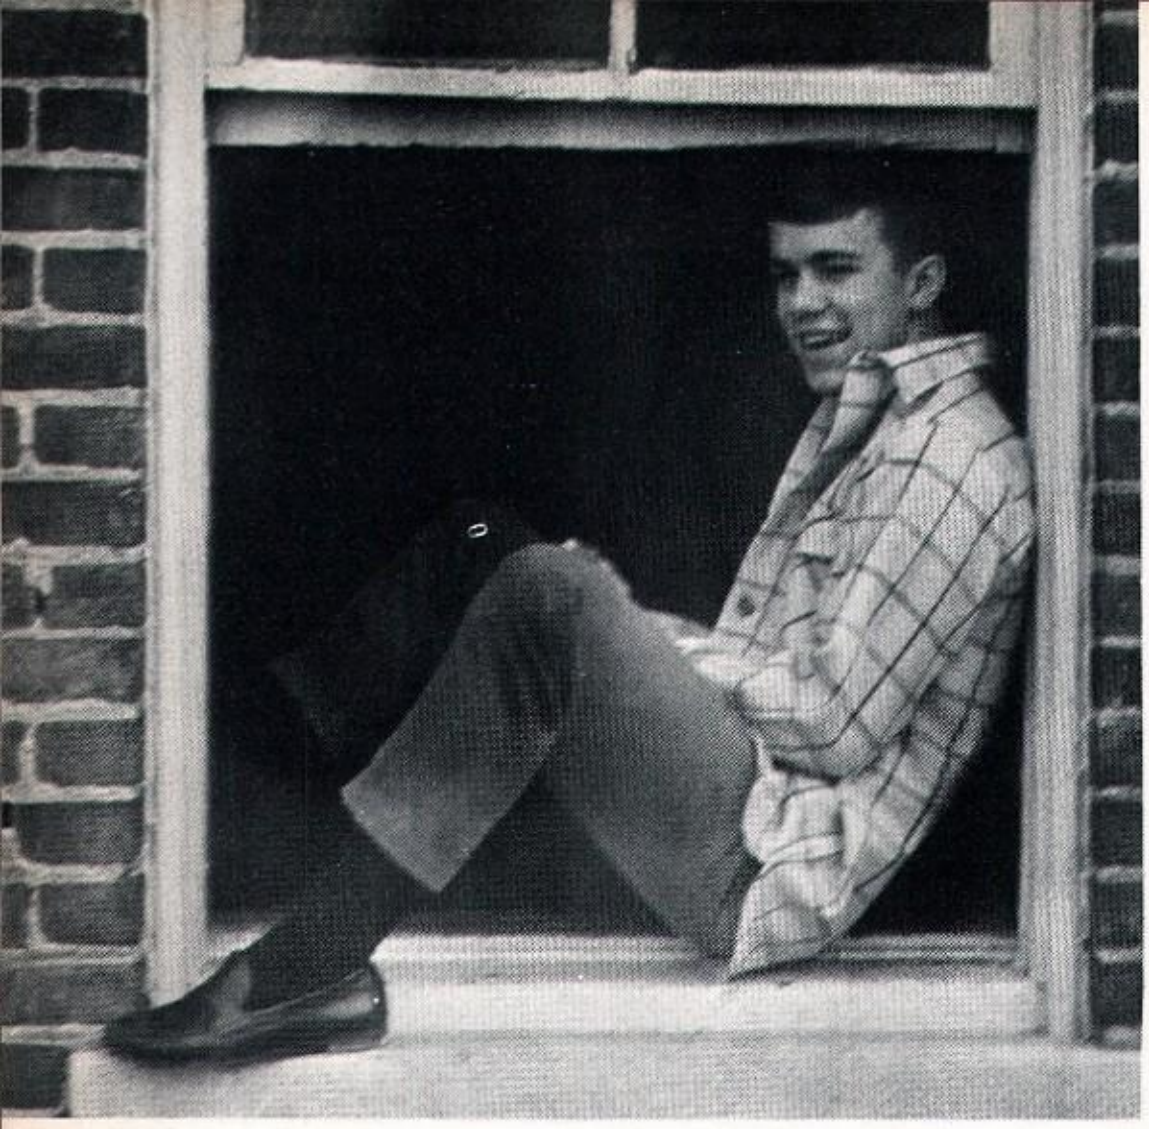
PETER VANDEVANTER

Consistently achieving enviable grades without studying and accomplishing unbelievable athletic feats without effort, Pete is the envy of all, but he doesn't even seem to notice it. Already among the class's foremost in brain and muscle power, Vandey-Vanter gives the impression that he has revealed only the top of the iceberg, that his talent is only beginning to show. Peter, because of his indifference and unawareness, is the boy to whom it all just seemed to happen.

BILLY SULLIVAN

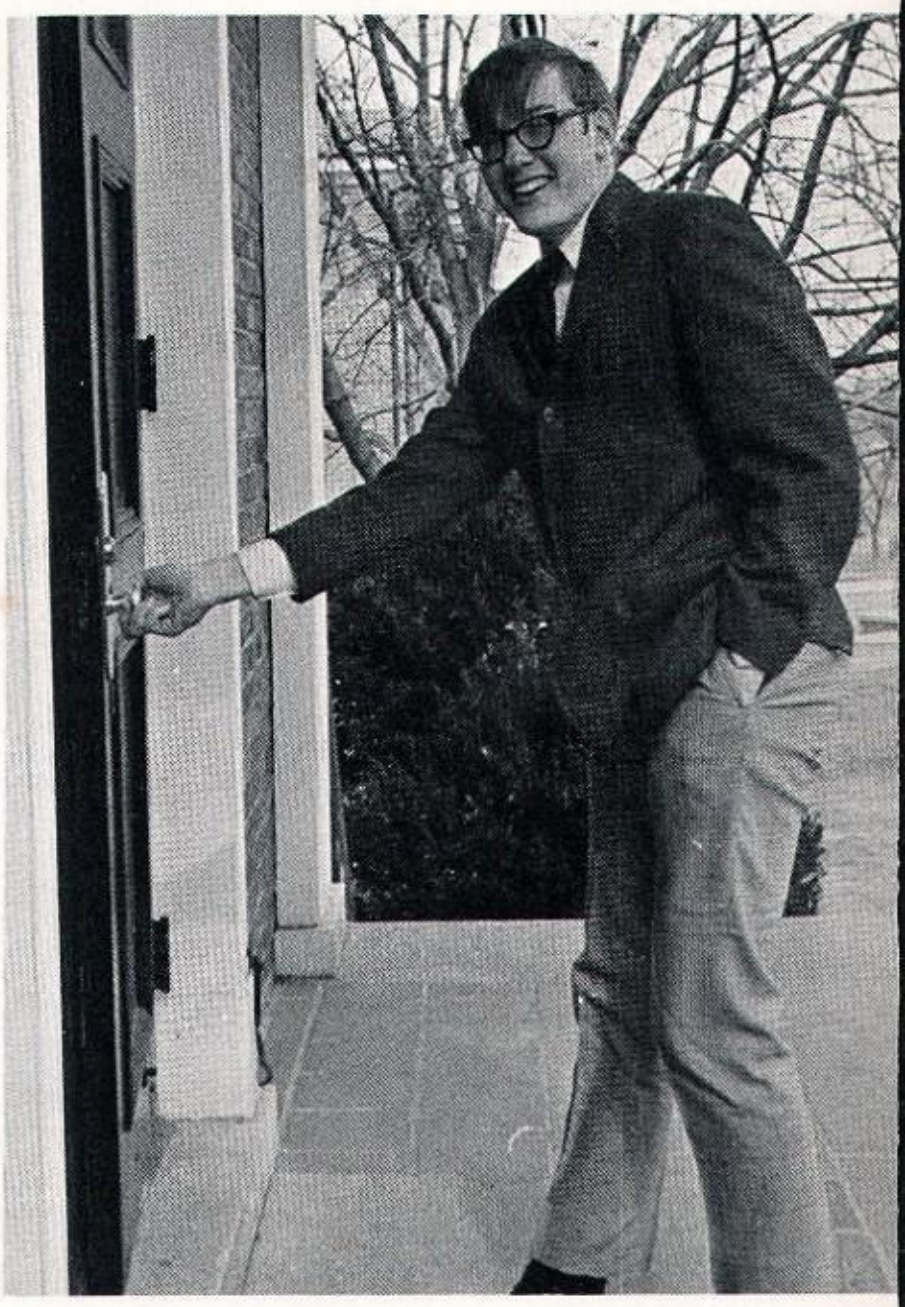
In this developing painter, an artist's ability, sensitivity, and temperament, plus a quixotic sense of humor, create an irresistible and eccentric charm. Sully's cheerful exterior, friendly towards all, conceals more profound feelings revealed eloquently to those who know him best. These feelings may come to the surface through any of a variety of mediums—painting, writing, speech—but they will be well-expressed. Though his path may be an unusual one, and his steps may wander, Billy will eventually get where he is going.





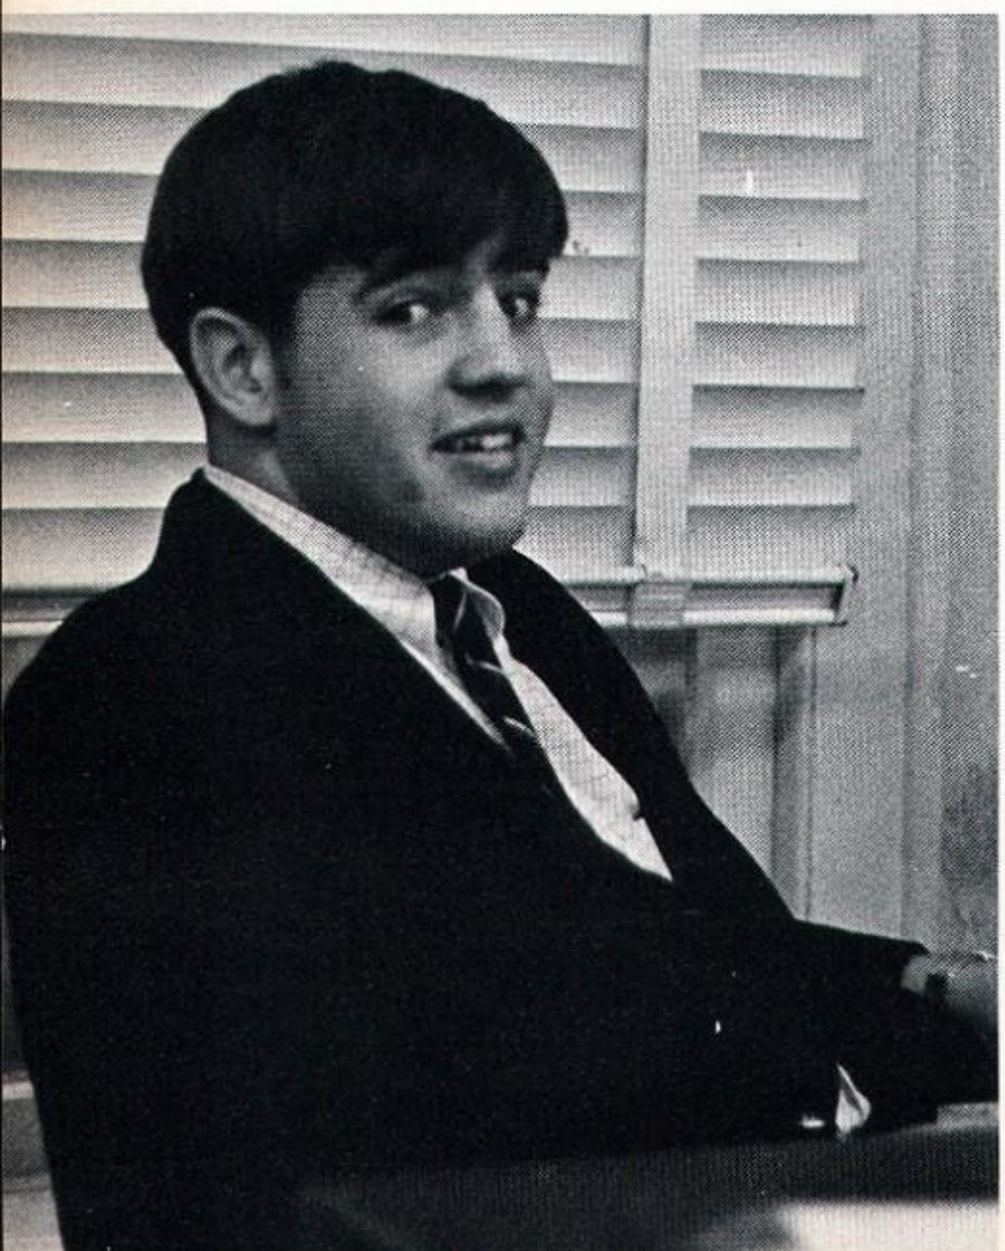
MARSHALL WASHBURN

"Lexington Larry" in his day-to-day existence eagerly clutches some Spanish epic, smiles winningly at the dorm keeper, or evicts fuzzy beagles from his bed, all with equal fervor. No matter what the endeavor, "Fat Marsh" is a sporting winner and a calm loser, although determined not to be bested next time. Outgoing and aggressive, Marshall enjoys setting a goal and working hard to achieve it. And once he does achieve it, no one can relish it like Marsh.



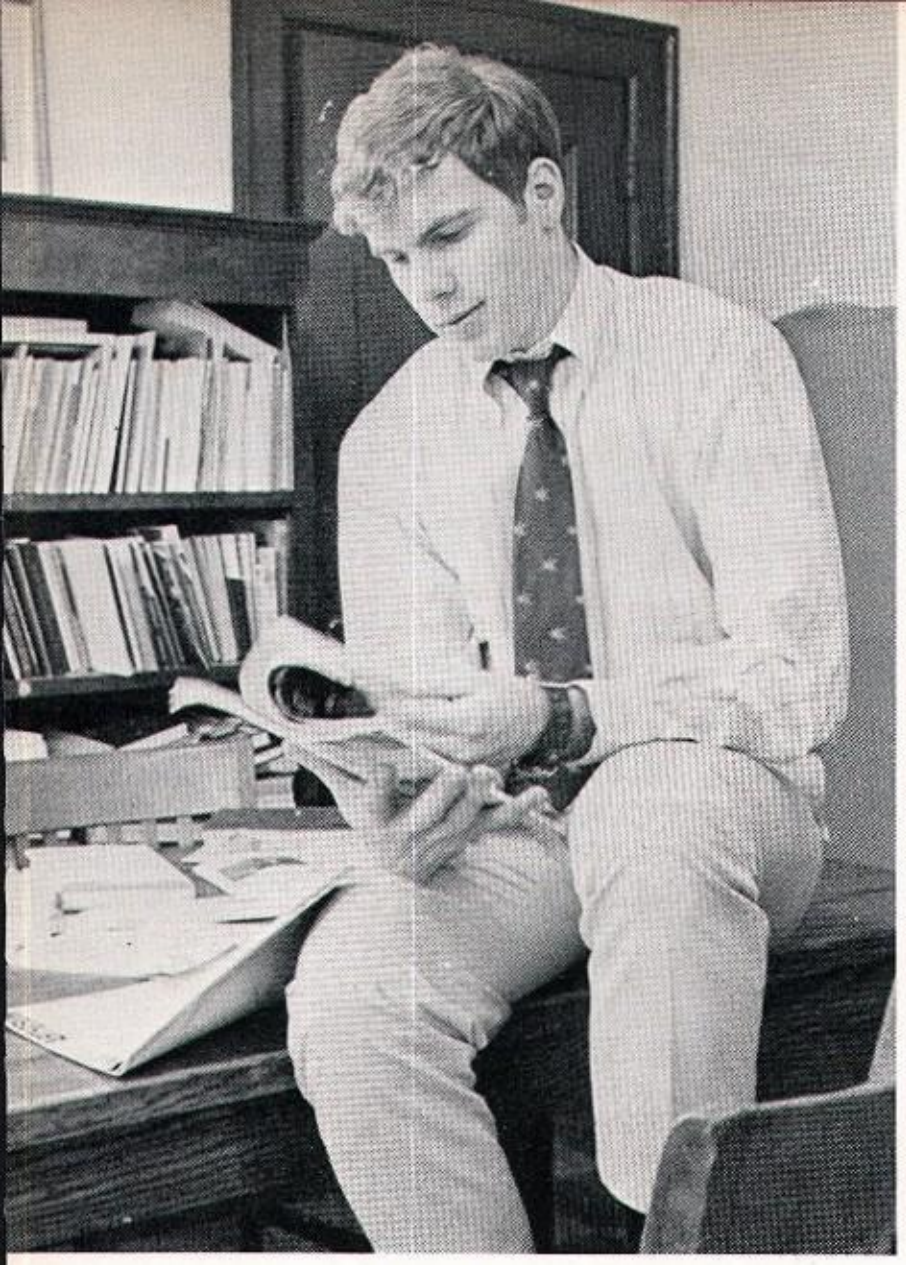
LADSON WEBB

Singularly open and unaffected, warm in friendship without being intrusive, Ladson personifies the ante-bellum ideal of an Old South-of-Broad Charlestonian. Although he has never achieved star rank as either athlete or scholar, his enthusiasm remains unquenched, and his loyal labors have done much to forward any crusade in which he has enlisted, be it a Bible-study group, Marauder football, or the stage crew. With Ladson it is always possible to enjoy the tune, even if you don't understand the words.



BILL WEBSTER

Latest in a long line of "Burly's," Bill has stepped in to fill the position with gusto. The climb from Marauders to a starting position on Varsity Football seemed to give Willy the momentum that carried him through his senior year with confidence and enthusiasm. The obvious optimism of Bill's approach to life has been a boost to his fellow sufferers. Wherever he appears, Burly brings with him the real Florida sunshine.

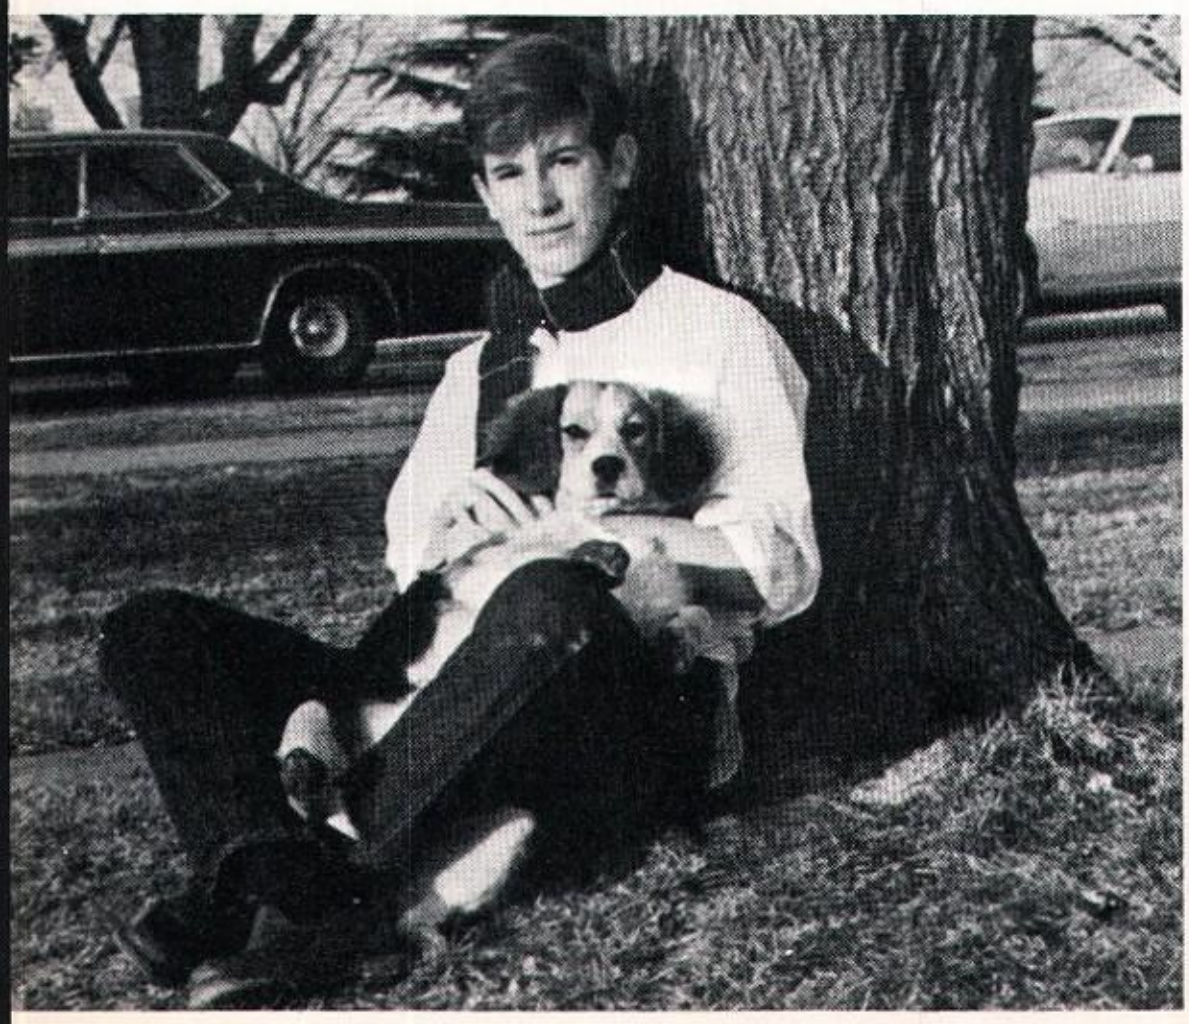


ROB WHITTLE

"Yaw, me?" retorts Bob to any insinuation that his own personal dialect is anything but "Burg-lingo" or his Dodgers anything but spectacular. Rob's many perfumed letters and his usually crowded room are indications of the popularity inspired by his outgoing personality. Quiet and conscientious about his work, he is nevertheless an indispensable in the lighter side of campus life.

WHIT WHITTLE

Always relaxed and cheerful, "Twittle" is perfectly at home in any situation—on the dance floor impressing some fair damsel with his "witty wonderfuls," on the lacrosse field slashing his opponents with his able stick, or on stage displaying his Thespian talents. His mind is triumphantly trivial, and his tenor leads the singing waiters. Talking constantly, "Cap'n Cocky" inspires all around him with his contagious self-confidence.



DAVID WILLIAMS

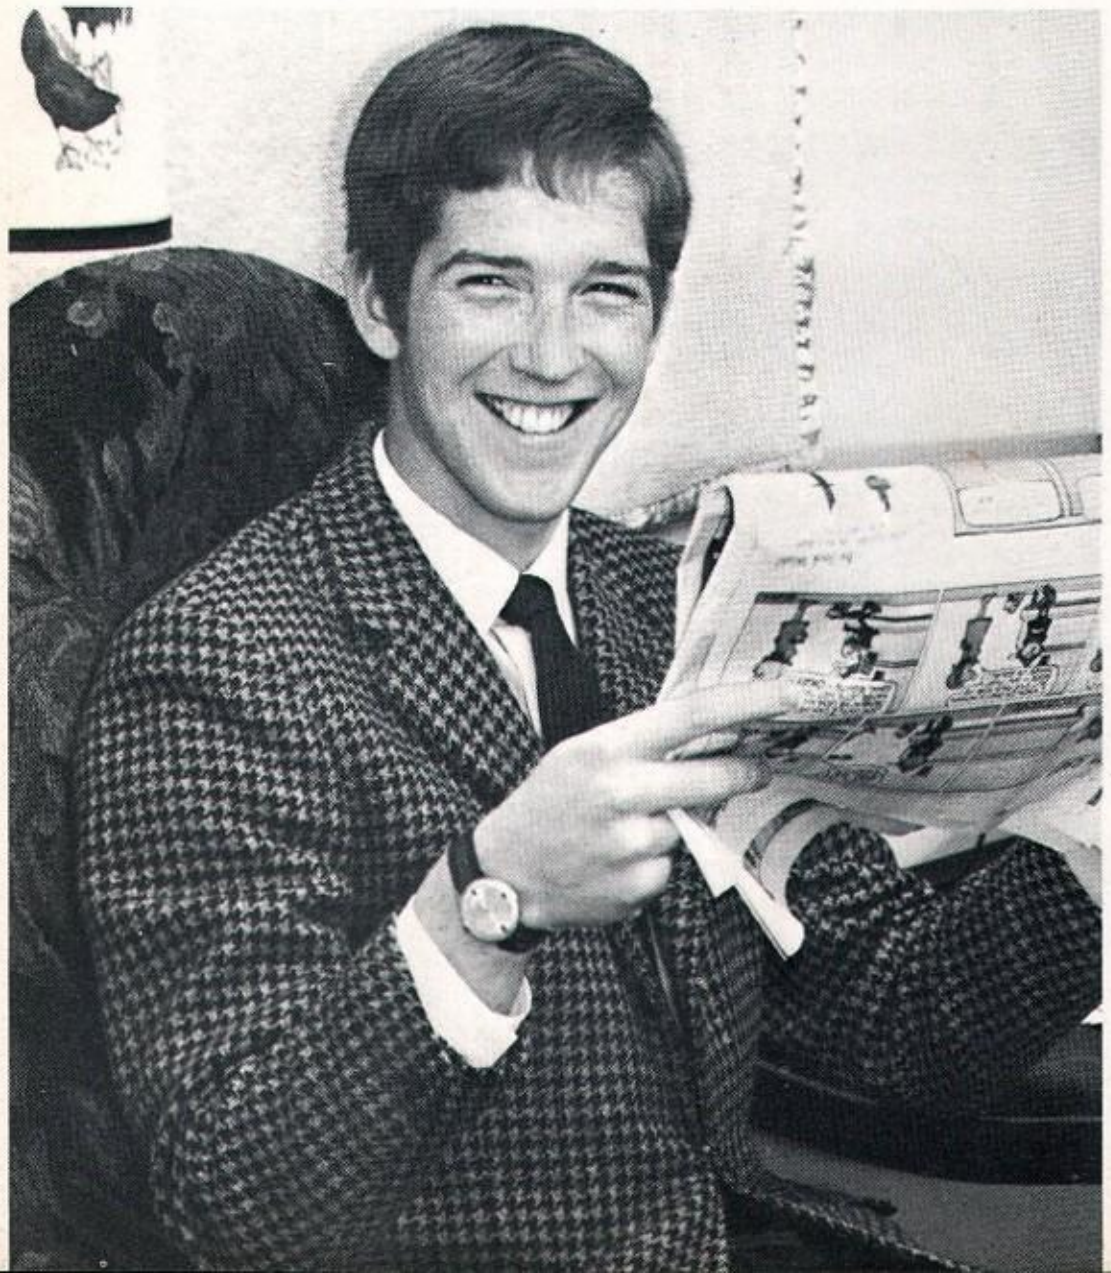
David, although one of our younger seniors, nevertheless displays a maturity surpassed by few of his classmates. Straining for the top of his class or wracking his brain for trivia, Dave often acts in a manner belying his shy-by-nature disposition. Though his dress may at times be slovenly, the man from D.C.'s mind always operates with the precision of an annelidical balance. Simple presence of mind keeps this underground intellectual well ahead of the rat race.

ALEX WISE

Talking incessantly of a mythical Utopia in upstate New York or of his newest athletic hero, "Beezer" impresses his many friends with his enthusiasm and eloquence. The campus "good-guy," Al brings joy to all merely by being his friendly self, inspiring those around him with his extraordinary zeal for living. The rare miscreant who dares to challenge him is overwhelmed by an emphatic "Nice guy to me!"—Al's enduring contribution to the school's collection of favorite expressions.

JOHN ZAPF

Surrounded by untidy piles of long forgotten poetry and cryptic short stories about fellow students, Jack conches to the beat of psychedelic music. "Never sarcastic," John has been responsible for giving more than his share of colorful school nicknames. Where baseball exists, Slippery is supreme. The Camel's favorite pastime is hitting balls at windows, passing cars, or deep right field. Using his talents when and how he chooses, John is aloof but still popular.



ROGER BROWN-HOVELT

"Roger Ramjet," Her Britannic Majesty's plenipotentiary to the Holy Hill, has become thoroughly naturalized, rapidly mastering both our tribal idiom and our quaint folkways. While he has appeared most noticeably as the horizontal soccer player, and the equally horizontal library student, he has made his serious contribution to the life of the school by bringing to focus on our problems the keen observation of an intelligent outsider. His perspectives have been helpful, and we are happy to accept him as a large installment in the repayment of Lend-Lease.

1968 was a year of many changes and improvements for the Varsity football team. New head coach Mr. deSarno gave the team the know-how, but more importantly the overwhelming desire to win. A new offense, coached by Mr. Burn and a new defense coached by Messrs. Shelor and Yarborough, gave the Maroons a 7-2 season record—the best in six years. Co-captains Tim Haley and Beetle Smith did an outstanding job of providing leadership.

The new offense was headed by quarterback Bill French, whose passing and running provided a double threat to opposing defenses. High scorer Jenner Wood and leading rusher Jess Erwin alternately spearheaded a powerful running attack, which was the strong point of the offensive team. French had fine receivers in Joe Boyd, Pete Vandevanter, and Joe Simpson. To pass or run a good offensive line is needed, and Mr. Shelor provided an excellent one with Tebbs Prewitt at center, Jim Farrar, John Heavey, Kevin Newman, and Tim Haley at guards, and tackles Lee McLaughlin and Milton Sams.

The defensive unit did a spectacular job the entire season and kept their opponents to an average of one touchdown in the first eight games. All-Metropolitan linebacker Tim Haley was the bulwark of the team as he made over 70 tackles. Right behind Tim was Bill Lewis at the other linebacker spot with more than 60. A tough defensive line thwarted many of the running attacks of opponents while putting on a fine rush all season. At the ends were Bud Cox, Win Peters, Joe Simpson, and Whit Whittle, with Lewis Lawrence, Tebbs Prewitt, Alex Wise, and Lee McLaughlin at the tackles, and Dickie Dobbins and Bill Webster alternating at middle guard. The defensive backfield, which did an outstanding job, consisted of Pete Vandevanter at safety, Joe Boyd, Marshall Washburn, Chip Childs, and Rob Whittle at defensive halfbacks.

With a great deal of hard work under their belts a determined Varsity took the field against their first opponent, Gonzaga.

EHS 29 GONZAGA 0

Hard work and determination gave the Maroons a sound victory for Coach deSarno's debut. Three weeks of early football agony paid off as the team sparkled.

EHS 19 ST. ALBANS 16

A strong St. Albans team provided the Varsity with its toughest test of the new season. Pete Vandevanter's second-half kickoff return and Win Peter's blocking of a field goal attempt sparked the widely outgained Maroons to their third consecutive victory.

EHS 20 VES 12

The Maroons took this first Prep League game with a fine end-zone catch by Joe Boyd of a pass from quarterback French. Although VES was out to avenge last year's thrashing the Maroon defense held them to secure victory Number 2.

EHS 20 ST. CHRISTOPHER'S 12

Before a large Homecoming crowd, the Varsity wore down St. Christopher's team. French and his offense did magnificently as the Maroons rolled to Number 4.

EHS 26 COLLEGIATE 16

The team traveled to Richmond and overcame a 10-0 deficit to defeat Collegiate 26-16. Tim Haley bolstered his forces as the defense held in the second half to win Number 5.

EHS 32 RMA 0

A fired-up offense and defense thoroughly thrashed RMA 32-0 on a successful football day at Front Royal. This was perhaps the high point of the 1968 season as the Maroons attained a winning streak of six.

EHS 6 LANDON 7

Finally the magic was overcome by Landon. Nothing seemed to go right for the Maroons as they lost in a hard-fought battle.

EHS 27 ST. STEPHEN'S 13

The spell broken, Coach deSarno regrouped his forces and led them to a rewarding victory over long-awaited St. Stephen's.

EHS 28 WFS 54

Although Peyton Prospere moved the offense well, filling in for the injured Bill French, Woodberry's passing game proved to be too much for the defense. Outmanned and outscored, the Maroons were not outfought.

The 1968 cross-country team, expertly coached by Mr. Speights, proved that it deserved its Varsity rating by rolling up eight straight dual meet triumphs, winning the Virginia Private Schools championship, and being named Prep League champions.

The team was led throughout the season by Tom Herrington, the captain, and Oliver Marshall, the alternate captain. Few teams could boast the one-two combination of Herrington and Marshall who won all but one of the dual meet first places between them during the season. Rounding out the top five runners were Jack Matthews, Stephen Hyde, and Chris Shepherd. Also instrumental in the team's success were John Clark and Ed McDonald.

From the first day, the practices were aimed at preparing the team for the State Prep meet. The team reached its apex there and took first place over such perennial powers as three- time champion Hargrave, Woodberry, St. Christopher's, Bishop O'Connell and ten other teams. The fitting climax to an amazingly successful first season was the dual meet victory over Woodberry.

The B team, also coached by Mr. Speights, did remarkably well in their three meets. Runners like Rob Potter, Rick Starr, Joe Mayo, and Lloyd Bowers should provide ample strength for next year's Varsity team.

Under the able direction of coaches Phillip and Smith, the J.V. team concluded anothe successful season with a record of 7-1. Behind strong defense led by co-captains Pat Naul an a potent offense directed by co-captain Bo Coffin the J.V.'s gained strength all season an finally beat Woodberry in the last game by on touchdown.

A defensive line composed of Clay Jacob, Jim Newman, Robby Barnett, Jim Holt, and Mac Johnston was outstanding on the pass rush but more importantly against a running attack. Behind the defensive wall were Naul, John Zapf, and Jim Spaulding at the linebackers and Wade Massie, Craig Stewart and Jim Elkin in the defensive backfield. This rugged defense held opposing offenses to an average of only 2 points per game and was definitely the strong point of this year's team.

After a slow start the offense began to roll through the efforts of running backs Craig Murray, Rock Houston, and Phil Bray. Directed by quarterbacks Marty Martin and Bob Coffin the Maroons amassed almost 170 points during the season for an average of 3 touchdowns per game. The offensive line was composed of Rick Bardolph, Joel Cheatham, Chuck Clay, Greg Cruze, and Louis Fitts.

Returning letterman Cruze and Clay were the mainstays of the offensive line which provided excellent blocking all season. At the ends were Richard Rhodes, who caught the winning touchdown pass against WFS and Harbert Adams who provided the team with the fine blocking and the speed it needed at end.

By far the toughest game of the season was Woodberry, but the alert J.V. defense recovered 3 fumbles and provided the offense the spark it needed, and the J.V.'s won the game 12-6.

Marauder Football

Although this year's Marauder team had only two games, it won them both by scores of 7-6 over Bullis and 12-0 over a strong Woodberry team.

The offense was led by quarterbacker David DeLamater and running backs Kent Hall, John Cathcart, and Billy Sullivan. Up front, doing the blocking, were Bill Lane, Stan Denegre, George Covington, Larry Lee, and Forrest Jones. Monty Bonner and Will Corbitt played the ends and provided the Maroons with fine pass receivers.

An excellent defense was composed of linemen Tom Scott, Ladson Webb, Fred Skaer, Charlie Murray, Roger Simpkins, and George Gretton. The defensive backfield consisted of Joe Gilchrist, Ken Ulsaker, Tom Steptoe, Sandy Stuart, Monty Bonner, and Bear Wilson.

Fall Soccer

The '68 Fall Soccer squad became more of a sport this year under Mr. Murray's merciless coaching. On the All-Stars, the defense, led by Decy Orrick and conch goalie Kinloch Nelson, relied on master fouler Richard Moncure and promising rookie Chris Davis. Post-grad ringer Howard Hudgins, with the solid assistance of Buck Hall and the slippery fakes of George Elliott were the backbone of the halfback line. Roger the Ramjet Brown-Hovelt and Sam Moncure, taking his flamboyant style from P. R. Shaw, were the insides. David Kelso played wing opposite Captain Moffett Cochran. The All-Stars had a record of 2-2, losing and winning one each to Washington-Lee and archrival Queen Anne's.

1968's edition of the Junior Football team had a statistically disappointing season, finishing with a 2-5 record. Although admirably coached by Messrs. Johns, Dunlop, and Dougherty, and led by fiery captains John Moncure, Alex Kempe, Bill Clark, and Mike Taylor, key injuries and other misfortunes prevented the Juniors from getting off the ground.

Junior Football

The hard-hitting offensive line was composed of ends Steve Lidie, David Williams, and Scott Peyton, tackles Louis Ficklen and Tommy Preston, guards Brodie Burwell and Ches Hortenstine, and capable centers Mac Wade and Rick Hall. Taylor, Downing Mears, and Lewis Rogers were the speedy backs. Taylor was undoubtedly the star of the offensive unit, accounting for the majority of the touchdowns. Signal-caller "Yatch" Bradsher, provided the soul for the offense.

A rocky defensive line, consisting of Doug and Jim Allen, Clark, Chuck Holderness, and J. C. Coupland, was usually successful in stopping the opposition's interior thrusts. Alex Kempe, Mac Wade, and Peter Marshall made up the elite linebacking corps, while Charley Bagley, Laird Stabler, Lucien Burnett, and Moncure were the deep men. The defense proved generally strong, but erratic on occasions.

Highlights of the season were the smashing early victory over Georgetown Prep and the satisfying win over a tough George Washington squad.

This year's Cake Team, coached by Messrs. Deeble, Vaughn, McDaniel and Pete Cimmino, finished the season with a deceptive 3-4 record. Captained by Geoff Snodgrass, Chris Snow and Ed Haggard, the Cakes played consistently larger opponents and fared well against them.

The defense was undoubtedly the bright spot for the '68 Cakemen as they were able to hold opposing teams to an average of one touchdown per game. The tough defensive line of John Harvey, Chip Land, Weyher Dawson, Don Bradsher, Ben Harrison were adept at stopping a running attack or rushing a passer. Backing them up were Sam Wood, Bo Root and Stuart Smith at linebackers along with Vince Dobbs, Churchill Pinder, and Chuck Patton at defensive backs.

The offensive team, though occasionally confused as to assignments, had a potent backfield with Haggard, Snodgrass, Bobby Preston, and Snow. Blocking was provided by center Cheshire Rhett, Robbie Kelso, Walter DuPre, Jamie Coleman, and Randy Worsham with Walter Holt at tight end and Sam Paschall and Howell Morrison alternating at split end. The highlight of the season was easily the 14-13 defeat of Potomac. Down 13-0 at the half, Ed Haggard spurred the Cakes to two touchdowns in the second half and a rewarding victory.

The squad was so numerous that a subdivision was formed of its smaller members. This group, known inevitably as the "Cupcakes," played two games on their own, and showed skill and courage equal to that of the regulars.

Fifth in St. Stephen's Tournament

The Varsity Basketball team, coached by Mr. Ainslie, had a disappointing season. Although at times the Maroons displayed the ability to play good basketball, they were never able to sustain it for a whole game and ended the year with a losing record. The high point of the season came in the first meeting with Woodberry Forest when the Maroons, down by five at the beginning of the fourth quarter, came on strong to win. The team ended its season by winning the consolation bracket in the St. Stephen's Tournament.

Co-Captains Jim Morton and John Genet led the team in points scored and rebounds. Morton, who was called on to play forward, guard, or center, took over the leadership responsibilities for the second straight year. In addition to this, he was usually called on to guard the opposing team's big threat. Genet came through more than once with superb rebounding and shooting performances. The team had two other returning starters in Peter Vandevanter and Tim Haley. Although Vandevanter started out slowly he came on strong towards the end of the year and helped immensely in the tournament. Tim Haley was mostly a defensive man but frequently he came up with a high-scoring game. Speedy Bob Coffin and lanky Laird Canby rounded out the starting five at different times.The Maroons had good depth for the first time in many years. At the guard position Peyton Prospere and Marshall Washburn did excellent jobs in spelling either Vandevanter or Haley. Peyton was the team's second high assist man while Washburn proved the most improved player on the squad. Extra height was amply provided by Rick Bardolph and Mack Johnston.

JV

This year's J.V. basketballers were a team that could rise to the occasion. Best exemplifying this was a two-point win over a much taller Collegiate team, which was caught flat-footed by the hustling Maroons.

Coached by Mr. Burn and led by Captain Jud Cuttino, the J.V.'s repeatedly hit high and low points.

Joining Cuttino underneath were Win Peters and Will Corbitt, while the backcourt was manned by Kent Hall, Roger Simpkins, Robby Little, Lucien Burnett, and Richard Berkeley. Bench strength was amply provided by Carl Carlson, Robbie Barnett, Pete Cimmino, and Ken Ulsaker.

Due to lack of experience, an extremely tough schedule, and a few injuries, this year's junior basketball team under the direction of Mr. Wooten, failed to achieve a winning record. Although the season had its low points, there were times when potential talent was shown. Co-captains Dave Kern and Reid Parks, along with Sam Wood, Louie Prichard, Bob West, George Gretton, Scotty Farrar, Jule Keith, and Don Bradsher saw action as starters during the season.

In one of the season's best performances, the Maroons gave T.C. Williams a tough first-half battle. The Juniors were boosted by the consistent play and hot hand of Dave Kern, the shooting of Reid Parks, and the defensive play of Sam Wood.

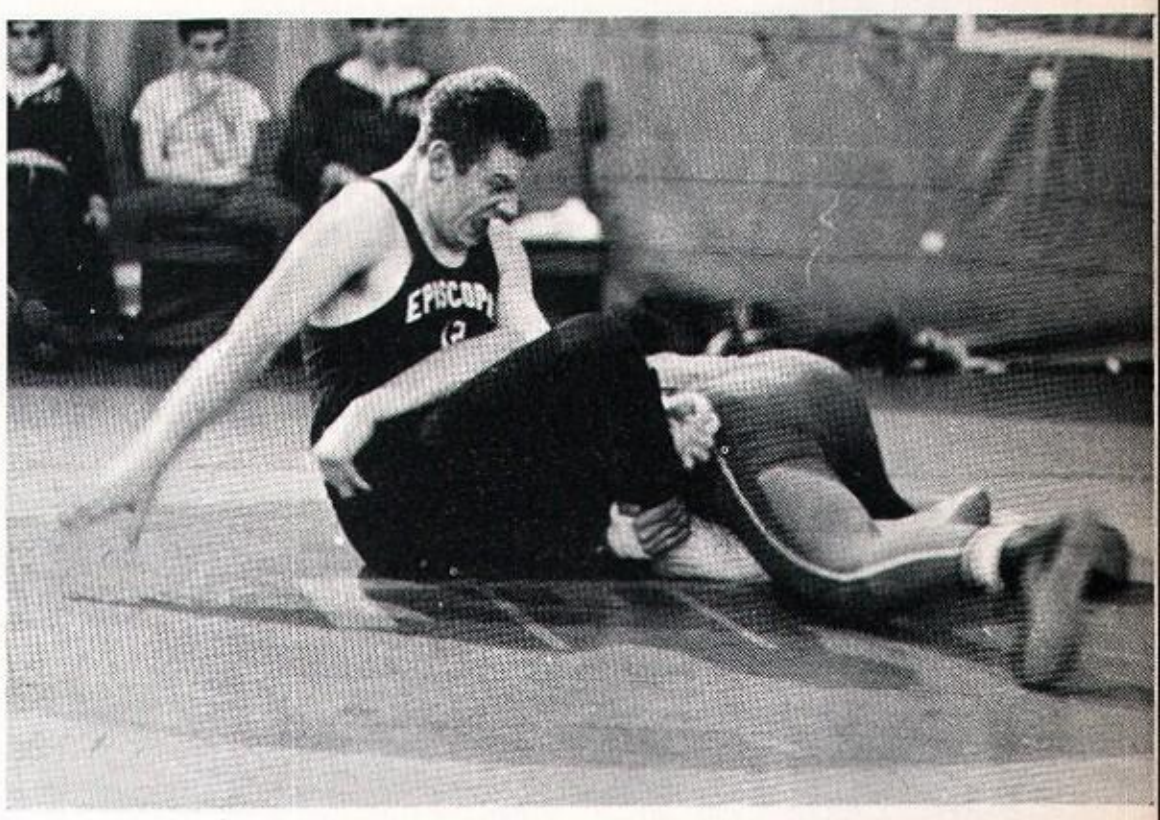
Eleventh in St. Albans Tournament



Hampered by inexperience at several weights, this year's Varsity wrestling team dropped most of its close matches, winding up with a disappointing 3-6 record and a low eleventh place in the St. Albans Tournament. The one bright spot came, fortunately, in the Woodberry match, when the line-up was at its strongest and everyone wrestled up to his potential.

As they should, the captains had the best records on the team: Chip Childs with a 7-2 and Reed Carr with 7-1-1 were top men in the dual meets, while Sandy Stuart achieved the highest Tournament place, a third.

Senior Ned McDonald was 5-4 in his first Varsity season, and placed fourth in the Tournament, despite a knee injury. Juniors Tebbs Prewitt, Dickie Dobbins, Jim Farmer, and Craig Murray—all up from last year's strong JV—performed well, but occasionally lost points because of the mistakes of inexperience, as did sophomores Lewis Fitts and Ed Haggard.

Three freshmen filled out the roster: Vince Dobbs, with an outstanding beginner's record of 5-4, Aaron Efird, and Churchill Pinder.

By itself, and by comparison with former years, 1969 was a poor season. However, if the wrestlers who have begun their Varsity careers develop as they promise to, it will be at least looked back on as a "building" year.

Despite poor records, the J.V. and "C" squad teams well fulfilled their purpose of gaining match experience for as many non-Varsity wrestlers as possible.

Under the leadership of Captain Bill Lewis and Co-alternate captain Moffett Cochran, the Varsity mudmen compiled a respectable season.

With only 5 returning lettermen, Coach Murray had to look to support from last year's J.V. squad and this year's new boys. Newcomers Heath Manning and Richard Fife held down two of the fullback positions with the other being expertly filled by Buck Hall. Their teamwork with goalie Jim Spaulding made an almost impenetrable wall for opponents to attack. In the middle, the halfbacks were Dave Clarke, Paul Duke, and Wade Massie. With consistent hustle and aggressiveness they proved themselves to be one of the best units in the metropolitan area. On the front line there was a necessity for many changes and alterations due to injuries. Throughout most of the season, the starting unit proved to be Lewis and Cochran on the wing, with Doug Romaine and Cooke Wilson on the insides. Romaine and Wilson were both constant threats on attack but were ably spelled by either Sam Moncure, Rock Houston or Val Jackson. Although not a high-scoring unit, this attack team provided a constant threat. Having a great deal of depth, Mr. Murray was able to turn to the bench for support, which he got from Roger Brown-Hovelt or Scott Bergland.

The high points of the season were definitely the two sound victories over Georgetown Prep. The first game Cooke Wilson led the scoring attack with two goals while Dave Clark and Doug Romaine each added one. The second game proved to be a hard-fought battle in the rain with the mudmen scoring twice in the third period to win 2-0.

1969's J.V. Soccer team, sporting an admirable 10-1-1 record, played some of the best sub-varsity mudball that has been seen on the Holy Hill for a number of years. Much of the credit for the fine season must be given to Coach Dougherty, who kept pushin' for skill at soccer.

Although Captain and center forward Don Trask was sick most of the season he did turn in some excellent performances. Assisting him on the line were Flash Braun, Chris Snow, Bo Root, and Joe Damron. They were backed up by half-backs Bill Fletcher, Chuck Murray, and Witt Jennings, while John Heavey, Harbert Adams, and Richard Moncure rotated as ferocious full-backs. Goalie Scott Peyton's permitting on the average only two-thirds a goal a game speaks for itself.

This year's Junior Soccer team combined a remarkable degree of talent with a great deal of spirit. Although jocular in practice, the members buckled down seriosly to the task of winning games. Standouts included high scorer, Bill Clark, and Mike Taylor on offense, and Spears Mullen on defense. Under the inspiring coaching of Mr. McDaniel the team eased to a winning record.

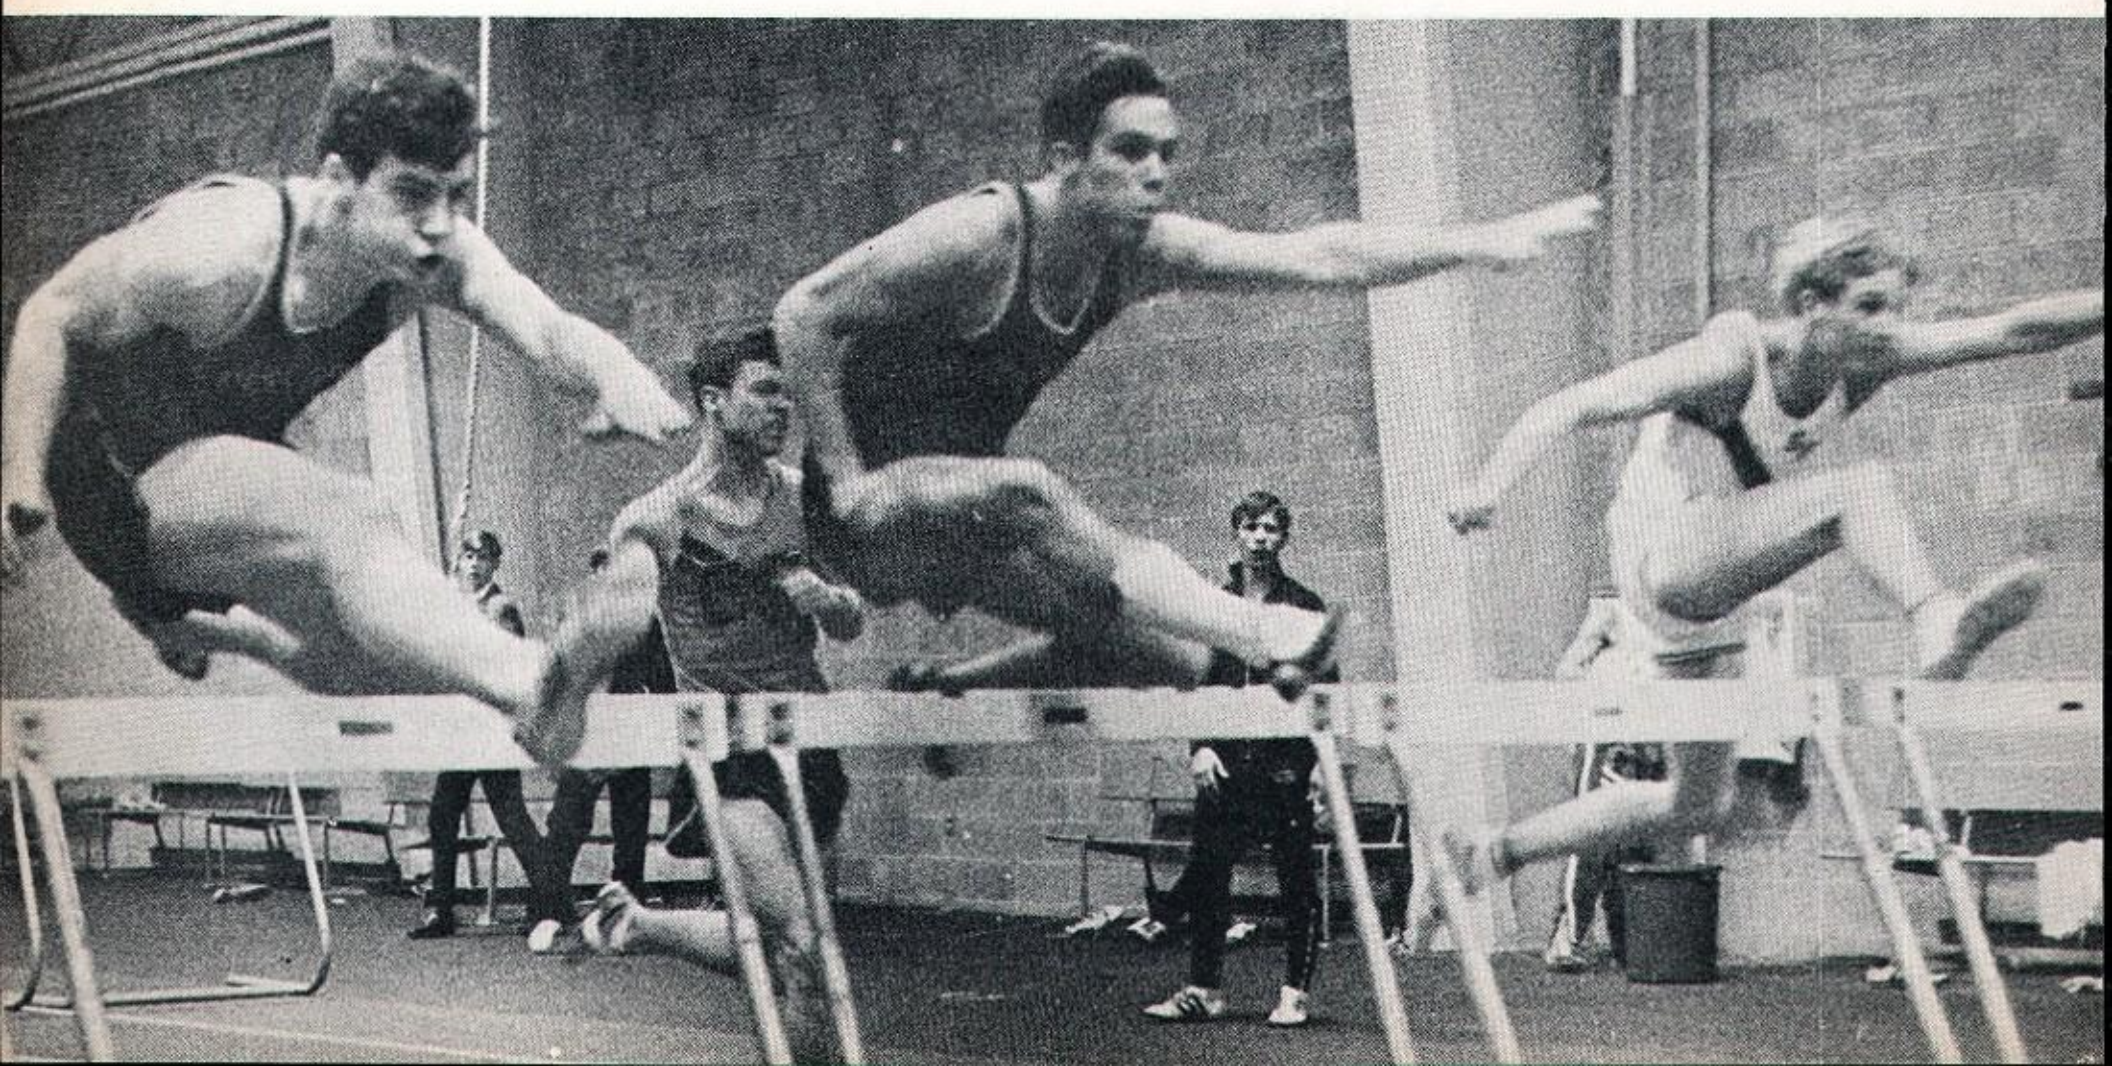
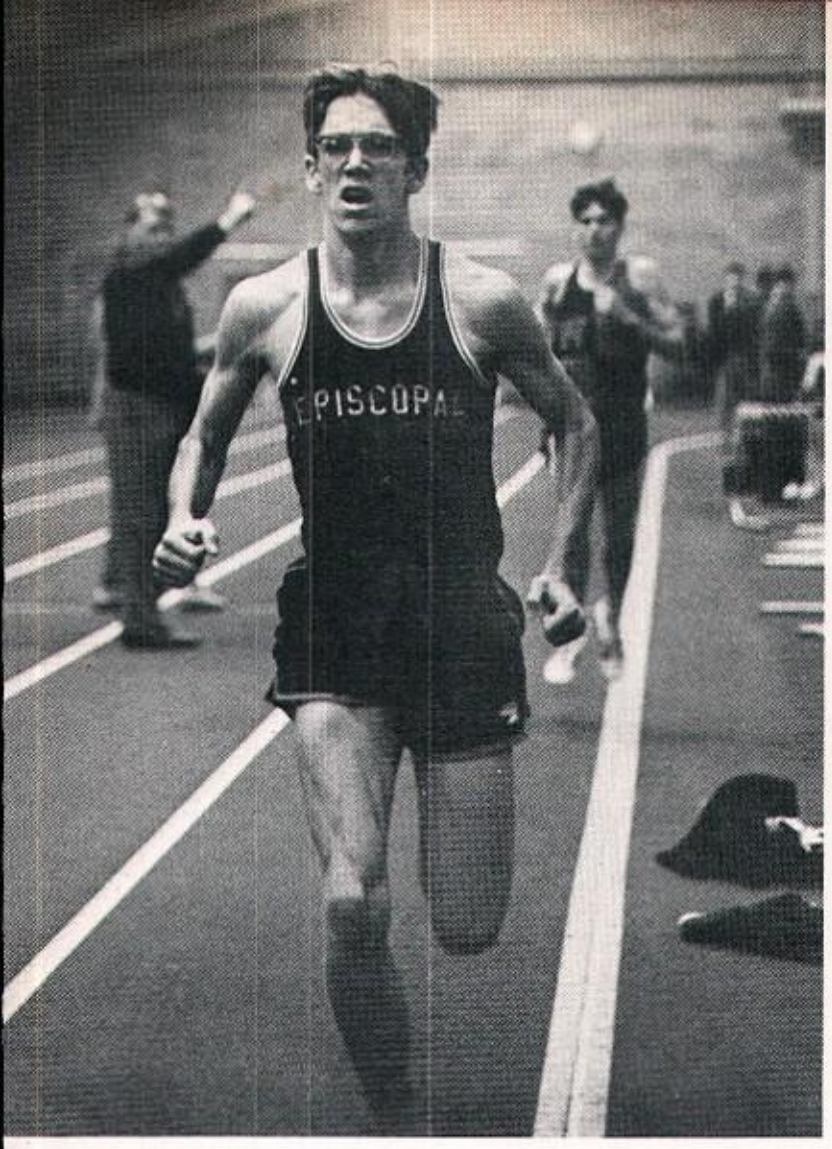
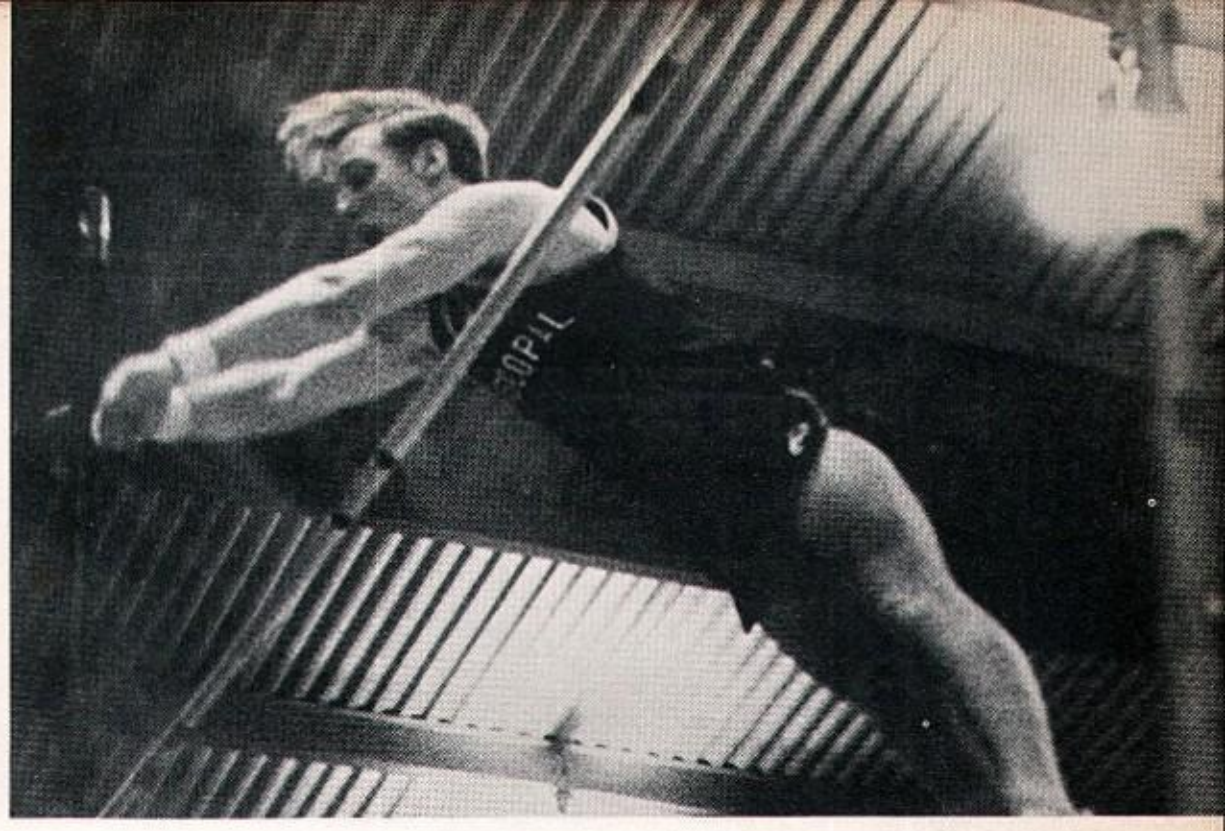
First in Northern Virginia Invitational







The track team had a terrific winter and made their second season in Flippin Field House a success in every way. Inspired by their dedicated coaches—Mr. Seidule, Mr. Speights, and Mr. Yarborough—the Maroons performed magnificently and proved their ability by defeating past nemeses, Wakefield and Woodberry, and by capturing the Northern Virginia title.

Co-captains Joe Simpson and Tom Herrington broke records and scored needed points, and led their teammates by their quiet but ever present spirit and determination. Simpson, who ran the first leg of the record-breaking mile relay team, highlighted a fine group of sprinters that included Bullet Baldwin, Jenner Wood, Roddy Davis, Ralph Gorrell, and Trigg Brown; however, the most outstanding performer was Jack Matthews, who set new records in the 500 and half mile and also anchored the mile relay. Undoubtedly, the strong point for the Maroons was the distance team led by Herrington who set the new two-mile record. Sound depth was added by Peter Marshall and Jim Newman in the mile, by Chris Shepherd in the two-mile, and by Owen O'Connor, Steve Hyde, and Craig Stewart in half-mile.

Bud Cox, a consistent point scorer, excelled in several field events and the hurdles. Jess Erwin had his usual fine season pole-vaulting, and he also took up some of the load in other events after the loss of Joe Boyd, a valuable member of the squad. The weight men — Lee McLaughlin, Alex Wise, and Phil Bray — all performed well after a slow start.

With the continued excellence of these members and the addition of other fine performers, the thin-clads looked to the spring with confidence.

The Junior track team had an outstandin season this winter with a 5-2 record, losing onl to Hammond in the regular meets and to Wake field in the Northern Virginia Invitational. Thei most outstanding victory was over Woodberr Forest, in which they broke five previous record The success of the junior track team was largel due to two factors, the leadership of Captai Downing Mears and alternate captain Lou Ficklen, and the overall effort of the team a whole. The team also produced a leader, Cox, who was not only high scorer for th ju niors, but also for the Varsity.

After coming off probably their best winter season ever, the Varsity track thinclads proved themselves to be even stronger in the spring. The ever-improving winter performers and the talented spring additions were the key to the team's success.

Co-captains Joe Simpson and Tom Herrington gave their utmost efforts and highlighted the successful season. Simpson displayed his blinding speed in the 100,220, and 880, and mile relays, while Herrington concentrated on the mile record.

Flashy Jack Matthews used his perfect form and great speed in his specialties, the 440, and the anchor leg of the mile-relay. The other sprinters—Bullet Baldwin, Ralph Gorrell, Trigg Brown, Roddy Davis, and John Cathcart—were certain scorers in almost any race. And returning letterman Moffett Cochran and Cooke Wilson were invaluable to the team's success. Bud Cox spearheaded a strong hurdle team of Jenner Wood, Paul Duke, and Larry Lee.

The field event men were led by "Jumping Jimmy" Morton, who was fantastic in the high jump, triple jump, and long jump. However, Cox and Rick Bardolph were close behind. Jess Erwin, Joe Boyd, and Paul Duke showed themselves to be the best pole-vaulting team in the state. Weightmen Lee McLaughlin, Alex Wise, and Philip Bray turned on the muscle for some herculean heaves in the shot put and discus.

The distance attack was spearheaded by ever-reliable Tom Herrington in the mile, closely followed by Peter Marshall and Jim Newman. Steve Hyde, Owen O'Connor, and Craig Stewart got the necessary points in the half-mile while "perennial star" Ollie Marshall, Cris "Stickman" Shepherd, and John Clark dominated the two-mile run.

Because of the fantastic records set under the guidance of Messrs. Seidule, Speights, and Yarborough, and the overall efforts of the performers, the '69 Varsity track team will be long remembered.

JUNIOR TRACK

The 1969 junior track team, led by captain Downing Mears and alternate-captain Chuck Patton, proved to be a strong and versatile squad.

The field events were very potent with the admirable performances of Bud Cox, Downing Mears, and Brian Ross in the long jump and the triple jump. Equally outstanding performances were shown by Sam Paschall and Scott Linder in the pole vault, Mark Gardner in the shot and discus, and Bud Cox and Jim Burke in the high jump.

The sprints, although lacking in depth, showed progress through the hard work of Downing Mears, Bud Cox, and David Kirksey.

The hurdles, probably the team's strongest aspect, were headed by record holder Bud Cox with Chuck Patton and Jim Burke close behind.

The success of this year's junior track team was due mainly to the hard work of its members and the expert coaching of Mr. Vaughan.

VARSITY BASEBALL

The 1969 Varsity baseball team, having lost only two of the last year's starters, displayed tremendous improvement with both the glove and the stick. Teamwork and hustle combined to eliminate all but a minimum of errors, while an effective line-up provided an all-important abundance of base-runners.

Forming the backbone of the team was the battery consisting of pitchers Bill French and Tim Haley and catcher Greg Robertson. Captain French once again paced the team with his bat, while Robertson performed admirably with the big glove. Scotty Bergland, again a heavy hitter, continued his golden-glove antics at third base, and Haley covered the shortstop position when not pitching.

The right half of the infield witnessed a continuous struggle for the starting positions, with Wade Massie and Johnny Braun battling for second base and letterman John Genet and new boy John Heavey for first. Braun and Heavey, both newcomers to the team, added an indispensable touch to the Maroon attack: Braun with fine hitting and Heavey with his magnetic fielding and superb stretch.

Backing up the often impenetrable infield were slugging Bill Lewis in left field, John Zapf, also a dangerous hitter, in center, and Rock Houstoun, perhaps with the strongest arm on the team, in right. Fred Poisson was always ready to answer the call for an alternate in the outfield.

Mr. DeSarno, in his second year as coach, was responsible for a great deal of the team's improvement. His strategy and his insistence upon teamwork and hitting contributed to the desire of the squad.

JV Baseball

This year's J.V., like its predecessors, met the annual problems of inexperience and lack of depth. Despite these shortcomings, Mr. Dougherty's team improved greatly with time and experience.

The team's strong point was its sharp defensive infield, featuring Gene Hooff at first, Don Trask at the keystone, and Louis Prichard at third. Shortstop Bobby Preston and catcher Jim Elkin provided great hustle at their respective positions. Stalking the outfield were Steve Lidie in left, Sam Wood in center, and David DeLameter in right. Mac Wade and Eric Teagarden alternated duty on the mound. The able coaching of Mr. Dougherty and time proved to be the two reasons responsible for molding the J.V.'s into a more potent team.

Greenway

After the 1969 Greenway crop of players learned about some of the insignificant details of baseball, such as runs, hits, and outs, the league began its third year under staunch leadership by Mr. Horne. The evenly matched teams were coached by peace advocates Carter Land and Decy Orrick, war-mongers Chuck Clay and Jim Spaulding, and finally the spirited Fuquay boys, Louis Lawrence and Bob Slaughter.

Greenway has been known in the past to turn out a great many stars and this year was no exception. The new dimension in Greenway, baseball, was partly brought about by the efforts of such greats as Quint Robinson, Groover Mearns, Crazy Moseley and Oral Roberts.

As usual, Greenway had a highly incompetent staff headed by Commissioner Horne and composed of many learned baseball scholars. Yes, this year of Greenway will be long remembered because of its vast number of stars, pathetic umpires and coaches with a good-attitude.

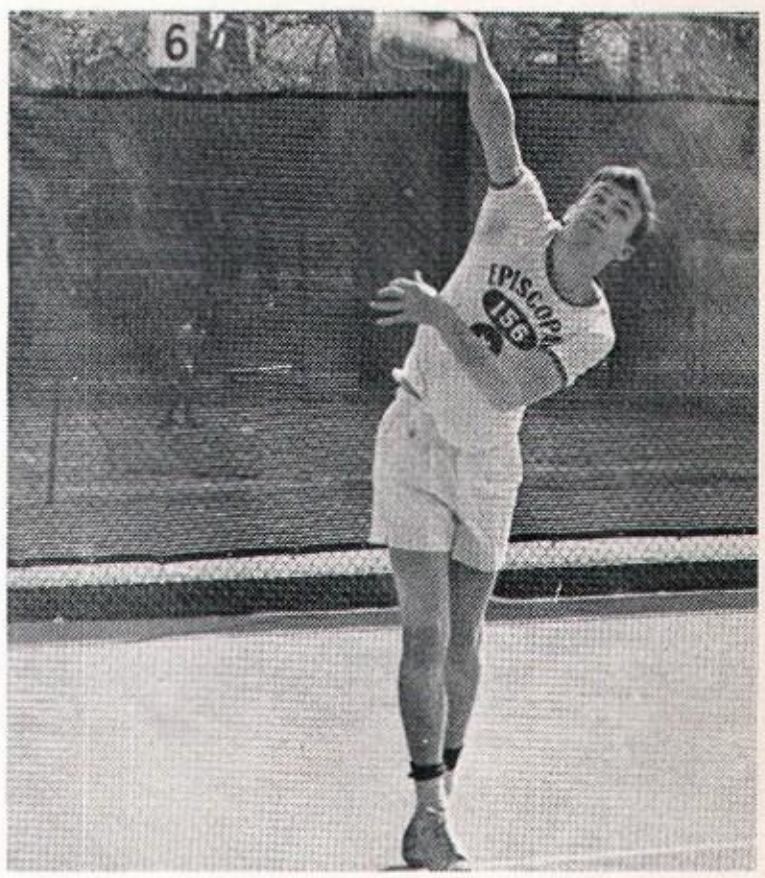
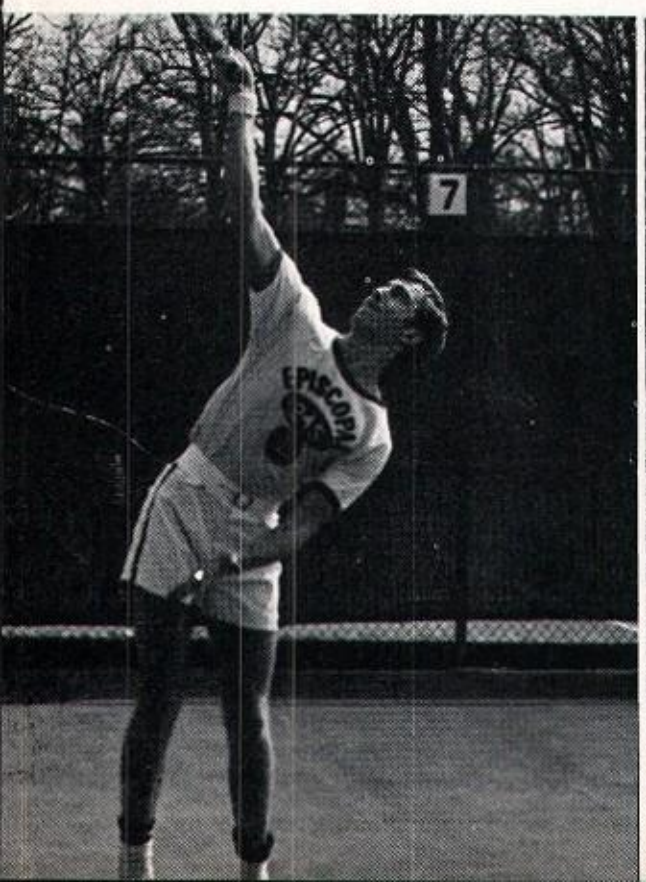
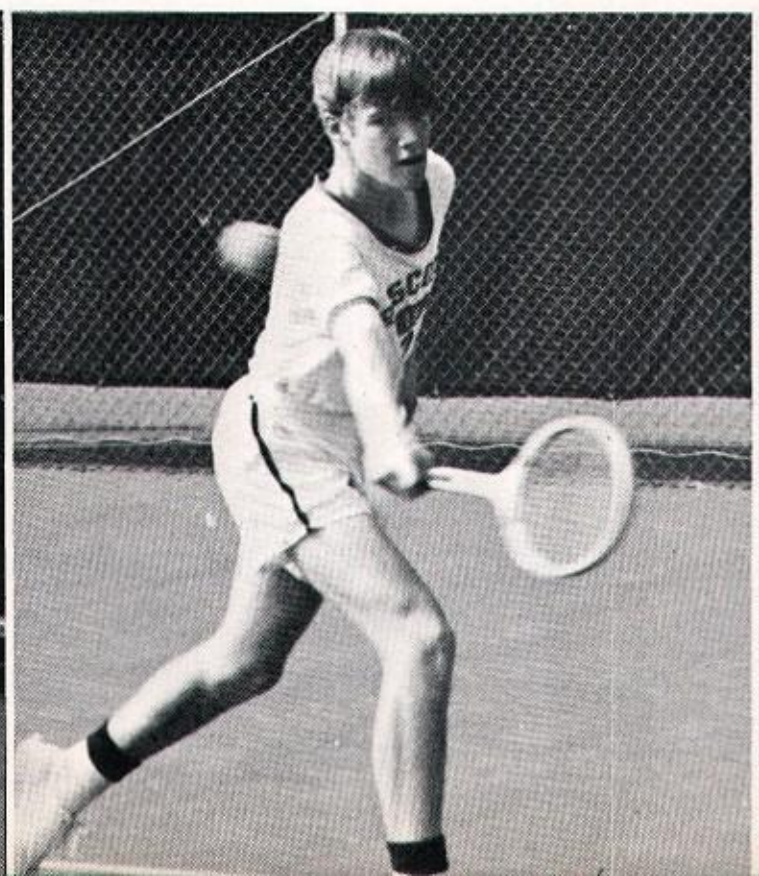
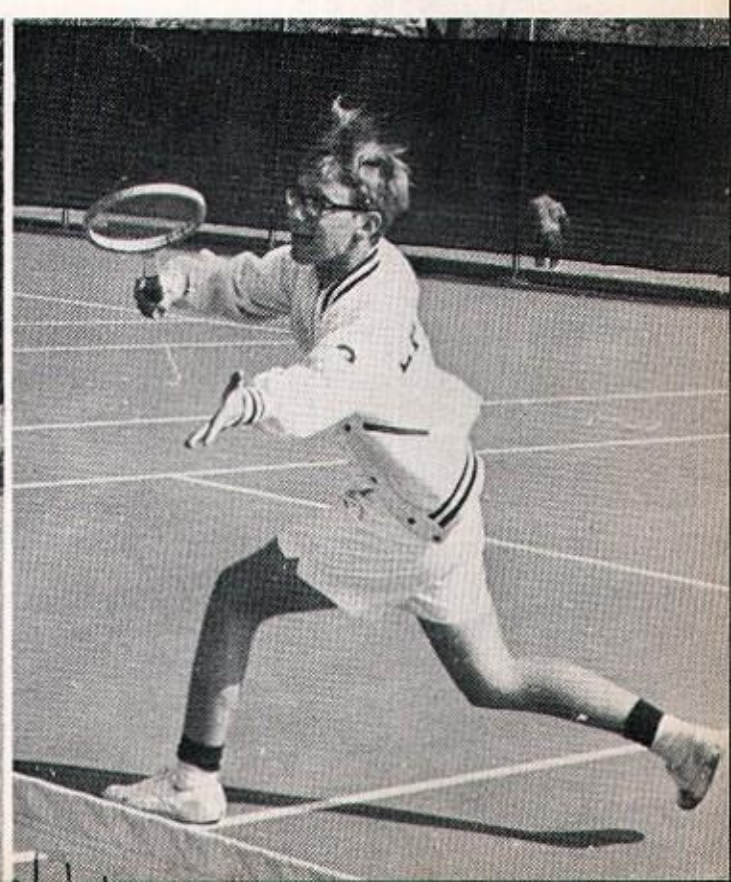
The 1969 edition of Varsity tennis promised to be one of the strongest in many years. Led by junior co-captains Randy Gregson and Bob Coffin, the team showed its strength from the very first match. Gregson and Coffin at the number one and two spots respectively performed with a great amount of skill and hustle. They were backed up in the third and fourth positions by returning lettermen Marshall Washburn and Bill Clark, both of whom showed their worth in clutch situations. John Moncure, one of last year's standbys, held down the number five spot, with Dave Williams coming next in the line-up. Following the first six were Cris Davis and David Kern, both up from last year's talented J.V. team. The doubles teams were made up of Gregson and Coffin, Clark and Moncure, and Washburn and Kern.

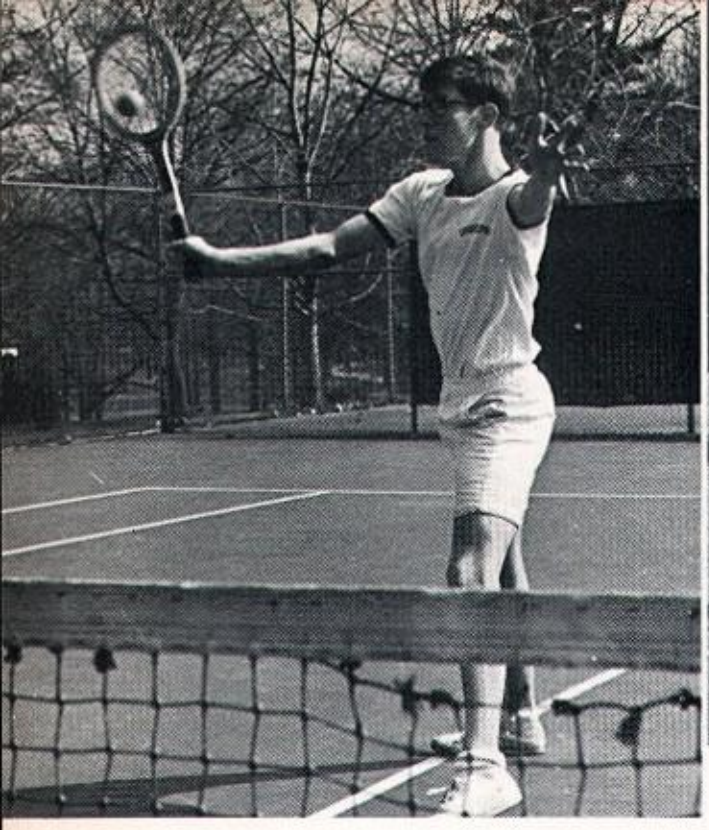
In his second year of coaching, Mr. Burn again did an outstanding job and was a determining factor in the team's success.

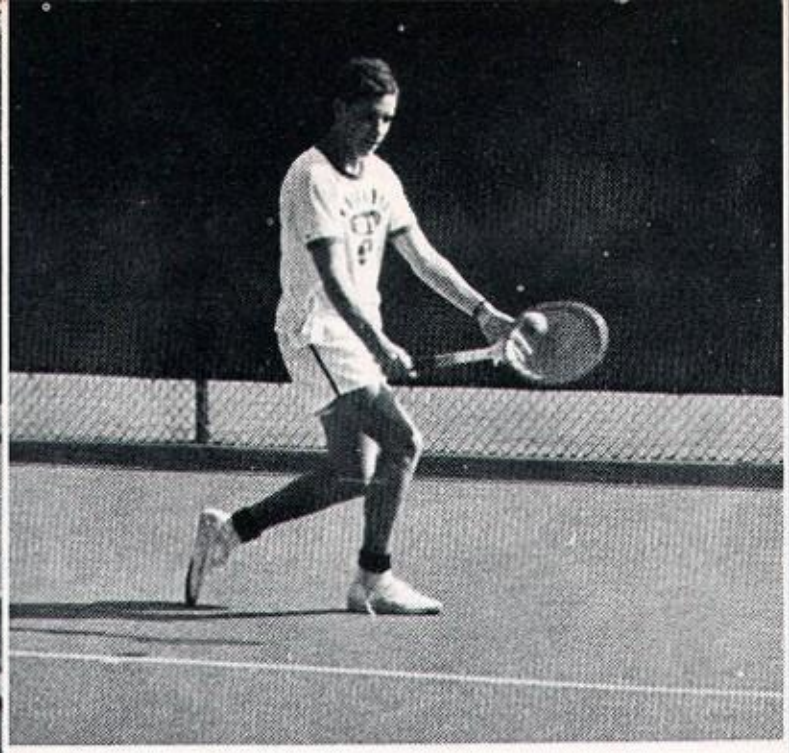


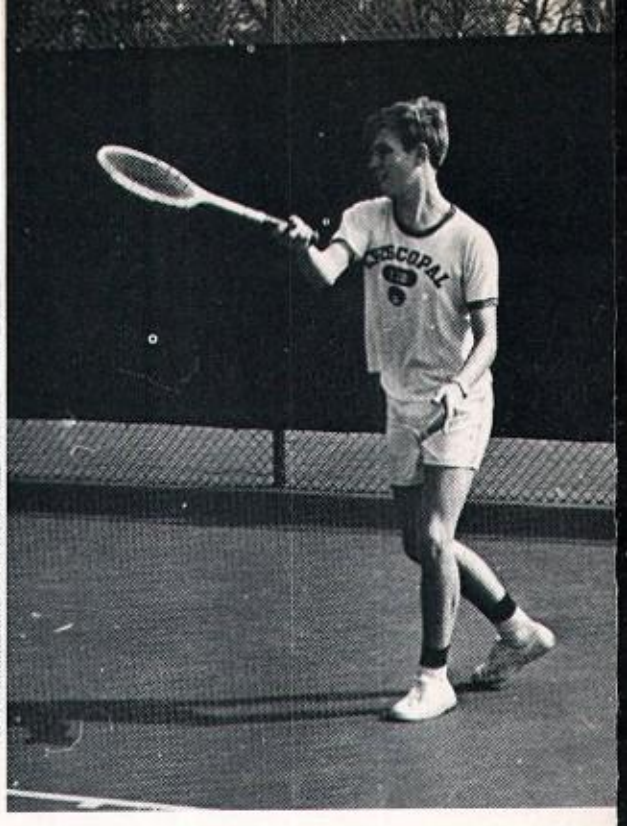












JV tennis

Under the direction of Mr. Johns, the J.V. tennis team again had a fine season. Led by returning lettermen Richard Berkeley and George Elliott, the J.V.'s displayed a great deal of talent and agility in match play. Filling out the lineup were Lucien Burnett, Stayton Bonner, Joe Damron, Jeff Snodgrass, and John Coupland, all of whom are returning from last year's Maroon and Black, along with new boy Jock MacIntosh. After having gained valuable experience this year, the J.V. squad should prove to be a valuable source for next year's Varsity players.

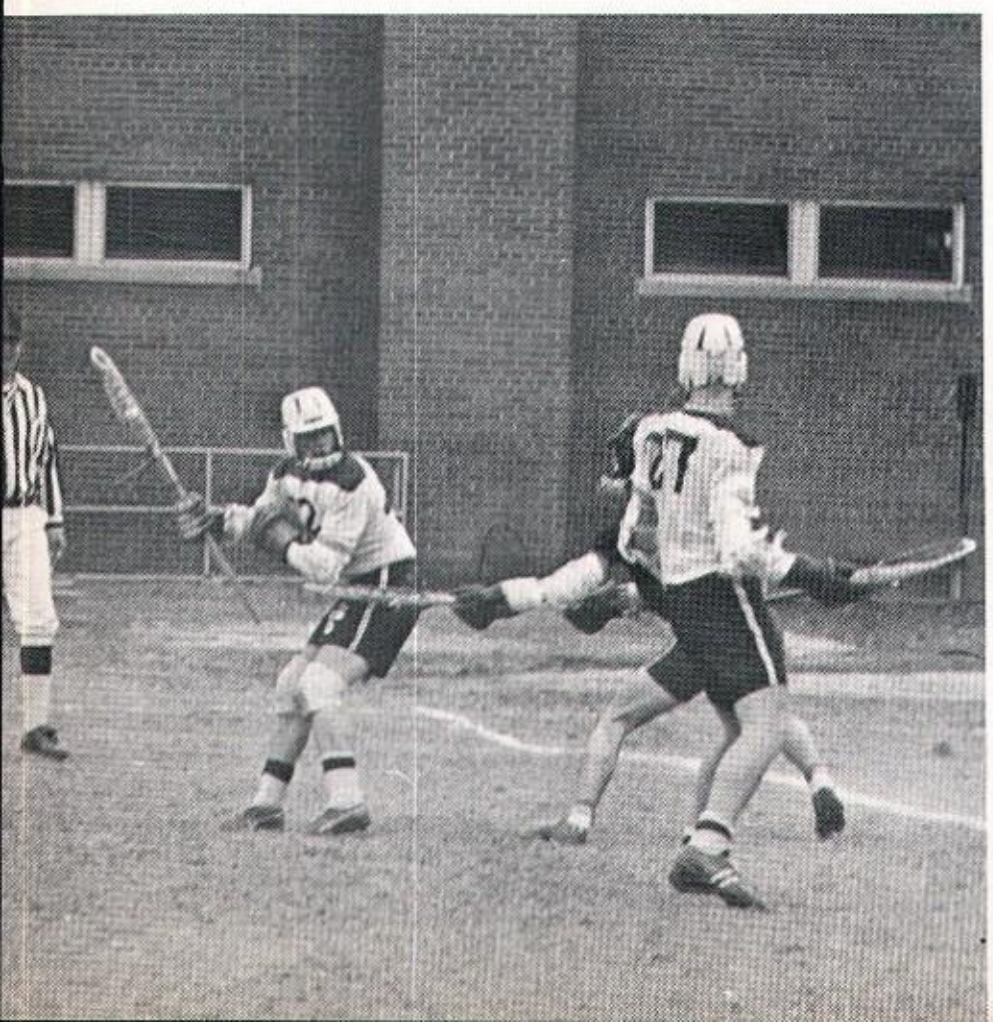
VARSITY LACROSSE



Lacking the depth and experience which characterized them last year, this year's Varsity Lacrosse team had a rather slow start, but improved steadily throughout the season. Hustle and teamwork rather than sheer individual ability proved to be their greatest assets.

The co-captains, third-year letterman Beetle Smith and always-hustling Whit Whittle led the first and second midfields, respectively, and proved themselves dependable and knowledgeable leaders. Backing them up at the midfield position was Jimmy Farrar, who constantly proved his worth by scoring more than his share of goals. Other promising junior middies—Mike Taylor, Milton Sams, and Craig Murray—showed ability and improvement.

The defense was definitely the most inexperienced section of the team, with no returning lettermen. The gap, however, was filled by crease-defenseman David "Lex" Luther and wing-defensemen Tebbs Prewitt and Rob Whittle, both of whom came up from last year's J.V. squad. Richard Moncure alternated at either wing position throughout the season and was a key factor in the defense's success.

"In the hole" for the Maroons was sophomore goalie Charlie Bagley, who handled what is probably the toughest position in lacrosse with ability and coolness.

The attack featured veterans Sandy Stuart and Baily Buck on the wings, both sure feeders and sly playmakers, Third-year letterman Ed McDonald traded his "tree" for a crease attackman's stick, which proved extremely valuable. Also seeing considerable action at crease were newcomers Doug Romaine and Lewis Fitts.

Mr. Shelor did an admirable job again this year, serving as the only coach on Varsity. He guided the team throughout the season, both with his insight into the game and with his morale-building sense of humor.

JV LACROSSE

The J.V. Lacrosse team, under the coaching o Mr. Smith, Pat Naul, and Bill Webster, had strong team marked by the appearance of fiv returning lettermen in the lineup. In the ke position of goalie was letterman Louis Ficklen who led the determined, hard-hitting defense o Dave Clarke, Joe Gilchrist, and Nick Conner. potent offense was spearheaded by Alex Kemp along with attackmen Ed Haggard and Scot Peyton. Alternating at the attack positions wit Kempe and Haggard were Stabler and Scotty Farrar. Because of the demands of the midfiel position, the team alternately played three sepa rate midfields. The first was made up of Heat Manning, Bo Root, and Clay Jacob. Playing o the second team were Harry Montague, Tom Steptoe, and Gordon Graham. Reed Parks Weyher Dawson, and Wade Walker composed th third group. With the presence of an experience goalie and three experienced attackmen, plus a inspiring coach in Mr. Smith, the J.V. Lacross team had a highly successful season.

As I look back on the session 1968-69, my recollections seem to fall into two main divisions. First, there were the things that every year has but which nevertheless mean the most—the class clown imitating the Headmaster, bull sessions going late into the night, touch football games on Stewart Field—the small events that memories are made of. But I believe that the senior class of this year has done more than merely create memories for itself; it has contributed something to the school which I hope will not soon fade away. It has created in a number of students an interest in improving the school, a dissatisfaction with many ancient school policies, and a refusal to do things merely for the sake of tradition. Many see these feelings as detrimental to the school, but on them rests the future of a school as resistant to change as this one.

The 1969 Whispers reflects, I believe, the condition of the entire school at this time: there have been a number of changes tentatively and cautiously made, but with high hopes of success. It will be up to the class of '70 and the administration to determine whether these changes are, in fact, improvements; but whether they are or not (and I personally feel that they are) the spirit of reformation has been present in the class of '69, and this is an enormous step forward. The monitors, the Chronicle staff, and other crusading seniors leave behind them the structure for bringing about changes in the school's rules and policies: the Student Curriculum Committee, the monitors' meetings, the Rule Book Committee, etc. Major changes in the leaves policy and minor ones in the rules and curriculum have already been effected. This is a start but no more. Much remains to be done: for example, the elimination of some of the more trivial items in the disciplinary system and updating of the standards of personal appearance, and a de-escalation of the athletic program. Perhaps even a re-examination of the very aims of the High School is in order—are "young Christian gentlemen" what is needed in today's society? But these are projects for future classes; as for the class of '69, it has done its part.

To the Graduating Class:

A Message of Congratulations from Virginia's Oldest National Bank

Although First & Citizens National Bank is the oldest National Bank in Virginia, founded in 1864, we dedicate ourselves to the future.

This year finds graduates at the threshold of tomorrow — entering a new and better world, with more challenges and more rewards than at any time in history. We of First and Citizens share with you every confidence in this future.

Many of you, we are sure, will come to know First & Citizens personally in the years ahead. We look forward to the pleasure of serving you as a financial counselor, as a neighbor, and as a fellow citizen. We pledge to serve you well.

Our heartfelt congratulations to each of you.
